Holiday Death Toll Mounts Steadily

Driving Conditions Hazardous

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Traffic	148
Fires	22
Miscellaneous	21
Total	191

The death toll from traffic accidents mounted steadily Saturday as the nation observed the long Christmas weekend.

Some 20 hours after the start of the holiday period at 6 p.m. Friday the count of dead in traffic mishaps stood at 148. Another 22 lives were lost in fires and 21 died in miscellaneous accidents for an overall total of 191.

Hazardous driving conditions in some sections of the Midwest contributed to the toll. Drivers in the Pacific northwest were hampered by freezing drizzle and dense fog.

Although the number of traffic deaths mounted at a rate of more than six an hour Saturday, the National Safety Council noted with satisfaction that the toll was running below that of last Christmas at the same hour.

"But the long weekend is just beginning," Howard Pyle, NBC president, warned. "We have it in our power to make this a safer and happier weekend by exercising extreme care and courtesy to meet the heavy traffic. Above all, don't drink if you drive."

The council has estimated 410 lives may be lost in traffic accidents during this year's 3-day 78-hour holiday period, from 6 p.m. (local time) Friday to midnight Monday.

During the 1959 Christmas holiday, also a 78-hour period, there were 493 traffic fatalities. Another 43 died in fires and 73 in other types of accidents for an overall toll of 609.

The record traffic toll for a 3-day 78-hour Christmas observance is 608, set in 1955. That year there were also 63 deaths from fires and 105 from miscellaneous accidents for an overall total of 782.

The greatest number of deaths for any holiday period is 884, set during the 4-day Christmas peri-

Tug Tows Broken Tanker, 5 Men Toward Port

NORFOLK, Va., (AP) — Five men bobbing in the Atlantic on half a tanker will find some of the trimmings missing from Christmas Day.

The five are riding the stern section of the broken American tanker Pine Ridge as it's being towed to port by two tugs.

Any Christmas dinner will have to be of their own making from food in the tanker's galley, situated in the stern section.

"They'll have to help themselves," said Alfred Kirchhoff, Staten Island, N. Y., skipper of the tug Crub which is towing the hulk. "We're not too worried about that" (Christmas).

Kirchhoff, in a ship-to-shore telephone conversation, said the men have sufficient food to tide them over until they reach Newport News late Sunday. He said the five have a generator going which supplies heat and light.

The tanker snapped in two Wednesday in mountainous seas 100 miles east of Cape Hatteras.

Kennedy Will Face Immediate Crisis On Disarm Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — President-elect John F. Kennedy will have to grapple with the disarmament policy crisis immediately after he takes office next month. At issue is the question of continuing negotiations with the Soviet Union for a nuclear weapons test ban.

Kennedy's decisions on the next move to be made by the United States, and the outcome of further exchanges with Britain and the Soviet Union on this whole crucial problem, may decisively influence the prospects for an East-West summit conference next spring or summer.

As U.S. diplomats foresee the situation, Kennedy will not yield to pressures from Soviet Premier Khrushchev for a summit session unless he is assured in advance of some positive achievement.

The nuclear weapons test ban issue provides the greatest possibility of agreement.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko told the Supreme Soviet (Parliament) in Moscow Friday that his government hoped for better relations with the United States under the Kennedy administration.

But diplomats here said an improvement in relations will require difficult adjustments in policy on the part of both great powers. And the fact is that with the possible exception of the Geneva test ban negotiations no such adjustments are in sight—either on the future of Berlin, or in the East-West struggles over Laos, the Congo, Cuba and other areas of conflict.

What puts a time pressure on the new administration is that the test ban talks in Geneva are slated to reopen Feb. 7. That will be only 18 days after Kennedy is inaugurated.

Kennedy said during the election campaign that he favored one more major effort to come to agreement with the Soviets on a treaty which would ban the testing of nuclear weapons to the maximum extent that the ban could be policed by agreed international inspection. The method and extent of inspection procedures is one of the great unresolved issues.

But regardless of what he said in the campaign, officials here agree, Kennedy's first task in determining his course will be to look at all the secret information that will become available to him as president and to hear the views of his policymakers.

Evacuate Theater After Gas Pipe Leak Discovered

NEW YORK (AP) — New York's largest legitimate theatre, filled to near capacity with 1,600 matinee performance patrons, was evacuated Saturday minutes after the curtain had gone up. A leak in an outside gas pipe was responsible for the precautionary measure.

The 63-member cast in the long-run Broadway hit, "The Music Man," also was ordered out of the Broadway Theatre, at Broadway and 53rd Street.

The evacuation was ordered by the fire department after the dangerous leak was discovered in gas pipes outside the theatre along 53rd Street.

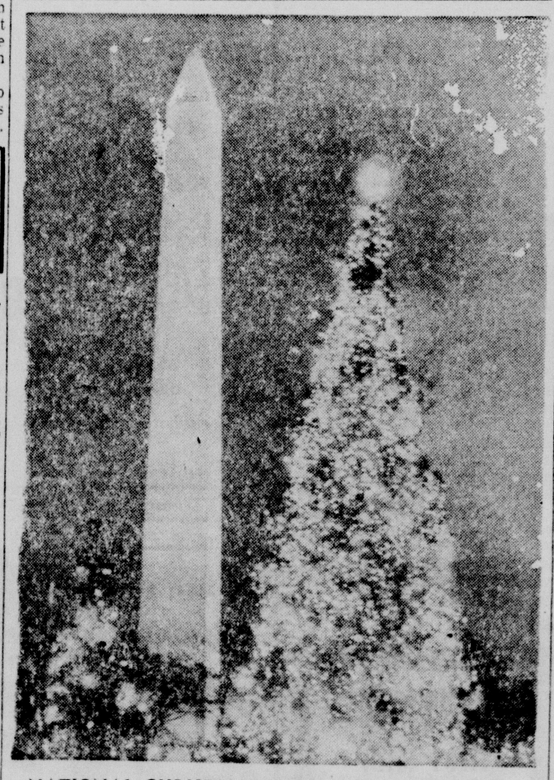

Henry Caubisens, the stage manager, interrupted the show at the end of the first scene of the first act and ordered the house lights turned on.

Taking the stage, he told the holiday audience that an emergency condition existed. He emphasized that the leak was in the street, not in the theatre itself. The evacuation was orderly.

The Broadway Theatre has the largest capacity of any legitimate New York theatre. "The Music Man," now in its third year on Broadway, moved there last Oct. 17 in order to accommodate larger crowds. Bert Parks currently has the starring role in the musical production.

AFRICAN TOURIST TRADE DROPS

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — Unrest in Africa is cutting South Africa's tourist trade. Luxury cruise liners are taking their customers elsewhere in this south-of-the equator summertime. Experts estimate the decline in visitors will mean a loss of at least $4 million to South Africans who cater to tourists.

NATIONAL CHRISTMAS TREE — The sparkling National Christmas Tree is given a test lighting to make sure it is in proper order for the official lighting ceremony by President Eisenhower. The 75-foot Douglas fir, a gift from the people of Oregon, is decorated with some 8,000 lights and ornaments. It is located on the Ellipse near the White House. Washington monument is in background. HOLY NIGHT — The world celebrates the birth of Christ on this, Christmas Day. Traditional services in Jacksonville honoring the Christ Child on the Eve of Christmas is a long-standing custom at Trinity Church.

The Trinity Choir, composed of the best voices from a number of local churches, presents both traditional and unusual carols for the enjoyment and spiritual preparation of all in attendance.

This picture was taken last year on Christmas eve especially for use in this edition.

History Of Christmas

No One Knows Precisely When Christ Was Born

By JAMES LOH
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Plainly the birth of Christ was one of the most significant events in the history of the world.

It brought lordly kings to a lowly stable; it caused Herod of Judea to commit one of the cruelest atrocities known to man; and it gave the world a new date of reckoning—anno Domini.

Yet no one knows precisely when it happened.

Christmas was not one of the earliest Christian festivals, and before the fifth century there was no general agreement when to celebrate it.

Various chronologists suggested May 20, April 19, Nov. 17 and other dates, but most churches resolved the problem simply by including the birth celebration in the baptismal feast of Jan. 6.

Meantime, the chief pagan festival of the day was "Natalis Invicti Solis"—the birthday of the unconquerable sun. It was celebrated throughout the Roman Empire on Dec. 25, during the winter solstice and the month of Yule.

It was logical in the Christianizing efforts of church leaders to supplant the pagan celebration with one in honor of the birth of Christ—the "sun of righteousness," as Malachi had written. Logical, maybe, but not easy.

The transition began about the year 354 and took nearly two centuries. Though all aspects of paganism were gone from the Christian application of the feast, Syrians, Armenians and others who clung to Jan. 6 accused the Roman Christians of sun worship; and when Bishop Juvenal introduced the new date in Jerusalem it caused riots.

As Christianity spread, acceptance of Dec. 25 as the Lord's birthday gradually came about.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Christmas came in a troubled world Sunday and millions took time off to celebrate the birth of the Prince of Peace.

Europe relaxed in the bounty of an economic boom. Soldiers of the United Nations celebrated in the troubled Congo. In some parts of Asia Christmas was a secular holiday of merrymaking. Some had Christmas festivals behind the Iron Curtain.

Pilgrims went again to the hilltop in Bethlehem where the Christ child was born about 20 centuries ago. Christmas services began Saturday afternoon and the rites were filled with ancient pageantry and faith.

Europe celebrated according to its ancient traditions, but this Christmas was probably the Continent's merriest on record because of an economic boom. In Britain, for example, Christmas spending was 25 per cent above last year and poultry sales totaled a record $50 million.

In West Germany, Chancellor Konrad Adenauer advised that gift parcels for orphanages should contain some chocolate and an orange.

"Chocolates and oranges are what I wanted for Christmas when I was a boy," he said, "but I rarely got them."

Queen Elizabeth II of Britain listened to carolers at her Sandringham estate and then invited them into the royal drawing room for a songfest. The queen joined in, and then her daughter, Princess Anne, 10, gave a solo rendition of "The First Noel."

Europe's weather was warmer than normal with little snow. In the United States, the Weather Bureau forecast mild weather over most of the Plains and warming trend in the East to break a pre-Christmas cold snap.

ARGENTINE TO CUT GAS PRICE

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—Argentina, nearing self-sufficiency in oil production, may reduce gasoline prices as much as 15 per cent, informed sources report. Motorists now pay the equivalent of 28 cents a gallon.

2 Children, Man Killed, 9 Injured In 5 Car Crash

ONTARIO, Ore. (AP) — Five cars crashed in icy fog and darkness north of here Saturday, killing two children and scattering gaily wrapped Christmas packages across the highway.

The children's mother was gravely hurt and blood was rushed here from Boise as surgeons sought to save her life.

The dead children were Bert Chaffin Jr., 8, and Edith Emaline Chaffin, 6 months, St. Helens, Ore. Also dead was their uncle, Tony R. Jensen, 29, Oregon City, Ore.

Freezing fog blanketed wide areas of the Northwest.

The crash series started soon after Morris Nelson, 29, of Dalles, Ore., pulled over, stopped and cleaned his windshield. A following car, driven by Mariano Bilbao, Nampa, Idaho, skidded past

MARIE DIONNE HOULE BECOMES MOTHER OF DAUGHTER

MONTREAL (AP) — Marie Dionne Houle joined two of her quintuplet sisters in motherhood this Christmas Eve by giving birth to a girl. The two other quints have boys.

Both Marie and the baby, 5 pounds and 13 ounces, were reported in fine health at St. Justine's Hospital. This is the first child for Marie and Florian Houle, married two years ago.

"We are both very happy," the court clerk father said. "We had hoped all along it would be a girl."

Of the four quints still living, Yvonne Dionne is unmarried.

Emilie Dionne died in 1954, suffocating in a pillow during an epileptic seizure. She was then 20 and a postulant (student nun) at Ste. Agathe, Que.

Cecile, Mrs. Philippe Langlois, was the first of the quints to bear a child. She had a boy in September 1958.

Annette and her husband, Jean-Francois Allard, became parents of a boy two months later.

Cecile had another boy this year.

The quintuplets were born to Mr. and Mrs. Oliva Dionne on May 28, 1934. The family then lived in a modest farm house near Callander, Ont., and included five other children.

Marie entered the hospital Saturday shortly after midnight. The birth came at 3:38 a.m.

Crowds Gather In Holy Land

To Observe Nativity Of Christ

BETHLEHEM, Jordan (AP) —Bethlehem embraced Christmas Eve with cheerful fervor Saturday and then prepared solemnly to observe the nativity of Christ.

Bells pealed, bands played and carols echoed across the Little Manger Square, packed with about 12,000 persons — tourists and Jordanians.

Candles lighted a nearby grotto for Bethlehem's ancient and splendid reenactment of Jesus Christ's birth.

Outside the Church of the Nativity, the hilltop town of 20,000 sparkled with sun and color while the jostling throng strained to see the first of the Christmas rites.

This was the entry of the Latin patriarch after his annual procession along 13 winding miles from Jerusalem.

Like Bethlehem itself, they were mixtures of East and West. A Jordan Legion band and a bagpipe corps marched and played numbers ranging from "Dixie" to "O Come All Ye Faithful."

Girl and Boy Scouts, choir boys, shoeshine boys, U.S. servicemen on leave, elderly tourists shepherded in flocks, Arabs in native headdress, pilgrims from Chile, Germany, Italy and Korea, priests and police all mingled in the square.

Over a loudspeaker atop the Church of the Nativity, recorded voices chorused "Hark the Herald Angels Sing," "Joy to the World" and "Silent Night."

At 1:30 p.m. bells atop the church gonged and five mounted policemen with lances raised aloft pranced into the square to herald the coming of Patriarch Alberto Gori and his priestly train, including canons from the Church of the Holy Sepulchre in Jerusalem.

As the patriarch moved through the Greek Orthodox basilica into the Roman Catholic Church of St. Catherine, Greek monks chanted at their altar. Latins responded and their voices echoed and blended in the 1,600-year-old church.

Latin vespers were chanted. These were followed two hours later by a short service in the Grotto of the Nativity, reached by a descent from the main level of the church down marble steps to a small cave — or manger — accepted as the place where Christ was born.

Seize Leader Of Ethiopian Revolt, Kill His Brother

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP) —Ethiopian soldiers Saturday captured Brig. Gen. Mengistu Neway, the top rebel military leader, and killed his brother.

Mengistu Neway, 45, and his brother Girmame, 38, were the last two top-ranking rebels at large. The brothers were considered the main leaders of the abortive uprising against Emperor Haile Selassie last week. Mengistu commanded the Imperial Guard, military nucleus of the revolt. Girmame was governor of Jigjiga province.

Mengistu Neway was seized after a skirmish with heavily armed police. They closed in on the brothers' hideout at Nazareth, about 70 miles east of Addis Ababa, after being tipped off by villagers who recognized the elder of the fugitive brothers.

He was hospitalized here for treatment of wounds so he can

Indicate Soviets Plan New Year's Crisis Over Berlin

BERLIN (AP)—Two little-noticed events have aroused speculation that the Communists may be planning a New Year's crisis over Berlin.

One was a secret visit by Walter Dowling, U.S. ambassador to West Germany, to Mikhail Pervukhin, the Soviet ambassador in East Germany.

The other was a line buried in a Moscow speech Friday by Andrei A. Gromyko, the Soviet foreign minister.

The crisis, if it comes, will be touched off by a failure of West Germany and Communist East Germany to sign a trade pact. The question of free travel and transport to isolated West Berlin, across Communist territory, is closely bound up with this. If there is no pact, the Communists will have new excuses to interfere.

The Gromyko reference came in his speech to the Supreme Soviet — Parliament. He attacked West Germany's position in the trade negotiations.

"The line followed by the government of the Federal Republic," Communist papers quoted him as saying, "leads not only to complication of the relations between the (East) German Democratic Republic and the (West) German Federal Republic, but also to a dangerous complication in the relations among the four powers who are bound by special duties with regard to Germany."

The four powers are the major victors of World War II—the United States, Soviet Union, Britain and France. Gromyko seems to

Pope John Prays For Men To Live Like Brothers

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John XXIII began this Christmas Day with a prayer for Christ to "put in the hearts of men that peace which they so bitterly seek."

Help mankind, the pontiff prayed at a midnight Mass, "to know each other better and to live like brothers of the same Father."

The 79-year-old head of the Roman Catholic Church read his prayer at the end of a brief speech in French for the Vatican diplomatic corps at the Mass in the Pauline Chapel.

Pope John said his prayer was "the prayer of all men and one which implores from heaven that what the earth cannot give them: fraternity, love and peace."

Leading Roman Catholics in the religious observance of Christmas, Pope John's celebration of midnight Mass was like services in Catholic churches throughout the world expressing joy on the anniversary of the birth of Jesus Christ.

But he celebrated his Mass before relatively few—the smartly uniformed envoys from the 50 or so nations having diplomatic relations with the Vatican.

This is the third time Pope John has celebrated Christmas midnight Mass for the diplomatic corps. He revived the observance in 1958. Pope Pius XII abandoned it during World War II.

Later Sunday Pope John will celebrate Mass in St. Peter's Basilica for thousands of Romans and tourists here for the holidays.

At noon, after the Mass, the Pope will give his blessing to the city of Rome and the world.

Belgian Premier Appeals For End To 4-Day Strike

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP)—Prime Minister Gaston Eyskens appealed to workers Saturday night to end their crippling strikes which he said "threaten Belgium's very institutions.

Troops were ordered out to guard railroads and bridges and the government promised swift punishment to saboteurs.

Eyskens in a nationwide radio-TV address said the four-day-old Socialist - sponsored widespread strikes against his government's proposed austerity program stems from ignorance of the measures.

The troops were called out after a train was derailed in Namur Province.

Postal trucks were damaged in several areas.

Striking began last Tuesday in hope of forcing withdrawal of the austerity plans which Parliament has not yet approved. The $120-million program will cut social welfare services and provide new and higher taxes.

The strikes appeared to gain strength in Liege, Charleroi, Antwerp and Ghent. Violence was reported in industrial Liege and Antwerp when police tried to restrain pickets. Some shopkeepers who refused to close were beaten. No arrests were reported.

HOLLAND, MILLIONAIRE SPORTSMAN, KILLED

LEWISTON, N. Y. (AP) —Charles B. Holland, 47, millionaire sportsman, was injured fatally Saturday when his automobile skidded off the ice-covered Niagara River Road and struck a tree north of here.

Holland, a bobsled enthusiast, was the son of Charles Holland-Moritz, cofounder of the Aluminum Co., of America. He resided in nearby Youngstown.

Kennedys Have 14-Foot Tree, Stockings Hung With Care

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—The spirit of Christmas, symbolized by a 14-foot tree and seven angels and stockings over the fireplace, took over the household of President-elect John F. Kennedy on Christmas Eve.

The tree is in the living room, topped by a lighted Santa Claus, with a silver-spangled cover at the base. But in the family tradition the decorating was put off until Saturday evening with an important part for perky, excited Caroline, 3.

On hand for the holidays are Kennedys ranging from the heads of the clan, 72-year-old Joseph P. Kennedy and his wife, down through the president-elect and his wife, to daughter Caroline and on to the newest Kennedy. That would be John F. Jr., who will be a month old Sunday and entirely too young to enjoy Christmas.

Then there is Miss Ann Gargan of Boston, a cousin of the president-elect.

For each of these seven, clinging to the holly above the mantel in the high, beamed ceiling living room, is a silver and gold angel. And the Christmas stockings all have different names on them.

Two callers came to the Kennedy home Saturday and both visits involved Latin America.

A member of the Peruvian Senate, Juan M. Pena-Prado, brought Kennedy a good will message from his cousin, President Manuel Parado of Peru, and an invitation to visit the country. Pena-Prado said afterward that Kennedy told him he can't make the trip before his inauguration but will be glad to at some later time.

The two men talked about economic problems in Latin America and Communist infiltration, Pena-Prado said.

Rep. Abraham Multer, D-N.Y., flew over from Nassau in the Bahamas, where he is vacationing, to report on a trip to Mexico, Guatemala, Costa Rica and Panama on which he studied international monetary problems and balances of payments. Multer is a member of the House Banking Committee.

Concord Home Bureau Meets At Nickel Home

CONCORD — The Harmony Home Bureau unit of Concord, Ill., met at the home of Mrs. Otto Nickel on Friday afternoon, Dec. 16, with 16 members present.

The chairman, Mrs. Harold Joy, presided. The major lesson, "The Magic of Christmas" was presented by Mrs. Otto Nickel. The selected subject, "Keeping Christmas," was given by Mrs. Roscoe Goodpasture.

The minutes of the November meeting were approved as read by the secretary, Mrs. Otto Nickel. Roll call was answered by 16 members showing holiday decorations they had made.

Reports were given by the following chairman: vice chairman, Mrs. Carl Robison; safety, Miss Frances Gaddis; health, Mrs. Henry Zillaut; Mrs. Daniel Dietrick, education and legislation; and Mrs. Roy Nickel, 4-H chairman, who also reported the Concord Busy Bees will give the 4-H radio program on January 14.

Mrs. Joy read a Christmas greeting from the County Home Bureau president, Mrs. Lawrence Mallicoat, and gave the high lights of the county board meeting. Dates to remember are: hat lesson, Feb. 27; officer's training school, Jan. 25; and play day, March 24.

The group sang "Joy to the World," led by Mrs. Paul Hess. The recreation chairman, Mrs. Robert Kircher, was in charge of recreation.

It was announced hostesses for January and February have exchanged months, so the Jan. 20 meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. W. A. Martin and the February hostess will be Mrs. Dale Braner.

Mrs. Nickel had prepared a beautifully decorated tea table from which guests were served Christmas cookies, ice cream and coffee with Mrs. Harold Joy pouring.

TI JUANA CLUB ENTERTAINED AT JOHNSON HOME

Mrs. Florence Johnson, 769 South Fayette Street, was hostess to the Ti Juana Club recently with Mary Gray and Florence Pearson as special guests. After the business session the club played bridge.

Mrs. Lillian Holt, a club member, was reported sick.

ADVERTISE—IT PAYS

With The Girl Scouts

The Girl Scout office will be closed during the holidays, re-opening Tuesday morning, Jan. 3, when school reconvenes. We hope that all Girl Scouts in our Council area will have a very happy holiday and perhaps include some service to others in their plans. Many troops have gone caroling and have made favors and small gifts for others less fortunate than themselves in addition to their busy plans for parties and gift-making for their families.

Some troops will continue activities during the holidays—notably Senior Troop 13 of Jacksonville High School. This troop will entertain other Senior troops and freshman and sophomore girls who are interested in becoming Girl Scouts at a get-together on Tuesday, Dec. 27, at 2 p.m. at the Congregational church in Jacksonville. The film of last year's Senior Roundup "A Mile High—A World Wide" will be shown. Mrs. Robert Hemphill is leader of Troop 13.

Miss Carol Abbott and Miss Virginia Gronseth, Roundup girls last year, are home for the holidays. Carol from Lincoln, Neb., and Virginia from Western Michigan University at Kalamazoo.

Annual Meeting

Looking ahead for the coming events in Scouting we want to emphasize the annual meeting of Illinois Prairie Girl Scout Council. This very important session will be held Thursday, Jan. 19, at 1 p.m at the home of Mrs. William Gross, 1231 Mound avenue in Jacksonville. All members of the Council are urged to attend. There will be election of officers and important business transacted. Every registered adult in Girl Scouting is a member of the Council.

Intermediate troops in Jacksonville have been asked to donate two dozen cookies per troop for the Council meeting. Cookies may be brought to the Scout office on Thursday morning, Jan. 19.

Committee meetings scheduled for the first week in January are: Camp committee at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday, Jan. 4, at the Scout office; Public Relations on Friday, Jan. 6, at 9:30 a.m. at the office and the program committee at 11:30 a.m. the same day at Hamilton's cafe.

On Friday afternoon, Jan. 6, there will be a meeting of mothers in Roodhouse regarding troop organization at 2 p.m. at the high school.

Troop News

Intermediate Troop 63, Mrs. Howard Choate, leader, enjoyed a Christmas luncheon at Hamilton's cafe on Thursday of last week Mrs. Roy Christison assisted Mrs. Choate. The long table was attractively decorated and Christmas favors were at each place.

Mrs. Donald K. Robinson, leader of Troop No. 88, Intermediate Girl Scouts of Lincoln school, and her assistant, Mrs. John Keplinger, have been helping the girls in a special service project for Passavant Hospital. Large sheets of aluminum cutouts for Christmas were sent to the hospital by Wearever Aluminum company. The troop undertook to assemble and complete the cut-outs. Mrs. Carroll Lewis of Passavant hospital assisted in the project also. Several hundred were completed and returned to the hospital, others were taken to the Meline Nursing Home on North Church street by troop members. This troop also had a Christmas party on Monday at Lincoln school.

Brownie Troop No. 86 of Lincoln school, Mrs. Harvey Leake leader, had a different party on Wednesday at school. They observed Christ's birthday with a birthday party complete with a birthday cake with one candle. They sang carols and listened to a recording of the Christmas story. During the lighting of the birthday cake candle, they sang "Light One Light." Centerpiece at the table was one large candle. The girls made Christmas gifts for their mothers and took them home at this time.

Intermediate Troop No. 23 of South Jacksonville school, Mrs. William E. Smith leader, had a Christmas party Thursday at the home of Mrs. Charles Burger, assistant troop leader. Later this troop went carolling with Troop No. 76 of Washington school. They visited several nursing homes.

Mrs. Willard Fulkerson's Intermediate Troop No. 41 of South Jacksonville had a party Thursday at school to which the mothers were invited. There was a gift exchange and refreshments were served. Last Friday night they went carolling, visiting several nursing homes. The girls were served hot chocolate before they went home.

Collect Food

Brownie Troop No. 48 of Franklin school is collecting a box of groceries for the Turner family, whose house burned. This is their Christmas project.

Troop No. 60 of Our Saviour's school, Mrs. Paul J. Magner leader, made coasters from blotters for their mothers for Christmas and pencil holders for their fathers made from orange juice cans covered with an anklet hose and the toe stuffed with cotton. The gift looked like a Christmase stocking This troop has been very busy doing service for Our Saviour's hospital and for the Altar and Rosary Society.

The office staff wishes to extend very best wishes to all Girl Scouts and adult volunteers for a very merry Christmas and happy and prosperous New Year, full of Scouting activities.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Goben were hosts at their home on Friday night with a supper for members of the Goben-Heberling wedding party.

Mrs. Ada Kemmery was hostess at the Hilltop Haven on Wednesday night with a turkey supper and party for personnel of the nursing home. A gift exchange was enjoyed and a social evening spent.

Harold L. Milnes has returned from Marlin, Texas, where he attended the wedding of his son, Ronald L. Milnes and Miss Jo Ann Stone.

Pike Residents Expect Guests For Holidays

PITTSFIELD — Dr. and Mrs. Dean Artman are expecting several house guests for the holidays. Mr and Mrs. Kenneth Swofford and infant daughter, Meemee of Memphis, Tenn., and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Swofford of St Louis will arrive Christmas Eve. Mrs. Artman's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Wright Sim and Ron of Hastings, Mich., will arrive Christmas day.

Christmas night Dr. and Mrs Artman and the Kenneth Swoffords will entertain the younger group at an Open House, honoring Mr. and Mrs. Raymond A. Scheiter Jr., who were married in Quincy on Dec. 17th. Mrs. Scheiter is the former Rose Ann Collins, formerly of Pittsfield.

Mr. and Mrs. John B. Sutter left Thursday from St. Louis by train for Kingsville, Texas, where they will spend Christmas with their son-in-law and daughter, Lt. and Mrs. Keith Huisman and family. Lt. Huisman is in the army and stationed in Kingsville.

Lt. and Mrs. William B. Bima of Big Springs, Texas, will spend the holidays with Mrs. Bima's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Art Ator. Mrs. Bima is the former Roseavon Ator, her husband is stationed at Webb Air Force Base.

Ice Blamed For Smashup; One Car Demolished

A 1954 Oldsmobile belonging to Claude L. Rattler, 502 North West street, was virtually demolished in a collision Saturday morning at North East and Dunlap streets. Ice and snow covered the intersection where the accident occurred at 9:32 o'clock.

Rattler was driving south in the intersection. The other car, a 1960 Chevrolet driven east by Harold D. Zulauf, struck the right side of the Oldsmobile and knocked it against a telephone pole, according to a police report.

Officers described damage to Rattler's car as "complete," while the Arenzville man's Chevrolet had front end damage but was able to proceed under its own power.

Capt. Francis Willner and Patrolman Fred Splain investigated the accident.

Concord Church Has Xmas Party

CONCORD—The annual pot-luck supper and Christmas party for the Christian church of Concord was held Saturday night, December 17, at Morgan Hall.

After supper gifts were distributed, and the treats from the Sunday Bible school were passed out to the children, followed by all present singing Christmas carols.

Those attending were Mr. and Mrs. Donald Hatfield, Donna, David, Mike and Patty, Mr. and Mrs. Max Flavio and Max Lee, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Crews, Kay, Larry, Danny, Kim and Randy, Mr. and Mrs. Max Baise and Greg, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Mattes and Terry, Charles Ogle.

NOW at the TIMES

Elizabeth Taylor and Eddie Fisher, married in private life, appear together on the screen for the first time in "Butterfield 8," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer film version of John O'Hara's explosive novel. Also starred in the new Pandro S. Berman production are Laurence Harvey and Dina Merrill. Now showing at the Frisina Times Theatre.

Decorated Xmas Tree Sawed Down

Jacksonville would rank high on the list if "The Meanest Thief" was chosen at Christmas Time.

A six and one-half foot evergreen tree ornamented with lights was sawed down and stolen Friday night in front of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Brune, 851 North Church street.

Mr. Brune told police the lights were turned off on the 12 year old tree about 10 o'clock Friday night. Yesterday morning it was missing, with the trunk sawed through near the ground.

Police made a record of the theft. Several officers said it would be "more than a pleasure" to apprehend the thief, who is believed to have used a truck to haul away the tree—lights and all!

Findley Will Wind Up Series Of Conferences

PITTSFIELD — Congressman-elect Paul Findley of Pittsfield will complete a circuit of county-seats of the district next week. He will leave December 30 to begin his duties in Washington.

The schedule:

Tuesday, Dec. 27—8:30 to 9:30, courtroom, Mt. Sterling; 10:30 to 11:30, supervisors' room, Carthage; 1:30 to 3:00, circuit courtroom, Havana; 3:30 to 4:30, county courtroom, Petersburg.

Wednesday, Dec. 28—10 to 11 a.m., courtroom, Hardin; 1 to 2:30, county courtroom, Jerseyville; 3:30 to 4:30, supervisors' room, Carrollton.

Thursday, Dec. 29—9 to 10 a.m., city hall, Beardstown; 10:30 to 11:30, courtroom, Rushville.

Findley has previously visited Virginia, Quincy, Jacksonville, Winchester, and Macomb, and added Beardstown to the list due to the number of drainage districts in that area. He has also met a number of delegations and individuals in Pittsfield.

Purpose of his tour of county-seats is to get views of constituents on legislation, and also to aid them in any problems they may have with the federal government.

He has found considerable interest in these dates, and plans to make similar tours of the district as often as possible during his term.

He has arranged for use of Room 232 in the Federal Building in Quincy when he is in that city, and will also have a part-time field representative in the district.

The 20th District has a large land area and includes many levee and drainage districts, most of which have problems concerning the federal government.

POLICE MAGISTRATE ASSESSES FINES

Police Magistrate Fred Daniels held a session of court Saturday morning at the city hall, with the following fines being assessed:

William Spencer, 308 Finley, $10 speeding; Ann L. Doolin, 746 Allen avenue, $10 failure to yield right-of-way; D. Shalamakas, Chicago, $15 driving too fast for conditions; Larry Downs, 121½ Diamond Court, $10 no city sticker.

There were a number of fines for parking violations.

SEASON'S GREETINGS to my city friends and many thanks for cards and gifts received.

Mrs. S. C. Duvall

Turkey Dinner Served To Bindery Employees

Employees of Hertzberg - New Method, Inc., held their seventh annual Christmas party at the Amvets hall. Approximately 200 were served a delicious turkey dinner with pumpkin pie for dessert.

Master of ceremonies Jim Orr kept things moving toward the highlight of the evening, a short talk by the company's president, L. E. Hertzberg, who described his recent trip to Europe, where he visited seven countries and ten bookbinderies.

After a distribution of gifts by Santa Claus the Christmas bonus checks were passed out by the plant superintendent, Elmer Sorge, assisted by several members of the committee.

The playing of bingo, with prizes of gift certificates and table decorations, was a prelude to dancing to the music of Boots Brennan orchestra.

The entertainmetn commmittee headed by Mary Seymour, was made up of Marjorie Sullivan, Jean Blackman, Barbara Lawson, Janice Lamkular, Hazel Cummings, Kenneth Mills, Russell Keirl, Margaret White and Wanda Waiman. Group singing of Christmas carols was also enjoyed.

Pick Home Lighting Winners At Chapin

The Christmas home lighting contest in Chapin closed December 21, with the judging of the entries in the evening. The judges reported many beautiful displays both in the village and surrounding area. The committee in charge of the contest is most grateful for the interest shown and wishes to publicly thank all those who participated.

Judges for the contest were Mr. and Mrs. Bill W. Buchanan and Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Logue of Jacksonville. The following received cash awards for their entreis:

Religious: Max Brockhouse, first.

200 Attend Roodhouse Envelope Company Party

ROODHOUSE — The annual Employes party for the Roodhouse Envelope Co. was held in the American Legion Home, Saturday night, and began with a dinner served by the American Legion Auxiliary. The table decorations carried out the Christmas motif and attending were approximately 200 persons who included the entire personnel and wives or husbands and others. The co-owners of the factory, Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Moulton and Mr. and Mrs. John Strain, were among those attending. Heading the committee on arrangements was John Harms one of the office personnel. Each lady present was presented with a Christmas corsage and the men with holly boutonnieres. Organ music was furnished throughout the dinner by Mrs. L. W. Brannan. Invocation preceding the dinner was offered by Miss Isolda Fugger.

Twenty prizes were awarded during the social hour following. Door prize was awarded to Mr. and Mrs. Lee Keller. Dancing concluded the festivities with Lyndell Symonds, and orchestra, Jacksonville, furnishing the music. Soloist was Jim Hall.

Mrs. Sullivan Hospitalized

Friends in Roodhouse have received word that Mrs. W. E. Sullivan 603 Beecher, Jacksonville, is a patient at the Passavant hospital in that city. Mrs. Sullivan is the only living charter member of the local Christian church in which the family figured prominently for many years while residing in Roodhouse and since. Mrs. Sullivan has a daughter, Miss Leta Sullivan, at home; another daughter, Mrs. Herman Lein, Champaign; and a son, Lee Sullivan, Jacksonville.

Mrs. C. W. Jones, Jacksonville, formerly of Roodhouse, has been released from the Our Saviour's hospital, Jacksonville, and is again at the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Cade, 1204 W. College, Jacksonville.

At Kansas Rites

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Turner and daughter, Martha Ellen, have returned from Phillipsburg, Kans., where they attended funeral services Friday for her uncle, Herman Dusin of Kersey, Colo. The body was taken to Kersey for a second service and burial.

Miss Lena Keys, Carrollton, will spend the holidays with her sister-in-law, Mrs. Alva Keyes of this city.

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Markwell have returned from Troy where they visited with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Wyatt, and son. While away, Mr. Markwell attended a Shriners banquet in Kansas City attended by 5000 at which time 99 new members were initiated. On Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Markwell drove to Barry where they visited in the home of friends, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Kellum. The Markwells will return to Troy for the holidays.

WSCS Meeting Held At Camm Home In Franklin

FRANKLIN — The W.S.C.S. of the Methodist Church met at the home of Mrs. Clara Camm on Wednesday afternoon with 14 members answering roll call with a Bible verse. The president, Mrs. Ralph Dahman, opened the meeting with prayer after which Mrs. Lloyd Dahman had charge of the devotions. She read John 1:14-18 and Matthew 1:22-23, followed by silent prayer.

After the business she also had charge of the program, the subject being "Emmanuel, God With Us." The group sang several Christmas carols with a story about each song. Mrs. Clarence Jewsbury assisted by reading two of the numbers and was pianist for all the numbers.

During the business session the group voted to send $25 to Dale Bryant and wife in Alaska. The Lazy Mountain Home where they teach was destroyed by fire last Friday. The president, closed the meeting with a thought for the day. Lovely refreshments were served during the social hour.

Mission Society

The Missionary Society of the Christian Church met Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Frank Reagel. The meeting opened with the missionary prayer. Mrs. Vera Jacobs had charge of the devotions, reading scripture from Luke and 1 John. Her topic was "Who Is My Neighbor." She closed with a poem "The Christian Home."

Mrs. Mildred Fisher gave a talk on "How Well Do You Know Your Neighbor" and read the Christmas story from Luke. Mrs. Allyn Sweet was program leader and her topic was "Our Churches Look to the Future." Mrs. Fisher had the special number, a Bible quiz. The meeting closed with the missionary benediction. Refreshments were served by the hostess.

West Side Club Has Xmas Party

The woman's West Side Club held its annual Christmas party Friday evening, Dec. 9, at the home of Mrs. Gertrude Dugan, 649 South Kosciusko St. at which time a turkey dinner was served.

Mrs. Dugan's home was decorated in keeping with the Christmas season. Guests included Mrs. Rosa Carter, Mrs. Bridie Waggoner, Mrs. Mary Colby, Mrs Ruth Hill, Mrs. Mazie Young, Mrs Elgin Cooper, Mrs. Irene Brown, Mrs. Elizabeth Reeves, Jimmy Miller, Arthur Harris, Henry Edwards, Robert Smith, McKinley Wright, Richard Mitchell and Mrs. Jean Riddlespringer.

Games were played and members exchanged gifts.

Those serving on the Christmas party committee were Mrs. Louisa Bundy, Mrs. Laura Smith, Mrs. Mattie Richards, Mrs. Minnie Edwards and Mrs. Gertrude Dugan.

BLIGH'S BREADFRUIT

Jamaica owes its breadfruit crops to Captain Bligh of H.M.S. Bounty fame. The Pacific plant was imported as an inexpensive starch food for slaves.

J. Hedgecocks Of Greenfield Wed 25 Years

GREENFIELD—Mr. and Mrs James Milburn Hedgecock celebrated their silver wedding anniversary at open house Sunday afternoon in the social rooms of the Baptist Annex.

Mrs. Hedgecock is the former Edna Doyle of Alton. They were married Dec. 23, 1935, in East Alton. He formerly was employed by Shell Petroleum of Wood River and for a number of years they have resided on a farm east of Greenfield.

Mr. Hedgecock is the son of Mr and Mrs. G. S. Hedgecock, who celebrated their 51st wedding anniversary last October. A large number of relatives and friends called during the afternoon. A tiered wedding cake centered the refreshment table. Decorations and table appointments carried out the silver theme.

Roodhouse Man Quietly Observes 83rd Birthday

William Mann, longtime resident of Roodhouse, quietly observed his 83rd birthday anniversary Dec. 20 at the Dameron Nursing Home where he is spending the winter.

Santa To Visit

Santa Claus will make his annual visit to Roodhouse, as scheduled by the Roodhouse Community Christmas Planning committee, on Saturday afternoon and will hold open house at his own Santa Claus house built each year in the uptown park for that purpose.

Santa Claus will arrive earlier at the City Hall and expects to proceed from there to his house aboard the city fire truck. All children in the community are invited to attend the open house and receive the usual treat.

Family Dinner

A family dinner will be served at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clem Yeager, Christmas Eve, with the following children and families in attendance: Mr. and Mrs. Bill Wheeler and family, Alton; Mr and Mrs. Denton Coonrod and sons, Winchester; and a niece, Mrs. Jim Houseman, husband and family, Kokomo, Ind.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Smith have left for St. Petersburg, Fla., where they will spend a portion of the holidays in the home of his brother, Earl L. Smith, and wife. Previously the Smiths had made a pre-Christmas visit to the home of their daughter, Mrs. Kenneth Staley, and family, Pontiac.

Mr. and Mrs. George Fischbeck returned Wednesday evening from a visit in the home of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Riney, Alton. Spending Christmas in the Fischbeck home will be the Riney family, Alton; a son, Dick Fischbeck, and wife Peoria, and Mr. and Mrs. Manford Fischbeck, city.

A Christmas Day dinner will be served at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Derrol Angle and family with the following relatives present: Mrs. Henry Brant, Mr. and Mrs Hubert Marsh, Mr. and Mrs. Keith Angle, Roodhouse; and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Brant and family, Jacksonville.

A family dinner will be served at the home of Mrs. Amanda Reeve on Christmas Day with the following present, her daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Nels Harris, and Mr. and Mrs. J. B Tipps, Roodhouse; Mr. and Mrs Galen Tipps and daughters, Erie, present, if weather conditions permit.

...Goodwill Toward Men

Helen Wilker, Rollyn Trotter, Eulala Ryan and Ed. Garlich packing Christmas gifts of new clothing for distribution to needy children in our community.

Some say that Christmas is growing "too commercial" . . . that people have lost the true meaning of the holiday amongst the preserts and parties. For most people, however, Christmas is still a time of sharing with those who have a little bit less. It is the spirit of sharing that made our Goodwill Tree glow for the fifth year. More than 500 presents of warm clothing were piled under the tree for distribution to youngsters whose parents could not provide winter garments for them. The presents were brought by individuals, organizations, civic clubs, merchants, business firms, students, small tots . . . by people who found time during their busy holiday schedule to remember those in need and to assure them of a warm Christmas.

On this Christmas day we send our Best Wishes to everyone and express gratitude to those who joined in "trimming" the Goodwill Tree and who keep alive the ageless prayer of Christmas . . . "Peace on Earth, Goodwill Toward Men."

Broadway Showfolk Wistfully Recall Many Past Moments At Christmas Time

By WILLIAM GLOVER
Associated Press Drama Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—On Christmas morning, Broadway showfolk recall many past moments, wonderful and wistful.

There never, for example, has been another yuletide for star Maurice Evans such as his first in New York, exactly 25 years ago. He had made his debut just two nights before. New and lonely in the metropolis, he and a fellow Briton, Ralph Richardson, spent the day on a Central Park bench, forlornly feeding pigeons.

The standout memory for Mary Martin happened at far livelier tempo in 1956. She, husband Richard Halliday, daughter Heller and son, Larry Hagman, were set for a quiet reunion with relatives in Chester, Conn.

Then NBC popped up with urgent plea two days before, that the lilting songstress appear on a special Christmas Day telecast for the Hungarian war refugee fund.

Star and network compromised —her stint would be done at Chester. Eighteen technicians moved in on the niece who had been preparing for nine relatives. Hospitality fever spread through the town, neighbors flocked in with food. After the show, a caroling party went on long into the night that still glows for the leading lady of "The Sound of Music."

Anne Bancroft ruefully remembers when she was 9. The family was so short of money that there could be no tree. She wept on Christmas morning when she saw how her mother had fastened small presents about the old parlor sofa.

Every Christmas season since, the star of "The Miracle Worker" has bought a tree from among the first to appear in the shops.

For Melvyn Douglas, now in "The Best Man," the holly season was bittersweet during his first professional engagement in the 1920s. The Shakespearean repertory troupe that had hired him moved further into debt, the father it traveled through the hinterland.

"I'll never forget the Christmas Day we landed in Centralia, Wash., flat broke, hungry and plainly lacking in any kind of spirit," says Douglas. "Somehow the word got around town we didn't even have enough money for a meal.

"The next thing we knew two burly uniformed men—a policeman and a fireman—came up to us and said, 'You got any money?' Expecting to be booked for vagrancy, we said, 'No, not a cent.'

"'Well, seeing that it's Christmas,' the policeman said, 'we fixed it up so that you can eat dinner for free. Go to any restaurant in town and tell them who you are and you'll eat.'"

When he burst in on a gathering with a hearty yo-ho-ho, the 40 assembled youngsters just sat quietly. Whooping it up without avail for several minutes, Parks finally found the host.

"I forgot to tell you," that worthy told him, "but this is a Hannakuh party," referring to the Jewish feast of lights which occurs near Christmas.

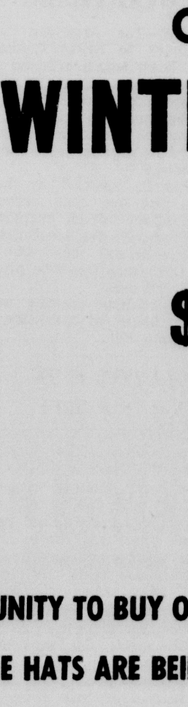

$90,068 Bonds Sold In County Last Month

Morgan county residents purchased $90,068 in series E and H United States Savings Bonds in the month of November, according to Arthur J. French and Frank Osborne Elliott of Jacksonville, general co-chairmen of the County Savings Bond Committee.

Purchases of both series in the state of Illinois were $25,411,045, according to T. Merle Paul, state director of the U.S. Savings Bonds Division. This is 4% below last November's sales of $26,474,771.

Illinois sales amounted to 7.7% of national sales which were $326,000,000, and 82.6% of the state's annual quota of$387,200,000 has been reached in the first 11 months of 1960.

To Present Two Flags To Ashland High Band

ASHLAND— Two flags, valued at $317 will be presented to the Ashland High School band at presentation ceremonies at 7:30 p.m. Monday, January 9, at the school. The flags, one an American flag, and the other a school flag custom designed with a white background and purple lettering, are the result of the Ashland community's pride in their high school band.

The flags were paid for by Ashland citizens after the band had participated in several parades in Springfield and surrounding college towns last year. Several Ashlandites, convinced that a band such as theirs should have proper identification, composed a form letter and sent a copy to every Ashland citizen, asking donations to the cause.

Many persons donated services in getting out the letters including Rev. and Mrs. J. William Jones who did all the mimeographing; and the editor of the Ashland Sentinel, Martha Bast, who furnished the envelopes for mailing.

They were overwhelmed with the response, with donations coming in from all sections of the community. Governor William Stratton contributed, as did Samuel Witwer, Ashland's Mayor William Quinley, various doctors and ministers, and the Gillman High school band.

The band is directed by David Durako of 36 Midland Court Springfield, and has grown from a 33 member band four years ago to a total of 52 members in September of 1960. Within the past two years, the band has performed with the Christmas parade in Springfield, and on three college campuses, Western University, Normal University, and Southern University.

The group enters the statewide music contest every year, and performs for the annual Halloween parade, and the summer parade sponsored by the churches. They play for the Christmas concert and spring concert, at the school and for most of the pep assemblies and home basketball games.

During the Ashland invitational tournament, held the last week in January, the band will perform nightly. This is one of the oldest basketball tournaments in the state.

Durako, who serves as instrumental music and band director in Ashland Community District 212, was a graduate of Cathedral High school in 1947, and of Normal University in 1951. He is married and has four sons.

Jess Douglass, a former band man himself, and father of two Ashland High school graduates headed the fund drive. Douglass has two sons: J. Robert Douglass, Ashland businessman, and William R. Douglass, band director in the Gillman - Danforth consolidated school unit, which contributed toward the flags.

The Ashland band receives support from its Band Parents organization, which was organized four years ago. The Band Parents back all band activities and raise funds for uniforms and other band necessities.

"Other Woman" Not Prime Reason Men Leave Happy Home

This is one of a series of articles on the tracing of missing persons compiled from actual case histories made available to this paper by Tracers Company of America.

Let's face it girls, all men are heels, but treated right, they're less likely to want to make tracks. Blondes are highly overrated, as the reasons why husbands leave home, declares Dan Eisenberg, ace private sleuth who probably has found more vanished spouses than any man in the world.

For that matter, brunettes and redheads too, have very little influence on men who pull the Arabian tent folding act. The much maligned other woman, no matter what color dye job, isn't the sorceress who lures daddy-boy away from his home and hearthside. It's a little ladybug that bites all men babies and its name is Escapism.

After 35 years of successful sleuthing on thonsands of missing person cases, Dan Eisenberg has learned a couple of things about human nature. Men are heels. Women love them anyway. Men skip out on the mortgage and TV payments. Women are steadier. They bring home the bacon, cook it, take care of the kids, and welcome their wandering daddies home with love and kisses, when their little fling is finished.

"There is no doubt about it," says Eisenberg, "husbands are a pretty sorry lot viewed from this end. Women, as wives and mothers, have vastly more tolerance and stick-to-itiveness and a larger sense of obligation.

He tracks down about 2,000 straying husband each year. During the war years the number was higher. He has bagged approximately 83,000 listed merely as missing husbands—plus nearly 150,000 missing debtors, the majority of whom were also missing husbands—to say nothing of a slew of love swindlers, bigamists and so called amnesiacs which he now keeps filed in separate categories. This might be called an impressive total, depending on your point of view.

His largest single category is missing stockholders, but these—together with a large number of missing heirs, relatives and witnesses (to wills, accident cases, etc.) are not really missing in the sense that they had left home. Indeed, they usually are surprised to find themselves registered as such. By far the most popular individual vanishing act is The case of the Disappearing Husband, according to the Tracers Company records.

Here is a composite picture of the missing husband: His average age is 40 to 50. He is about 5 feet 7 inches, weighs about 162 pounds, is rather dark complexioned and good looking, was married at 26, lives in a city of 50,000 or more, has no children, and likes to go to the movies. He was popular with the girls before marriage, hasn't played around since, and oddly enough, he made better than average marks in school. So what makes him leave home? Financial problems; Unhappy home life; In-law-trouble and Escapism.

The Real Reasons

It could be any one or a combination of these factors, says Eisenberg, but these are the real reasons. If there's a blonde in his life, she's only incidental. The troubles came first, the blonde later. There is one exception. The Other Woman usually is an important factor in the younger age group of missing husbands. These are often men who married too young, felt they have missed something in life, and by the time they're 30 or 35 they run off with the Other Woman. But the 30 to 40 age group of missing husbands comprises about 15 per cent of the total, compared to 75 per cent for the 40 to 50 age group. The majority of these figures they've had enough troubles with one woman. All they want is their freedom, or at least a short fling.

Money Big Factor

Money problems rate highest. It can be either the lack of money or too much of it, that starts arguments about overspending or underspending. In general, Eisenberg thinks the lucky woman is the one whose husband earns an average income—neither too high nor too low. Husbands in higher income brackets, executives, directors, traveling business men and salesmen can very often find a plausible excuse for staying away from home: business conventions, out-of-town customers, trade shows, meetings, et cetra. Some of these excuses may lead to extracurricular activities, especially if things haven't been going just right at home. (Most divorces occur among the people in the higher income bracket.)

A wife is safer with an average John Doe, the man with the routine 9 to 5 job who is expected (and usually goes) home every night after work. "His earnings are modest, so even if he does harbor a notion to take a fling he can't afford such extravagance," Eisenberg says. But, he adds hastily, this same John is just the kind who is apt to get tired of the daily grind and take off some day, especially if he gets behind in his bills. Any way you look at it, girls, you can't win. But Detective Dan gives one piece of consoling news. Your roaming Romeo is usually happy as a lark to be found.

Only about one in 10,000 missing people objects to being discovered, he says, and this applies particularly to husbands. The little lost lambies are tickled pink to get back in the fold. "Haven't you ever wanted to chuck it all, take off, disappear, get lost?" asks Eisenberg. "I think if we're honest, we'd reply 'Yes'." There's a little escapism in all of us. "What holds us back? Tradition, convention, a sense of obligation. What is the straw that breaks the camel's back? What is it provides the little incentive needed to activate the escapist instinct? It may be that one worry too many over an unpaid bill, or it might be that one meeting too many with the board of directors. Whatever it is, of one thing Eisenberg is sure. The missing husband, rich or poor, takes a long time to make up his mind. His disappearance is seldom the result of a sudden inspiration.

Doctor Flies Coop

A well known surgeon in San Fransico reported to his hospital one day, performed his quota of operations, and never returned home. His frantic wife called police. A diligent investigation turned up nothing but the usual picture of a successful doctor, a devoted husband and father, a highly esteemed pillar of his community—with no questionable habits. The woman refused to believe, as everyone else did, that her overworked husband was a suicide. She hired Eisenberg to find out.

During his initial interviews with the family he happened to notice some replicas of old boats in the doctor's study and asked about them. "He loved the sea," said his wife. "That's why we live here. But we've never owned a boat. He doesn't sail. He just loves these old four masted replicas." On a hunch a Tracers operative started hanging around the San Francisco docks and asking questions, but getting nowhere.

Finally, he overheard a couple of sailors in port saying something about an operation at sea. It seemed one sailor had removed another sailor's appendix with a butcher knife and it miraculously saved him. He listened some more, then tactfully started asking questions. The ship had now gone to sea again and was due back in two months. Eisenberg and the doctor's wife were there waiting when the boat came in. Sure enough, there was her doctor-husband in sailor's gear. His explanation: "I always wanted to go to sea, dear, so I just did." He was delighted to be home.

"Away From It All"

A well heeled Texas woman hired Eisenberg to check up on her husband in Caracas, Venezuela. He had traveled down there, she said, to supervise some big oil operations. At first he had written her faithfully, but she hadn't heard from him for two months, tho his checks from Venezuela were coming thru regularly. She was positive he had another woman, but she wanted proof. Tracers agents easily located the husband, working where he was supposed to be—and having the time of his life eating bananas and fishing. No blondes. "What's she squawking about?" he wanted to know. "She's getting all the dough and I'm having fun. Even Texas was never like this." He promised us he would write to his wife again as soon as he got around to it.

Pathos And Comedy

Pathos and comedy—often show up in the requests that come to Tracers. One woman wrote: "I am writing for Mrs. V, whose husband disappeared ten years ago. As a boarder in her house, I have been supporting the family ever since—but I think it is high time this man is brought to justice." One indignant wife wrote: "My husband has been very deceitful and I want you to find the lady who he is spending his money on. I will be able to send your fee, when my boy friend comes back from a business trip." Another wrote: "Gentlemen: You may discontinue your efforts to find my husband, as I am happy to report he died."

Karen Wyatt And Larry Piper Of White Hall Wed

WHITE HALL—Word has been received here of the November wedding at San Gabriel, California uniting a White Hall couple, Miss Karen Kay Wyatt and Larry Lee Piper. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester J. Wyatt and he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Piper.

Mr. and Mrs. James C. Wyatt, brother and sister-in-law of the bride, attended the couple.

For the present the newlyweds are making their home at Long Beach, California where the bridegroom is stationed with the Navy. When he leaves for duty in Hawaii, Mrs. Piper will return to White Hall.

For her wedding the former Miss Wyatt wore a blue taffeta frock and carried white carnations with pink rosebuds. Mrs. Wyatt wore pastel blue jersey and lace and her flowers were gardenias.

Both young people graduated from White Hall High School, class of 1960.

Chicago Livestock Market Report

CHICAGO (AP) — Butcher hog prices hit their highest peak of the year this week on a sharp drop in supplies because of the Midwestern cold wave and the approaching holiday.

The market was up 50 cents a hundredweight at the end of the week when about fifty head sold at $19.25, the high. Buyers noted it was the first time in 51 years that a year's top price was paid in December.

Cattle receipts at the 12 major markets were down 15 per cent from a week ago and at the lowest level except for holiday weeks since April. With demand good, slaughter steers were 50 cents to $1 a hundredweight higher for choice and prime grades while good grade was steady to 50 cents higher.

Firmer prices in the wholesale beef trade also imparted some strength to the live cattle trade.

The sheep market, which hit its lowest level in 14 years last week after three successive weeks of decline, turned firm on slaughter lambs, which advanced 50 to 75 cents a hundredweight. A drop of 25 per cent in supplies accounted for the higher prices.

CHICAGO (AP) — (USDA) — Following is a summary of the hog, cattle and sheep markets for the week:

Hogs — compared Friday last week—barrows and gilts 50 higher. Sows 75 higher. Mixed grades No 1 and 2 and mixed No 1, 2 and 3 190-220 lb barrows and gilts 18.50-19.00, 53 head mostly No 1 and 2 promising high yield of lean cuts 19.25. Sheep — compared Friday last week—slaughter lambs advanced mostly 50-75 and slaughter ewes steady to 50 higher. Two loads choice and prime 96-104 lb fed wooled western lambs sold at 18.00 late, choice and prime native lambs 17.00-18.00, good and choice 14.50-17.00, mostly 15.00 up, choice and prime 95-100 lb fed shorn lambs No 1 pelts 16.50, some choice 100-110 lb weight fall shorn pelts 16.75, cull to choice wooled slaughter ewes 5.00-6.00.

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP)—Confused by a welter of yearend transactions, the stock market moved irregularly this week and posted a slight decline on average.

Volume rose to 18.43 million shares from 17.85 million the previous week. It was the largest total since the week ended June 25 when turnover was 19.73 million shares.

Huge blocks changed hands as mutual funds and other big institutional investors shifted their holdings in preparation for making their annual reports. Yearend transactions to establish tax losses also continued prominent.

By far the biggest Wall Street news was American Telephone's announcement that next July it would boost its dividend to 90 cents from the present quarterly rate of 82½ cents and that it would offer its shareholders rights to buy one share for every 20 shares held, presumably below the market price when the rights are offered.

Of the 1,447 issues traded this week, however, 659 declined and 627 advanced. New highs for the year totaled 104 and new lows 50.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks dropped .50 to 219.10.

The most active issue this week on the American Stock Exchange was Universal Controls, up 1¾ at 16¼ on 233,100 shares.

The corporate bond market celebrated the holiday season this week with the first rise since mid October.

Strength in the final two sessions produced the third straight week of improvement for U.S. government bonds.

Wide demand for investment grade corporates was apparent as yields hovered about the 4.75 per cent mark. In comparison, long range Treasury issues returned under 3.9 per cent all week.

Corporate volume on the New York Stock Exchange mounted to 32.31 million, third heaviest of the year and busiest since mid May. Last week's total was $29 million.

White Hall Hospital Notes

WHITE HALL—Directors of the White Hall Hospital announce they are well pleased with the results of the third drive for hospital funds, which already has gone over the five thousand dollar mark.

As previously announced, the money will go toward the hospital's opening indebtedness, and a portion will be used for any extraordinary expenses that may arise, such as equipment repairs and replacements.

The members of the Hospital Board thank all who helped in any way to make the drive the splendid success it was.

Fire Damages Braner Home Near New Berlin

NEW BERLIN—The A. H. Braner, Jr., farm home eight miles northeast of New Berlin was badly damaged by fire Saturday evening. Early discovery of the fire and quick action by the New Berlin fire department enabled the workers to bring the fire under control before extensive damage was done to the interior of the house.

According to reports the fire was discovered about 6 p.m. when one of the members of the Braner family which was visiting nearby looked out of the window and saw flames at the family home. Firemen said the fire started in a defective wall plug in the kitchen and spread through the walls.

The exterior of the house was badly damaged but firemen extinguished the flames rapidly and the interior suffered only severe smoke damage. No estimate of the damage was available.

od of 1956. Included were 706 traffic deaths, 54 in fires and 124 miscellanoues.

The safety council's estimate of 510 traffic deaths this Christmas holiday is 217 more than were counted by The Associated Press in a recent nationwide survey during a 78-hour non-holiday weekend. Conducted for comparative purposes, the survey showed 293 killed in traffic, 47 in fires and 113 in miscellaneous accidents, a total of 453.

Deaths by states this year, with traffic, fire and miscellaneous listed in that order included Illinois 5 1 1; Indiana 2 0 0; Iowa 2 0 0; Missouri 1 0 0; Wisconsin 6 0 0.

KENNEDY WILL FACE IMMEDIATE CRISIS ON DISARM POLICY

The dominant view in the Defense Department and the Atomic Energy Commission is that the United States should rather quickly now resume underground test explosions of new types of nuclear weapons.

Advocates of this course stress that the United States lacks any assurance that the Soviet Union has not cheated during the past two years of nuclear test moratoriums and engaged in secret testing of new weapons.

The other strong point in the government comes primarily from the State Department and holds that the United States must keep trying a little while longer to get a treaty with the Soviet Union.

Advocates of this view say the time for disarmament is rapidly running out. It now appears that in another two to five years a number of nations may have nuclear weapons and the problem of ever negotiating any arms control system will become far more difficult than it already is.

and stopped, headed in the other direction. Soon a third car, driven by Armand Dennis Hegge, 19, Everett, Wash., crashed into the rear of Nelson's pickup truck. Then came the car carrying the Chaffin family — Mr. and Mrs. Bert L. Chaffin and four children —heading for a holiday at his family's home in Blackfoot, Idaho.

As the Chaffin car hit the others and swung broadside on the dark, slick highway, a fifth car driven by Vernon Beck, 21, Idaho Falls, Idaho, rammed into it. The front seat of the Chaffin car was driven out, suitcases, clothing and wrapped gifts were strewn on the icy pavement, and the two children killed.

Traffic Takes Seven Lives In Illinois

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Seven persons have lost their lives in traffic accidents in Illinois during the first half of the long Christmas holiday observance. A fire and a farm accident claimed two additional lives.

The count of holiday fatalities commenced at 6 p.m. Friday and will continue to midnight Monday, a 78-hour period.

Packed snow and ice over the southern two - thirds of the state made driving conditions hazardous.

Curtis Williams, 61, and his wife, Alta, 55, were killed in the headon collision of two cars on Ill. Rte. 1 five miles north of Danville Saturday.

Jesse Garcia, 23, of Belleville, was killed Friday night by an automobile as he walked along snow packed State Route 460 near Belleville.

Louis DeWitz, 31, of Wheeling, died Saturday when his car slammed into two trees northwest of Wheeling.

Shirley Maciejewski, 23, Tinley Park, was killed in a collision of two passenger cars on U.S. 6, near Tinley Park, Saturday.

Edward Strassburger, about 68, of Peoria, was killed Saturday when his automobile was struck by a train near Canton as he pushed a stalled car off a crossing. His own car stalled in the path of the oncoming train and Strassburger was unable to escape from his vehicle before the train struck.

Robert G. Holes, 19, Chicago, was killed in a two car crash on an icy stretch of State Route 37 south of Marion.

The farm accident resulted in the death of Paul Hagerbaumer, 47, of Quincy. He was fatally crushed when a tractor he was driving on a farm near Quincy slid down an embankment and overturned.

have been hinting that a collapse of the trade talks would make trouble for the small Allied garrisons in West Berlin.

Dowling lives in Bonn, the capital of West Germany. He came to Berlin Dec. 16 during the East-West German trade talks here.

The visit followed the failure of similar talks between West Germans and the Soviets themselves, which foundered on the Berlin issue.

At the time, U.S. spokesmen in Berlin told reporters that it was of no special interest.

In Washington, however, it was reported that Dowling had told Pervukhin how undesirable it would be to have a new crisis over Berlin.

From statements by Premier Khrushchev and other top Communists, it had been expected that the Communists intend to raise the Berlin question only in the spring. That would give President-elect John F. Kennedy a chance to look around and decide on the stand he wants to take.

Now, some experts believe, the Communists may be thinking that the chance to make trouble is too good to miss.

The East-West negotiators meet again Wednesday. They have only until New Year's Eve—Saturday. If they do not agree, there will be no trade accord between East and West Germany. That means there will be no agreed basis for the transport of German people and goods by road and rail across the 110 miles of Communist territory that separate West Berlin from West Germany.

The Communists claim there would be no valid agreement either to cover U.S., British and French military trains using the same route.

New Berlin FHA Gives Toys To Children's Home

NEW BERLIN—The FHA girls of the New Berlin High School repaired and painted those toys recently collected, and on Monday evening several of the girls, with their sponsors, took a toy and a treat to each of the children in the Sangamon County Children's Home in Springfield. The children's eyes shown in delight as some of them gave a certain request for a toy and that request could be filled. The girls wish to thank the people of the community for assisting in this project, by donating the used toys. Other toys collected were given to needy children in the New Berlin area who would not otherwise have had a "Merry Christmas."

Those who delivered the toys on Monday were Miss Dorothy Antey, home economic instructor and sponsor of the group, and her student teacher assistant, Miss Nancy Crump, with FHA members Karen Horn, Thulla Shepherd, Mary-Lou Battleson, RuthAnne Trimble, Martha Robertson and Andrea McCullough.

No One Knows Precisely When Christ Was Born

portance in the Christian world. Traditions sprang up, and the 13th century gave birth to a new type of joyful hymn called the Christmas carol.

But the struggle wasn't over.

Puritans in England held that no feast of human origin should outrank the Sabbath and did not celebrate Christmas. When they came into power in 1644 Parliament ordained that Christmas celebrations be banished from the land, and there were punishments for violators.

The Puritans fell from power in 1660, and Christmas returned to merry England; but the zeal of Puritan immigrants to America persisted to the latter part of the last century.

Christmas celebrations were forbidden in Puritan colonies, and Dec. 25 was a common workday in Boston until 1856. As late as 1870, in fact, classes were held on Christmas day in Boston's public schools.

But immigrants from other countries came to America, too, and brought not only the feast but most of the Christmas customs we since have come to regard as "American."

Two All-Star Games Open Action Monday With Big Weekend Ahead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The football bowl business swings into full stride this week with 10 games scattered from Monday through Saturday followed by the Rose-Orange-Cotton-Sugar quartet on Monday, Jan.2.

Two all-star games open the schedule Monday, followed by the Tangerine Bowl in Orlando, Fla., Friday night and seven games Saturday. The Dec. 31 program includes the Gator Bowl in Jacksonville, Fla., CBS-TV, the Blue Gray game at Montgomery, Ala., NBC-TV and the East-West game at San Franciso NBC-TV.

Because New Year's Day falls on a Sunday, the bowl program will carry over to Monday, Jan 2. Network television will carry the Orange Bowl at Miami and the Cotton Bowl at Dallas both CBS-TV and the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans and the Rose Bowl at Pasadena, Calif. both NBC-TV.

In addition to the college games there will be the two pro championships. The National Football League title game between Green Bay and Philadelphia from Philadelphia Monday, Dec. 26 NBC and the Los Angeles-Houston game for the American League title ABC from Houston Sunday, Jan. 1.

The Christmas Dec. 26 schedule calls for a North-South game at the Orange Bowl at 8 p.m. EST with Coaches Dale Hall of Army and Bump Elliott of Michigan directing the North against a Southern team guided by Bear Bryant of Alabama and Darrell Royal of Texas. A crowd of 35,000 is expected.

Both teams are counting heavily on passes to win. The North has Army's Tom Blanda and Tulsa's Jerry Keeling to throw against the South's Howard Dyer of VMI.

Outstanding players from the nation's small schools will play the stars from the major colleges Monday at 4 p.m. EST in the All-American Bowl at Tucson, Ariz. Last year the big college boys won 53-0.

John Michelosen of Pitt and Jim Larue of Arizona coach the majors and Dave Nelson of Delaware and Max Spildury of Arizona State boss the small college team which will be led by Paul Terhes fo Bucknell, Little All-America quarterback.

The Tangerine Bowl game in Orlando will be played Friday at 8:15 p.m. with Tennessee Tech 8-2 taking on the Citadel 7-2-1.

Baylor 8-2 faces Florida 8-2 in a strong Gator Bowl pairing Saturday at Jacksonville at 2:15 p.m. Baylor, only Southwest Conference team to beat Arkansas, the champions, lost only to Texas and Texas Christian. Coach Ray Graves' Florida team bowed to Rice and Auburn. Gator officials count on a turnout of 50,000 fans.

The 21st annual Blue-Gray game at Monigomery Saturday will draw a crowd of 20,000 to watch a passing battle between Bernie Allen of Purdue and Dale Betty of Maryland for the Blue against the Gray's Francis Tarkenton of Georgia, and Norm Snead of Wake Forest. Game time is 2 p.m.

The East-West charity game in San Francisco will follow the Blue-Gray on TV (NBC) at 4:50 p.m. with UCLA's Bill Kilmer and the Air Force's Richie Mayo playing for the West against an Eastern team that includes Tom Matte of Ohio State and Tom Wilson of Michigan State.

Utah State (9-1), co-champions of the Skyline Conference, meets unbeaten New Mexico State (10-0) in the Sun Bowl at El Paso, Tex. Game time Saturday is 4 p.m.

Rip Engle of Penn State and Pete Elliott of Illinois will coach the National All-Stars against the Southwest All-Stars in the Copper Bowl Saturday at Tempe, Ariz. Game time is 3:30 p.m.

Powerful Arkansas Tech (10-0) plays Texas A & I (7-1-1) in the Great Southwest Bowl at Grand Prairie, Tex., Saturday at 3 p.m.

The Prairie View Bowl at Houston features Prairie View (9-1) and Arkansas A.M.&N. (6-4) at 9 p.m. (EST).

On the following Monday, Jan 2, the Rose Bowl will have Minnesota (8-1), the No. 1 team of the nation and co-champion of the Big Ten conference facing Washington (9-1) before the usual turnout of 103,000.

Navy (9-1) sends Joe Bellino, its All-America halfback, against Missouri (9-1) in the Orange Bowl at Miami where a crowd of 76,000 will watch.

The Cotton Bowl in Dallas expects 65,000 to see Arkansas (8-2), Southwest champs, take on Duke (7-3), champions of the Middle Atlantic Conference.

In the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans, 81,000 are due to watch Jake Gibbs and his Mississippi (9-0-1) mates face Rice (7-3).

Stanford's Ace Quarterback Inks Bear Pact

CHICAGO (AP)—Stanford's star passing quarterback, Dick Norman, Saturday was signed by the Chicago Bears of the National Football League.

Norman, holder of three single game college passing records, was eligible for the 1959 NFL draft and was selected by the Bears on the fifth round.

The 21-year-old Norman concluded his collegiate season last fall on a weak Stanford team which lost all nine starts. However, Norman finished ninth among the nation's college passers with 84 completions in 180 attempts for 924 yards.

The 6-3, 209 pound quarterback who is a straight A engineering student, had his biggest single day against arch-rival California in 1958. He completed 34 of 39 passes for 401 yards, setting new collegiate marks for completions, total yards and percentage, .872.

"It looks like we made a wise investment," commented Bear owner-coach George Halas. "Our talent scouts ranked Norman the finest pro prospect among all the college quarterbacks this past season. It's a cinch Dick would have been the No. 1 pick of several other clubs before our turn comes up in the 1960 draft."

The NFL's annual draft meeting will be held Tuesday in Philadelphia.

The Bears, with Ed Brown and Zeke Bratkowski alternating at quarterback, this season failed to place a man among the top 14 NFL passers. Brown rated No. 15 and Bratkowski was ranked 16th.

Vikings To Have 1st Draft Pick

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The new Minnesota Vikings will have first pick in Tuesday's National Football League draft.

The 14-club league is to select 280 players in 20 rounds. With the exception, of course of the Vikings, teams will choose in reverse order of the final 1960 standings—from last to first.

After Minnesota come Dallas, Washington, Los Angeles, Pittsburgh and Chicago (tied), Baltimore, St. Louis, Detroit and San Francisco (tied) and New York. The final three positions depend on the result of the Philadelphia-Green Bay championship game.

Minnesota, Washington Brace For Busy Week After Layoff For Xmas Holiday

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — One week gone, a busy one to come. So Saturday the Rose Bowl rivals, national champion Minnesota and the 1960 Rose Bowl winner, Washington, paused for the Yuletide weekend.

The teams, which take over the big bowl Jan. 2, scheduled at least one drill Saturday.

Late Saturday afternoon the Tournament of Roses queen and court, play hostesses for a party at the Long Beach Lafayette Hotel, headquarters of the Huskies from Seattle.

Then the royal entourage moves back to Pasadena to Minnesota's headquarters, the Huntington Sheraton, for an early evening party for the Big Ten champions.

On both occasions, the visiting players will receive souvenior gifts from the Tournament of Roses Committee itself.

Sunday Minnesota has its school holiday party for the Gopher players and official family.

Washington's Huskies will have theirs the night of the big game.

They hope it will be as memorable as a year ago when they celebrated a 44-8 victory over Wisconsin.

Routine has been the word, otherwise, this past week as far as physical conditioning goes. Nothing exciting happened, which mean that neither coach is at all satisfied with the progress of their charges.

The coming week will see no more movie studios, Disneyland, Marineland or other Southern California sightseeing attractions for the squads.

"We must get down to hard work," said the Minnesota coach. The Huskies' coach echoed the sentiment.

Meanwhile, the football "tourist" season was on in great style, with thousands more due in from the Northwest and Midwest.

Tickets, always a headache, remain hard to come by. So it appears the Pasadena Bowl will be jammed with its usual 100,000 or so souls Jan. 2 of all the postseason bowl games.

Hialeah had a record crop of 65 young home-bred flamingoes on its infield lake . . . Jockey Bill Hartack, asked to underwrite a team of little leaguers, underwrote the entire league involving 400 youngsters . . . August 13 proved a lucky day for many fans at River Downs when odd circumstances caused three Daily Double payoffs; two were the result of a dead-heat which provided two winners of the second race, and the third was a "consolation" double provided when Merry Jayne was ordered scratched from the second race by the stewards . . .

North Can Expect Aerial Attack From The South

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—No matter what North does, the South is going to pass, pass, pass when the rivals meet in the 13th annual Shrine all-star college football game in the Orange Bowl Monday night.

This was apparent in drill when the Southerners, under the direction of Coaches Darrell Royal of Texas and Paul Bear Bryant of Alabama were throwing the ball on three out of four plays.

The squad elected Monte Lee of Texas and Bill Shaw of Georgia Tech co-captains for the game.

Coaches Dale Hall of Army and Bump Elliott of Michigan continue to send the North squad through the wringer. Since reporting early in the week not a second has been wasted.

LAUNCHES RACING SEASON

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — Santa Anita Park, California's winter showplace of horse racing, launches its 26th season Monday. Based on past post-Christmas holiday openings, the management predicts attendance of more than 60,000.

FAN BREEZES

BY STAN SPOTTS

Bell Shows What Practice Can Do For Any Player

By JOSEPH SWEAT

DAYTON, Tenn. (AP) — There once was a thin, lanky kid who would slip into high school gyms at night, practice a few shots, and then a janitor would run him out. Today he's the ace of small college basketball.

Lebron Bell, 19, forward for Bryan College, leads the nation's little school point-makers in latest statistics compiled by the NCAA Service Bureau. He has a 35.4 average after eight games.

How is it, that a lad who never touched a basketball until his junior year in high school now leads the nation in scoring?

"Practice," Bell answers. And he did-once he found that he loved the game.

"I used to practice with the high school team, then go home and practice in the yard," he said.

"Then, at night, a friend and I would slide down the coal shute at some high school. We'd practice in their gym till the caretaker ran us out. Finally I had all the caretakers thinking I went to their school."

Bell actually went to Red Bank Tenn. High, just outside Chattanooga. In his senior year he averaged around 15 points per game.

In his freshman year at Hiwasse Junior College, he began to develop his stop and-shoot jump shot, which is so fast opponents can't seem to get set for it. At the Madisonville, Tenn., school he never went under 20 points in any game.

This year he transferred to Bryan.

Now, after eight games, opposing coaches tell their boys: "If we can slow Bell down, we can probably stop Bryan."

Four Bowlers And One Team To Share Award

ST. LOUIS (AP)— Four individual bowlers and one bowling team will share the John E. Wray award at the St. Louis Baseball Writers' fourth annual dinner Jan. 23.

The Wray award, named in honor of the former St. Louis Post-Dispatch sports editor, is presented for achievements in sports other than baseball.

To be cited for personal accomplishments this year are Don Carter, Harry Smith, Dick Weber and Ray Bluth. The Falstaff team will be honored for capturing the national match game championship.

Carter was chosen bowler of the year in 1959-60 and topped all money winners on the Professional Bowling Association tour. He also retained his world invitational and P.B.A. match game championships.

Others previously named to share the Wray award were All-American end Dan Larose of Missouri University and his coach, Dan Devine. Three members of the St. Louis football Cardinals, John David Crow, Sonny Randle and Jerry Norton, also were selected.

Nordmann Has Surgery On Knee

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Bevo Nordmann, St. Louis University's 6-foot-10 basketball star, underwent surgery for a knee injury Saturday. A physician said he will be out of action for the remainder of the season.

The physician disclosed after the surgery that the big fellow has a "complete tear" of a ligament in his right knee.

Nordmann suffered the injury Thursday night as the Billikens won the Kentucky Invitational Tournament at Lexington by defeating Kentucky 74-72 in overtime. Nordmann's leg was placed in a cast immediately, and the seriousness of the injury was not determined until Saturday.

Sellout Crowd Of 67,000 To Watch Divisions Champs

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Eastern champion Philadelphia Eagles meet the Western champion Green Bay Packers here Monday for the National Football League title in what could be billed as the Cinderella Bowl.

Just two seasons ago, both the Eagles and Packers were last in their respective divisions. Philadelphia in 1958, posted a 2-9-1 record, and Green Bay 1-10-1. Their futures were almost as bleak as their won and lost marks.

The Packers management turned out its coaching staff and brought in new blood. The orders in both camps were to build a winner at any cost post haste. To say Buck Shaw of the Eagles and Vince Lombardi of the Packers carried out orders could be the sports understatement of the year.

The Eagles, in gaining the Eastern crown won 10 and lost 2, while the Packers captured 8 and dropped 4. Both teams did the last-to-first in three years trick sagacious trades, signing of a few supposedly washed up veterans or hastily dismissed rookies, and a good break in the annual pro player draft.

This 28th NFL title game should give the sellout crowd of 67,000 at Franklin Field a bright contrast in styles. Green Bay bases its offense on a strong running game with good passing. Philadelphia offers a strong passing game augmented by an adequate ground attack.

Although the Packers have been accorded a 6-5 edge in the early odds because the Western Division of the NFL is considered tougher than its Eastern counterpart, the game figures a toss up. Weather could play a large part in the outcome.

Under NFL rules if the game ends in a tie, the teams will play sudden death. This means a coin toss at the end of the regulation four quarters determining the receiving and kicking teams and a continuation of play with the first team to score winning.

Only once in league playoff history has the sudden death rule been necessary. Two years ago in New York, the Baltimore Colts beat the New York Giants 23-17 in overtime. The Colts scored in 8:15 of the fifth quarter.

In order to provide for sudden death, the nationally televised game (NBC) will start at 12 noon (EST) because Franklin Field is not equipped with lights.

Neither team is a stranger to title games. Green Bay has been in four of them, winning three and losing 1. The Eagles have won two of three appearances. Philadelphia hasn't exactly feathered its nest at the expense of Green Bay in past meetings, the Packers having won 13 and lost only 1.

Green Bay presents a fairly well balanced attack having gained 2,150 yards running and 1,875 passing. Jim Taylor, a 215-pound fullback from LSU, and Paul Hornung, the former Notre Dame flash, are the running stars. Taylor finished second to Jimmy Brown in the NFL ground gaining battle with 1,101 yards on 230 carries for a 4.8 yard average.

Hornung gained 671 yards on 160 carries, seventh best in the league. In addition, the 215-pound halfback set a new league scoring record of 176 points. He scored 15 touchdowns, 13 running and two on passes; booted 41 for 41 conversions, and kicked 15 field goals.

Green Bay represented the fifth best defensive team against rushing, but its pass defense was nothing to write home about. Opponents completed 192 passes against the Packers, more than allowed by any other team. And this weakness could be their undoing since they'll be facing one of the great passers of all time in the title game, the Eagles' Norm Van Brocklin.

Philadelphia makes no bones about its formula for success. The 35-year-old Van Brocklin, who insists this is his last season as an active player, fires at some of the best receivers in the business — Tommy McDonald, Pete Retzlaff, Bobby Walston, Ted Dean, Tim Brown and if he's in shape to play, Clarence Peakes.

Van Brocklin winged 153 completions in 284 tosses for 2,471 yards and 24 touchdowns. Not only is he a great passer, but the Dutchman from Oregon now in his 12th year in the league is considered one of the best field generals in the game.

Walston with 105 points, second to Hornung, does the field goal and conversion kicking.

Defensively, Philadelphia is among the best in the league on passes, having swiped 30 during the season. Against rushing, however, the Birds have been less than awesome—next-to-last in the standings.

Culver-Stockton Star

Frank Long of Winchester, a Culver-Stockton College senior, Canton, Mo., is in his final year of collegiate competition for the Wildcats. Long is spending Christmas at home but departs Monday to participate in a holiday tourney at Lincoln, Neb.

Long is a graduate of Winchester high school and has lettered the last three years for the Wildcats. He is one of three remaining members of the 1958-59 championship team that won the MCAU conference and competed in the NAIA tournament in Kansas City.

Third Annual Valley Tourney Opens Tuesday

WHITE HALL—The third annual Illinois Valley Conference basketball tournament will be held in White Hall Dec. 27-30, in the White Hall High school gymnasium. ADVERTISE — IT PAYS

Crippled Child Fails To Copy Accent But Wins Player's Heart

By HAROLD V. STREETER

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Katherine, wearing a cast up to her chin, smiled from her hospital bed at 220-pound Ross Hawkins, center on North Carolina's 1960 football team.

"When the nurse told me I was getting you, I tried to develop a North Carolina accent to surprise you," the 13-year-old girl told the 6-foot-3 athlete who actually hails from Cowan, Tenn.

"But I couldn't. I'm from Oakland."

She got her message across.

So did all the other kids at the Shrine Hospital for crippled children who met Friday with 48 players from colleges all over the nation. When these stars trot out at Kezar Stadium to play the East-West game Dec. 31 they know now who the proceeds are benefiting.

"I'm from a big family — four brothers, two sisters—and I'm used to seeing them in bed with measles or something," Ron Mallony, Purdue's 210-pound guard, told another guard, Mark Manders of Iowa.

"But, man, nothing like this."

The hospital, in the interest of rehabilitating the crippled children, asked use of only the first names of the little patients.

Scotty, a 5-year-old with braces on both legs had vowed he would be walking on crutches by the time the players arrived. Hospital nurses doubted he would. But Scotty did.

He made his way bravely up to Bill Kilmer, the sensational UCLA tailback, and bragged:

"They all said I wouldn't be walking, Kilmer, but they were all wrong."

Each child is assigned a player. Scotty explaining somebody had overlooked him, asked "How about . . ." That was as far as he got.

"You've got a quarterback named Kilmer."

Cub Scout Pack 109 Holds Christmas Party

Cub Pack 109 held their annual Christmas party at the Knights of Columbus Hall Thursday evening, Dec. 15. The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Michael O. Driscoll was the honored guest of the evening. The Cubs entertained their parents with Christmas carols.

Frank Kaufmann, Cubmaster, presented the following achievements:

Bobby Spencer, Bear; John Doyle, Denner badge; Mike Bamman, Asst. Denner badge; Danny Craddock, Service Star; Fred Stanley, two Silver Arrows on Wolf; Eddie Preston, Wolf, Gold and Silver Arrow on Wolf; Gerry Hughes, Bear; Tommy Mike Winters, Silver Arrow on Bear; Dennis Doyle, Denner; Jeffrey Flynn, Asst. Denner; Herb Forrester, Wolf and Gold Arrow on Wolf; Richard Cisne, Gold Arrow on Wolf.

Everyone was quite thrilled with Santa's appearance. He brought several treats and visited with the children before continuing on with his busy schedule.

The cubs had made lovely Christmas gifts which they presented to their parents. Den 2 received the attendance award. Refreshments of gaily decorated Christmas cookies were furnished and served by the den mothers.

Huskies Suffer 1st Casualty

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Washington's Huskies have suffered the first serious casualty in training for the Jan. 2 Rose Bowl football game.

Joe Jones, the No. 2 fullback on offense and No. 1 cornerbacker on defense, underwent surgery for appendicitis and will have to watch the game with Minnesota from the sidelines.

Jones complained of severe abdominal pains Thursday night. He was taken to St. Mary's Hospital, where Dr. Harold Neibling performed the operation.

Tennessee A&I Favored To Repeat At Quincy

QUINCY, Ill.—Veteran national tournament basketballers from colleges in three states will clash here next week in the seventh annual Quincy College N.A.I.A. holiday tournament.

Heading the list is Tennessee A & I's Tigers, ranked at the top nationally, who are returning the third time for the Quincy College tourney. The Tigers will have as company, Southern Illinois, Villa Magonna from Covington, Ky., and William Jewell from Liberty, Mo., all veterans of last year's national N.A.I.A. tournament in Kansas City.

Each team will play three games during the tournament. There will be two afternoon and two night games each day, Dec. 27-28 and 29. The tourney schedule is made up so that opening-day contests will see Illinois teams going against out-of-state squads.

Southern Illinois' Salukis, the 1959 runners-up, and the Rebels of Villa Madonna will clash in the initial event, with defending champions, the Leathernecks of Western Illinois taking on Emporia State immediately afterward.

In the night games the powerful Tigers who have won five of six games in the tournament and in 1958 copped the championship, will meet the Titans of Illinois Wesleyan. And as customary in the tournament, host Quincy College will play in the last game of the day, tangling with the Cardinals of William Jewell College, who finished fourth in the K.C. finals last March.

Quincy College, which has not yet won its own tournament, will be going into this one with a 7-3 record, including the championship of the Concordia-Harris Teachers tournament in St. Louis in November. But two of their losses have been to tournament competitors, namely Illinois Wesleyan, which along with Quincy will have a "little" team compared to the average height of others in the tournament, and the rugged Leathernecks of Western Illinois.

Upsets can be expected this year the same as last year, when Southern Illinois turned back the previously unbeaten Tigers in the semi-finals, only to be surprised in turn by Western Illinois in the finals.

Individuals expected to provide excitement include Charlie Vaughn of Southern who was fifth in the nation last year in total points with a record of 779 points in 29 games; and towering George Finley, 7-1, of Tennessee A & I who was part of the squad that finished third in the N.A.I.A. nationals at Kansas City last season.

UNUSUAL WARMUP

JERSEYVILLE, Ill. (AP) — The Griffin High School basketball team of Springfield had an unusual warmup for their victory in the title game Friday in the Jerseyville holiday tournament.

While at a cafe on the outskirts of Jerseyville, forward Ed Kchorst spotted smoke pouring from an attached dwelling.

Small College Stars Out To Prove Value

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Outstanding football players from the nation's small schools try to prove they are better than their counterparts from major colleges in the All-American Bowl Monday. They failed in two previous attempts.

This year the small school team will have a slight edge in weight in the interior line, a small margin of height at the ends and equal speed in the backfield.

John Michelosen of Pitt and Jim Larue of Arizona, coaches of the major team, have expressed concern over the small schools' mammoth interior line. The tackles, guards and centers average 224 pounds. The giants are three tackles, 265-pound George Balthazer, Tennessee A & I, 250-pound Houston Antwine, Southern Illinois, and 240-pound Ron Puckett, Los Angeles. Charles Long, 220, of Chattanooga State, will be one of the starting tackles.

But the big school stars are also big in size as well as name, averaging 220 pounds for the 11 men in the interior line. The biggest is 228-pound tackle Bob Minihane of Boston University.

Dave Nelson, the offense-minded coach from Delaware, and Max Spilsbury of Arizona State College, figure their small school team has a gold mine in quarterback Paul Terhes of Bucknell.

The major schools won the first All-American Bowl 14-12 and crushed the small school representatives 53-0 a year ago.

Buckeyes Heavy Favorite To Win Holiday Festival

NEW YORK (AP) — Ohio State's Buckeyes, the nation's No. 1 college basketball team, was a top-heavy favorite to capture the ninth annual ECAC Holiday Festival at Madison Square Garden beginning with afternoon and evening doubleheaders on Tuesday.

Besides the powerful Buckeyes, two other teams in The Associated Press' top 10—third-ranked St. Bonaventure and sixth rated St. John's of New York—are participants in this tourney which also includes Utah, Providence, Penn, St. Joseph's of Philadelphia and Seton Hall.

St. John's (5-0) will be first on the firing line, meeting Providence (7-0) at 2:15 PES. The second half of the afternoon doubleheader pits St. Bonaventure (7-0) and St. Joseph's (4-1).

In the evening twin bill, it will be Utah (5-2) vs. Penn (4-1) followed by Ohio State (5-0) and Seton Hall (4-1).

With four of the competing teams still unbeaten, the weeklong tournament may establish a record attendance.

Pittsfield Men Injured In Auto Collision Friday

PITTSFIELD—Two Pittsfield men were injured, one seriously, in a collision early Friday afternoon. Reported in serious condition at Illini Community Hospital Saturday evening was Jack Fullmer. He was reportedly suffering from two fractured legs, fractured jaw bones, a punctured lung, and other injuries. Driver of the second car was Arthur Crowder. He was treated for facial lacerations and later released.

According to reports the accident occurred as Crowder attempted to get his car back on the pavement of U.S. Highway 36-54, ½ mile east of Pittsfield, after skidding off the road due to icy conditions. Crowder was heading west; Fullmer east to Springfield when the two autos collided.

The cars were extensively damaged and taken to the Finson and Adams Garage in Pittsfield.

Cass Resident Sentenced To State Farm

BEARDSTOWN — Ralph W. Teehan, operator of the piano and organ store at 112 West Main St. was sentenced to a 6-month term at the state penal farm at Vandalia Wednesday for violation of probation.

Sentence was pronounced by City Judge Hardin Hanks in City Court here when Teehan failed to pay the balance due on a fine within the allotted time set by the court.

Teehan had previously been convicted of obtaining money here under false pretenses. The charges were brought by Fred Ruppel when Teehan failed to comply with an agreement on a piano purchase. The case came into city court in October 1959, and Teehan was placed on probation and required to pay the specified fine.

State's Attorney Richard Mills brought charges against Teehan when he violated probation by failing to pay the fine.

NAME CRANDALL MVP

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Milwaukee baseball writers Saturday named veteran catcher Del Crandall the most valuable player of the 1960 Braves baseball team.

He will be honored at the eighth Diamond Dinner here Sunday, Jan. 22.

The award is given in memory of the late Manning Vaughn, former Milwaukee Journal sports writer. Others who have won the award are Eddie Mathews, Hank Aaron and Warren Spahn, who got the award twice, and Joe Adcock.

WAVERLY WINNER

JERILYN ROSS

The senior girl chosen at Waverly High school as recipient of the D.A.R. good citizen award presented by the Rev. James Caldwell Chapter, Jacksonville, for the 1960-1961 school year is Miss Jerilyn Ross, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond E. Ross of Waverly.

Members of the senior class selected by vote three girls whom they felt were good citizens, based on the qualities of dependability, service, leadership, and patriotism. From these, the faculty selected one girl to represent the school as its good citizen.

Jerilyn has participated in a variety of school activities. This year she is a member of the Waverly band and chorus, vice president of the Senior Class, editor of the Yearbook, secretary of the Student Council, secretary-treasurer of the F.T.A., and secretary of the F.H.A., and vice president of the National Honor Society.

Italian Cup Team Recruits Pancho Gonzales

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

SYDNEY (AP) — The Italian Davis Cup team Saturday recruited the racket and tennis brains of pro king Pancho Gonzales in an attempt to wrest the trophy from Australia.

"Pancho volunteered to help," said Coach Jaroslav Drobny, "and we're happy to have him. He can help our boys a lot in these last two days before the challenge round."

The draw for the challenge round is scheduled Christmas Day.

The opening singles matches are Monday in the best-of-five series, with the doubles Tuesday and the final two singles Wednesday.

Gonzales, whose work with Peruvian Alex Olmedo is credited with the United States' cup victory over Australia in 1958, is recognized as one of the most astute minds in tennis. He has predicted a victory for Italy.

Gonzales added that Australia's Rod Laver appeares well below form, and the Aussies, No. 1 player, Wimbleton champion Neale Fraser, has reached his training peak and is on the verge of going stale.

Pike Rotarians Entertained By Magician

PITTSFIELD — The Pittsfield Rotary club held their annual Christmas party on Thursday evening, Dec. 22, with a turkey dinner at 6:30 at the Community Center. This is their family party with Santa bringing gifts to all the children. LeRoy the Magician was present to entertain the 85 guests present.

The Cub Scouts have presented the new furniture to the Illini Community hospital for use in the children's ward. There were two roll-away beds, two small tables and two small chairs.

The Scouts sold pot scratchers to make the money to buy this furniture. The Cub Scouts also decorated two large Christmas trees at the hospital, one in the lobby and one in the emergency lobby.

The annual Christmas luncheon of the Sorosis club was held on Wednesday, Dec. 21, at 1:00 p.m. at the Community Center. Mrs. Earl Zimmerman and Mrs. George McGann were co-hostesses. The Christmas program was presented by Mrs. Lee Brace and Mrs. George Gooud.

Series Of Fires In Jersey County Leave 3 Families Homeless

JERSEYVILLE—The third in a series of destructive fires in this community occurred Thursday at the residence of Linus Gilbert on Sumner street in Jerseyville, when a two story frame house, together with its contents, was demolished by flames.

The Jerseyville Fire Department received the call at 6:50 p.m. and upon arrival found the flames had gained such headway the building could not be saved. They worked until 1:30 a.m. to prevent the spread of the conflagration, fighting against odds in the freezing weather.

The fire evidently started above the kitchen which was a one-story part of the building. The remainder of the house was two stories. Composition shingles had been applied over wooden ones on the house and the flames ran along wooden boards making it difficult to reach the blaze. A false ceiling in the attic added to the difficulty as the fire got in between the two portions of the roof.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert and their two small boys were in Carrollton when the fire occurred and the origin of the blaze has not been determined. All the household furnishings and clothing of the family were burned and nothing but the shell of the downstairs of the building was left standing.

The firemen received two calls Friday. The first was at 11:20 a.m to Smith's Cafe on the State Road past Delhi. The call was cancelled and damage there was minor.

The second alarm was sent in at 1:45 p.m. Friday. This call was to the Sylvester Kallal residence on Stryker Ave. The oil furnice had flooded and ignited. The damage was confined to the basement where some of the floor joists were charred. When the firemen reached the building the house was full of smoke but they soon brought the blaze under control. The alarm was sent in by a young member of the Kallal family who was the only one at home at the time.

Escape In Night Clothes

Two other destructive fires occurred Wednesday, one at midnight at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Jones in Rosedale. Mrs. Jones led her seven children ranging in age from 17 months to 14 years, from the burning building to safety. Mr. Jones an employee of the Owens-Illinois Glass Co. in Alton was at his brother's home at the time. His car was broken down and he was staying at his brother's so he could get to work. Mrs. Jones and children escaped in their night clothes and all their possessions were destroyed.

Red Cross Makes Appeal

An appeal through the Jersey County Chapter of the Red Cross was made by Robert Garland, chairman, for clothing and household furnishings, met with an overwhelming response and a house was secured for the family's use. The church in Alton where the family formerly worshiped before coming to Jerseyville, called in to see what the family needed as did the Owens-Illinois Glass Co., but the needs were already taken care of in Jerseyville County.

The other large fire was Wednesday morning at the two-story country home of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Scott near Rosedale, which burned to the ground. Most of the contents of the second story were burned but some of the downstairs furniture and personal effects of the couple were saved and were moved to Jerseyville to the home of Mrs. Scott's brother and sister-in-law, Patrolman and Mrs. Sloke Blackorby.

Nutrition Committee Recommends Caution In Reducing Formulas

The 900 calorie milk formulas for reducing being produced by dairies can be accepted as food products but should be used with caution and judgment, the Committee on Nutrition of the Illinois State Medical Society reported.

The committee including physicians from Jacksonville and Carrollton, issued a series of precautions to be observed in avoiding the pitfalls of unsupervised reducing diets:

1. These special low calorie formulas are dangerous for long term use.

2. They are not a substitute for a well-balanced diet except for short term weight control programs and are not a good means of saving money or time spent eating meals.

3. Because many of these formulas contain the recommended daily dietary allowances of vitamins known to be essential, additional vitamin intake could produce undesirable results. Therefore, persons on these diets should not take vitamin pills at the same time. For the same reason, persons on 1800 calorie formula should not attempt to get their calories by taking two 900 calorie formula units because in so doing they also double the amount of vitamins they consume and are subject to vitamin overdosage.

4. People concerned about being overweight should not be put on or put themselves on so-called "crash" diets to lose weight too rapidly. A normal, healthy person should not expect to lose more than one or two pounds a week by dieting except on medical advice in special situations.

5. Persons using these formula products as their sole source of nutrition, even for brief periods, should seek consultation immediately if they develop constipation or diarrhea, or other untoward symptoms.

6. The public should be told that any effective weight control program requires a continuing adherence to a properly balanced diet. Formula weight reduction plans can bring about a weight adjustment but once this is achieved it should be maintained by balanced dieting.

The committee pointed out that the average person seldom is successful with most dieting programs because once the weight is down to the desired level there is no continued drive to dieting and soon weight gains are resumed.

Its recommendations were approved by the society's executive body, the Council, and followed a recent meeting with Dr. Lee Fatherree, director of the Illinois Department of Public Health. At that meeting, the weight control formulas were reviewed and evaluated.

CLAUDETTE RETURNS

NEW YORK (AP) — Claudette Colbert returns to the White Way stage in "Julia, Jake and Uncle Joe," a comedy about an American couple in Russia.

The play by Howard Teichmann is based on a book by Oriana Atkinson, wife of the former drama critic of the New York Times, Brooks Atkinson. It is due to debut in mid-January.

CIRCLE TO RESCUE

NEW YORK (AP) — A revue called "Stewed Prunes" was saved by another show group from extinction when city firemen chased the production from its Greenwich Village home.

The Circle in the Square provided facilities for the run to continue. The Circle group was sympathetic because a couple of years ago it too ran into trouble over fire regulations, and had a hard time finding a new home.

Sponsors First Annual Business Outlook Survey

The Jacksonville Chamber of Commerce is undertaking its first annual Business Outlook Survey to forecast economic conditions in the year ahead, it was announced Wednesday by Thomas D. Rusinek, Chamber of Commerce manager.

He said that the questionnaire forms have been sent to 50 business establishments of all types in order to give a good cross section of opinion. Wholesalers, retailers, service establishments, construction firms and financial institutions are all included in the survey.

"We would like to see a good return from all inquiries," said Mr. Rusinek. "Only in this way can we get an accurate picture of what lies ahead."

Individual replies will be held in strict confidence. Only the overall results will be published. Rusinek said that the Chamber is not looking for "wishful thinking" as to the 1961 business conditions but hopes for an honest appraisal of the outlook for the new year.

As the representative of business and industry the Chamber of Commerce is regularly called upon for information about business conditions. "Participation by all those to whom we have sent inquiries will enable us to furnish factual data rather than guesses based upon the remarks of the last person with whom we talked." The questionnaire covers such subjects as volume of business, employment and major problems to be faced

The transplanted Virgin Islander who zoomed from nowhere to near the top of his boxing class in a bit more than two years is supporting a family of 10 and is on a relentless quest for the welterweight championship.

As if that weren't enough, the 21-year-old whiz-bang, who leaped from No. 4 ranking to perhaps the No. 1 spot by defeating unbeaten Luis Rodriquez in a nationally-televised bout from Madison Square Garden, has another aim.

"I want to buy mamma a house," he grins.

"Determination, that's the main thing that has brought Emile up so fast," says Griffith's co-manager and trainer, Gil Clancy. "I knew it the first time I laid eyes on him. He had a nice physique and good reflexes, but a lot of kids have those without the temperament to make them work."

Griffith got into boxing in 1957 when he went to work as a shipping clerk for Howard Albert, proprietor of a millinery business in New York's garment district. Albert, whose hobby is developing amateur boxers, took one look at the 17-year-old husky and summoned Clancy, his partner in such enterprises.

The Albert-Clancy decision to make him a fighter brought about Griffith's one and only rebellion at parental authority.

"Mamma didn't want me to fight," Emile recalls. "I took a look around at the poverty we were living in and told her if she didn't let me try to make some money then, I'd do it anyway when I was 21."

Griffith went to the final in the 1957 New York Golden Gloves before dropping a close decision to Charley Wormley. The next year he not only won the New York open 147-pound championship, but the Intra-City and National Golden Gloves titles as well.

"We would have liked to save him for the Olympic Games," recalls Albert, "but they were two years away and none of the amateurs here wanted to fight him, so we turned him professional."

Since joining the pro ranks in 1958, Griffith has had 24 fights winning all but two. His first loss came at the hands of Randy Sandy, a middleweight, who eked out a split decision. After beating Denny Moyer in Madison Square Garden, Griffith faced him in a return in Portland, Ore. Moyer took a split decision, but all the boxing writers gave it to Griffith.

Among other good fighters, Griffith has defeated Jorge Fernandez, who beat Moyer twice; Florentino Fernandes, who knocked out Phil Moyer; and Gaspar Ortega, Bobby Pena and Willie Toweel.

With no weight trouble, Griffith eats two heavy meals a day. He likes to dance, is a fine Calypso singer ("I gave a party once and had him sing and the guests all thought he was another Belafonte," Albert insists) and is easy to handle.

"I listen to what Mr. Albert and Mr. Clancy tell me because they explain things," Griffith says. "They don't just say, 'Do this,' or 'Do that,' without giving you a reason."

Cass Farm Bureau Elects Committeemen, Directors

VIRGINIA—The Cass County Farm Bureau annual meeting was attended by five hundred. The members of the Farm Bureau elected the following men to the Executive Committee and Board of Directors: Donald Bins, president; Norman Leonhard, vice president; Donald Bierhaus, secretary-treasurer; Township directors, (these men will serve until the next annual meeting): Norman Kleinschmidt, Warren Stock, Russell Wedeking, George Gibbons, Conley Thomas, Dale Satorius, Virgil Pettit, Walter Adkins, Lowell Barnett, Carlos Kruse and Lloyd Miller.

Special thanks should be extended to the Home Bureau of Cass County for the delicious meal and wonderful job of preparing it.

The guest speaker was Mr. W. B. Peterson, I.A.A. Secretary of Marketing. Mr. Peterson urged the Farm Bureau members to remember that through Farm Bureau they have the greatest opportunity to express their farm needs. Also, that by planning together and preparing together they can make their desires known and felt by those who represent our state and federal governments.

Entertainment included western style music furnished by the Carey Brothers and Wayne Walter, popular singer, accompanied by Mr. William Huffman.

Reports were given by Mr. Dale McNeely, of the insurance department; Mr. Russell Meridith, extension department, and Harold Ford, secretary of organization, Organization Department. A special report was given by Mr. Norman Leonhard. This report concerned the I.A.A. annual meeting attended by Cass County Farm Bureau members and delegates. Mr. Leonhard wished everyone could attend at least one I.A.A. annual meeting.

Those reporting for other committees were: Mr. W. Adkins, for the legislative committee; Mr. John Jokisch, for the marketing committee, and Mrs. Carroll Satorius, for the women's committee. In the afternoon session Mrs. Satorius was presented a plaque for the outstanding job that the Cass County Farm Bureau Women's committee did during the past year in their citizenship program.

CAMP TROPHY TO BELLINO

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Naval Academy's Joe Bellino was named Saturday by Washington's Touchdown Club as the outstanding college football back of the year.

Bellino, who scored 18 touchdowns in 1960, will receive the club's Walter Camp Trophy at its 26th annual awards banquet Jan. 14. Bellino already has won the Heisman and Maxwell trophies and made just about everybody's All America team.

Tree Of Lights Lit; 456 Families Receive Baskets

The people of Jacksonville opened up their hearts and displayed a strong Christmas spirit Saturday as they boosted the grand total for this year's Tree of Lights to $3,712.91. At the close of collections Friday the total was just slightly past the two-thousand dollar mark and many feared the gifts would not even reach three thousand. Officials were jubilant Saturday as the-day-before-Christmas donations went past the $1,000 line and put the tree over the top for 1960. A total of 456 baskets was distributed from the funds collected to needy families for the Christmas holiday.

Major Servais commenting on the final outcome of the Tree this year said "I am deeply grateful to all who participated in making the Tree a success, particularly since this is my last Christmas season in Jacksonville." The total for this season was only about $200 short of the amount collected last year Saturday's collections were made by the Lions Club.

Donations of ten dollars or more were received Saturday from the following people: Typographical Union 356, Hofmann Floral Co., Shumaker T.V. & Appliance, Mr and Mrs. M. S. Withers and Woolworth Employees, Clarence Rataichak, Mr. and Mrs. R. Hunter Funk, Bell Sheltered Care House.

Mr. and Mrs. John Furry, Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Hall, Jacksonville Iron and Metal Co., Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Shelton Ruby, Jacksonville Lioness Club, Mr. and Mrs Julian W. Hall, Mr. and Mrs. George Lukeman, Jr., Jacksonville Crown Finance Corp., Watson L. Chance.

Ingels Machine Shoppe, Mr. and Mrs. Olen Gotschall, Mr. and Mrs. William T. Doyle, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Boucher, May Appliance Co., Mr. and Mrs. Earl Walters, Illinois-Missouri Welding Products Co., Anderson Clayton & Co., Klump Tire Company, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Ledbetter, Crane Potato Chip Co., Mr. and Mrs. Clyde W. West, Tuxedo Club, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Sorrill, Longs Pharmacy (Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Long, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Wiegand, Miss Mildred Long).

Bowl Inn, Harolds Market, Flowers by Rieman, Harold Hempel, Grojean Insurance Agency, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Middendorf, McCurdy Ford Sales, Jacksonville Automotive Supply Co., Mr. and Mrs. Albert W. Hall, Mid-West Livestock Buyers Co., Walker Hardware, Vince Penza Realter.

Crawford Lumber Co., Mr. and Mrs. Everett Mason, Murray Studio, Jacksonville Jaycees, Mr. and Mrs F. C. (Dick) Fitzsimmons, Wargas Walgreen Agency Drug Store employees, R & M Electric House, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence T. Goveia, Mr. and Mrs. John Warga and Walgreen's Agency Drug Store, Barney's Gift Shop, Walgreen Agency Drug Store and employees (South Main store).

Working Thursday evening, the Soroptimist Club collected $73.82. During the day Friday the Kiwanians received donations totaling $404.30 while the Business and Professional Woman's club collected $95.68 Friday evening.

The Jacksonville Police turned in another $10 donated by the Bartenders local of Jacksonville.

Those giving $10 or more were Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Lair, Soroptimist Club, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Rogers, Mrs. Ethel Chapman, G L. (Bud) Schneider, Norris Clinic, Marion Thompson, Whitney Hakman and Conaghan, Elliott State Bank, Jacksonville Foods No. 2, Hugh Gibson Contracting Co., Williamson Funeral Home.

Arthur French, Ever-ready Class of Wesley Church, Robert C. Hemphill, Mr. and Mrs. Harris Rowe, New Method Book Bindery, Inc., Boys of the New Method Book Bindery, H. P. Joy, Albert C. Biggs, Steinheimer's Drugs.

THE SALVATION ARMY provides Christmas baskets for more than 500 families each year. This shows a portion of the baskets being processed at the Army Barracks Friday evening. Deliveries were made Saturday morning.

Major Henri Servais, commander of the local Army post, will make his last deliveries this year in Jacksonville. Major Servais will retire in January after a lifetime of devoted service. The Salvation Army Christmas Fund is supported by the Tree of Lights on the Southeast corner of the Public Square and a long list of patrons. Service clubs and civic organizations man the tree of lights during the last week before Christmas. The Army has been serving the needy of Jacksonville at Christmas time longer than any other organization.

Funeral Services For Mrs. Gutmann

Funeral services for Mrs. Elizabeth Gutmann were held Saturday morning at 9 o'clock at the Church of Our Saviour. Requiem High Mass was celebrated by Monsignor Michael Driscoll.

Casket bearers were William Brehm, New Berlin; Art Reiser, Petersburg; Joe Reiser, Ashland; Pat Latham and Leonard Reiser, Pleasant Plains; and John Roth Ashland.

Burial was in St. Augustine Cemetery at Ashland. The Rev. Father Harety officiated at the committal services.

Maryland Man Injured In Scott Collision

Five persons escaped serious injury Friday evening in a two car collision about one mile west of Winchester. A sixth man, James Dillinger of Greenbelt, Md., suffered serious leg injuries and other minor injuries when the two cars collided about 7 p.m.

According to State Police reports Dillinger was parked at the side of the road partially on the pavement while fixing the chains on his auto. A car driven by Jim F. Cravey of Salina, Kan., collided with Dillinger when he was forced back into his own lane of traffic while attempting to pass another car.

Riding in the Cravey car were James Young of Abilene, Kan., Donald Weston of Yates Center, Kan., and Craig Daniels of Clinton, Mo. Mrs. Eva Dillinger, wife of James Dillinger, was a passenger in the other auto. None of the passengers was injured. Cravey suffered only minor lacerations.

Dillinger was taken to Passavant Hospital in the Coonrod ambulance where he was treated for a fractured leg and other injuries and Saturday was transferred by ambulance to a location closer to his home.

The Dillinger auto was towed to the Marshall garage in Winchester. State Troopers Owens and Runkel investigated the accident.

Report Two Accidents In City Saturday

Two traffic accidents were reported to the city police department Saturday morning. No parties were injured although the vehicles involved were damaged considerably.

At 9:32 a.m. a car driven by Claude Rattler, 502 North West Street, and a car driven by Harold D. Zulauf of Arenzville collided at the North East Street-East Douglas Avenue intersection. Rattler was going south on East Street; Zulauf east on Douglas. The Rattler car was damaged in the front end; the Zulauf car was towed to Brummett's garage.

According to police reports the Rattler auto was knocked into a light pole on East Street by the collision.

At 10:05 a.m. a second collision occurred at West College and South Diamond when Alice Wright of 3 Westwood Place collided with Roscoe House of 1315 Tendick street. The Wright auto was heading east on College; House was turning right onto College from Diamond.

Winchester Homes Decked With Festive Decorations

By Dorothy Sauer
Winchester Correspondent

Winners in the 1960 Christmas Home Lighting Contest in Winchester have been announced by the city's Chamber of Commerce as the judges made their final decisions after viewing the contestants' displays on Thursday evening of this week. The judges stated that the decisions were not easy matters since all who entered had beautiful and original displays which denoted much time and effort.

First place winners were Carol and Karen Gillham of 23 West Pleasant Street in the city; Second place was awarded to Mr. and Mrs Tracy E. Johnson, 115 Pearl Street and tied for third place were the displays at the homes of Mr. and Mrs. Robt. H. Frost of East Jefferson Street and Miss Carol Roosa of 201 South Main.

S. R. Faris, Chairman of Chamber of Commerce Committee in charge of the Contest, stated that a tabulation of the judges score cards showed there were only a few points difference between the first place winner and the third place winners. Each display was scored on the following basis: Originality of Christmas lighting arrangement or design—25 points; artistic arrangement and appeal—25 points; extent of Christmas theme portrayed—25 points; and extent of lighting display—25 points. Judges for the contest this year were Mrs Elmer Stuart, Mrs. L. A. and Richard E. Mann.

For the second year your correspondent and her family again had the pleasure of driving around the city to see the displays and to obtain a description of each winner.

At the Gillham home, which was the first place winner this year, the manger scene with Baby Jesus, Mary and Joseph was spotlighted at the east side of the house. Centering the front picture window which was outlined with Xmas lights was an aluminum Christmas tree and below the window on the out side was a red and white simulated fireplace complete with a lighted fire and bedecked with presents on the mantel. The other windows in the front of the home represented stained glass church windows.

Myriads of tiny red Christmas lights outlining the windows of the two story home of the Tracy Johnson's greeted those viewing the second place winner. In one of the windows on the first floor is a large, green Christmas tree adorned with small red ornaments. The front door featured a large illuminated red Santa Claus flanked on either side with sprigs of evergreen tied with large red bows.

The entire front porch of the Carol Roosa home is decorated in keeping with the Christmas Season. On one side is a large simulated fireplace adorned with evergreens lit up by twinkling Christmas lights and the other side of the porch featured an aluminum Christmas tree illuminated by a tri-colored spotlight against a red background. "A Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year" in large red letters on a white background is readily seen across the front edge of the roof. On the lawn of the home is an illuminated Santa in his sleigh being drawn by the tiny reindeer

The other third place winner was the Robert H. Frost's whose new ranch type modern home was beautiful with its myriads of blue Christmas lights nestled in the evergreen in the flower box along the front of the house and outlining the handrail at the front steps. Blue lights outlined each window at the front of the home and centering the large picture window was a huge white Christmas tree decorated with blue ornaments and bright with tiny blue lights. Almost at the top of the large stone chimney which centers the home is an immense wreath of evergreens bedecked with real snow and red bows. Spotlighted at the east edge of the house are Mother and Father Snowman with their two children peeping out from the evergreen bushes. The largest Christmas gift of all seemed to be at the Frost home as the garage door was decorated in aluminum foil and tied with red oil paper ribbon. To complete the scene is three spotlighted cardboard carollers in front of the evergreen trimmed lamp post.

The judges in their tour around town viewed many beautiful home lighting displays that were not entered in the contest and want to commend the people of Winchester.

One of the most outstanding displays and certainly the most simple is the shrine nestled in the rolling lawn at the home of Mrs. B. F. Walker. Each year we, as well as many, many others in the town, stop by to see the three large, twenty foot pine trees which form the background for the shrine outlined with the hundreds of multicolored Christmas lights. The smaller evergreens flanking the white shrine of Our Lady of Fatima are also aglow with Christmas lights. The newly fallen snow on the evergreens added to the scene as we viewed it on Friday evening making it one of the most memorable to be seen during the Christmas season.

Christmas Party

Mrs. Everette Hester, Noble Grand of the Rebekah Lodge in Winchester, entertained the officers of the organization with a Christmas party at her home on Wednesday evening of this week. The annual gift exchange was also held. Officers present included Mrs. Alta Smith, Mrs. Clarence Dynes, Mrs. Fred Evans, Mrs. Margaret Towell, Mrs. Earl Black, Mrs. Cornelia Winger, Miss Edith Young, Mrs. Joseph Daniels, Mrs. Murl Hanback, Miss Ruth Reeder, Mrs. Ed Wild, Mrs. Herman Weder, Mrs. Grace Brown and Mrs. Allen Dolen.

White Shrine

The regular meeting of the White Shrine in Winchester will be held this Monday, Dec. 26, in the Masonic Hall commencing at 7:30 p.m. Mrs. Ernest Jameson will preside in the absence of the worthy high priestess, Mrs. Clarence Dobson.

Comings And Goings

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Leshmett and family are spending Christmas and a few days in Rio, Ill., at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Zook.

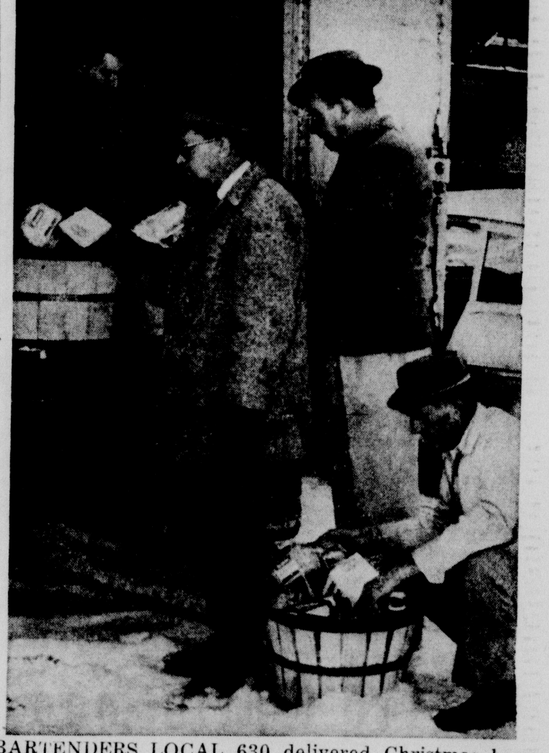

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Butzback left Christmas Eve for New Lennox, Ill., where they will visit at the home of their daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Jordan. Mr. Butzback will return but Mrs. Butzback will remain for a two weeks visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Burl Hornbeck entertained their family with a dinner on Christmas Eve at their home near Winchester. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hornbeck, daughters, Sherri and Sandy, and son, Rick, of Ottawa, Dr. and Mrs. Walter L. Frank, Jr., and small son, Walt, Jr., of Jack-

Buehler-Walton Nuptials December 22 In St. Louis

Of special interest in Jacksonville was the December 22 wedding in St. Louis of Miss Frances Crane Walton and Peter Jeremy Buehler. The bride is the granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Walton of Jacksonville.

The late afternoon ceremony was performed in Danforth Chapel of Pilgrim Gongregational church with Reverend Allen Hackett officiating. The bride was given in marriage by her father, William Walton, Washington, D.C., formerly of Jacksonville.

The former Miss Walton wore a wedding gown of white lace with a tiered ankle length skirt all over pale blue taffeta. Her waist length veil was illusion and she carried a bouquet of white roses and blue tinted carnations.

Peace And Goodwill

It's a sure bet that someone, during this season of peace on earth and goodwill to men, will say: "Wouldn't it be wonderful if we could keep this Christmas spirit the whole year round?"

We've all said it, and we've been sincere. But how many of us have ever stopped to think what the words "peace" and "goodwill" mean to us personally? Have we ever paused to analyze just what the ingredients are that produce this feeling of happy anticipation, this glow of affection for others? Have we ever considered just what persons we include in our expression of "goodwill to men"?

Too often the goodwill reaches only as far as our immediate families and little circle of friends. That's fine, but it's not enough. Not nearly enough in a world like this one where what a bunch of tribesmen in a jungle decide to do may have repercussions that affect all of us.

Too often the peace we wish for is peace for us, on our terms. It is not so much peace as the destruction of our enemies.

The history of mankind can be seen as a gradual extension of certain basic moral beliefs. Brotherly love, kindness, truthfulness, co-operation — all the virtues—probably had their beginning in the primitive family group. They flowered in the life of the one whose birthday we observe today.

When the tribe and the clan—groups of families—came into being, there must have been an enlargement and greater enforcement of the moral code. But all those early beginnings of morality centered on protection and ended abruptly when it came to "enemy" rival clans.

Over thousands of years, the city-state and the nation became the most important social and political units. The morality of the family and tribe, sanctioned by custom and religion, was codified into written law. Yet morality, aside from diplomatic courtesies and protocol, still did not necessarily extend beyond the largest social unit. Throughout recorded time, war has been the usual means of solving disagreements between nations.

Today, however, with the atom bomb, war is no longer a practical extension of diplomacy. Like it or not, we are now one family, and aggression against one member of that family could lead to the end of the world family as a whole.

Peace, based upon brotherly love, expressed by world law and enforceable by some means, seems to be the only alternative. How to attain it is something else again. But it could be begun by us at home as individuals.

When we say "peace on earth," we could mean peace for all men and countries, not just those who agree with our political philosophy.

Yes, it would be wonderful if the Christmas spirit could last the whole year round. It might even be more wonderful if we could know real peace and goodwill as Christ intended it at just this one season of the year for a change.

In Hollywood

By JAMES BACON
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Many stars are clamoring to play bit parts in a picture about the life of Christ.

"You can't imagine the people who have called me," says director George Stevens. He adds that as many as possible will be cast in "The Greatest Story Ever Told."

So far he has cast John Wayne as the Roman soldier at the foot of the cross and Sidney Poitier as Simon of Cyrene, who helped a faltering Christ carry the cross.

"It's been rewarding to have so many famous people volunteer for bit parts. The stars themselves have called me, not their agents. There's never been a word about money although many of these people command a million dollars a picture. They don't ask for any specific role—they just want to be in the movie, no matter how small the part."

Wayne's role, for instance, will take less than a week to shoot in a picture that will take a year. The whole movie will be shot here.

"The Holy Land isn't the same as it was 2,000 years ago," explains Stevens.

Although a dozen or more big name stars will be in the picture, Stevens doesn't want a big name to play Christ.

"I don't want an unknown necessarily, because the role is so demanding that only a good actor can play it. He must be talented enough to compete with some of the screen's great actors — and still not be too well known. It's a tough order to fill," says the director.

"This is one of the greatest woman roles I have seen in my career. I looked no further than Elizabeth," says the director.

Little but the title of Fulton Oursler's best-seller will be used. Stevens says the screenplay is shaping up like a masterpiece.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — James Stewart's estimated take from his current "Two Rode Together" is a million or better.

It's a Western as are most of the recent pictures in which he has made millions. A newsman asked him what made him decide to become a Western star a la John Wayne and Gary Cooper.

"Comedy was my forte before World War II," drawled Stewart. "When I returned I did the same thing but with little success. I knew something had to be done to my career but I kept putting it off.

"Then one day a magazine writer came to interview me. I asked what the subject of the interview was. He told me frankly: 'The rise and fall of James Stewart.'

"I became a Western star shortly afterwards."

Those Computers Catch on To the System, Says General

By JERRY BENNETT
Written For NEA

WASHINGTON—(NEA)— Gen. George H. Decker, Army chief of staff, says he is continually amazed at the efficiency of the Army's new electric computers. He told reporters at a National Press Club luncheon:

"The smartest computer belongs to our intelligence section. Other day we asked it how Russia's reduction in ground forces affected our defense posture. The computer replied, "That information is classified until after next year's appropriations hearings."

SWINGING INVITATION to Washington's inaugural ball is Mrs. Frances Westerman's idea of the perfect Christmas present.

The Fair Lawn, N. J., housewife wants to attend the gala event to meet her double, the First Lady-elect. Mrs. Westerman looks so much like Jackie Kennedy that she is often mistaken for her on the street.

To achieve her goal the young housewife has wired a large bouquet of flowers to Mrs. Kennedy and has asked New Jersey Representives Charles S. Joelson and Bill Widnall to drop hints in the right places.

RUSHING TO PICK UP a dinner jacket that he had ordered by phone, Washington executive Tom Hodson was startled when the street address turned out to be Louie's restaurant instead of Louie's clothiers. But he was even more surprised when the doorman hollered:

"Don't run off. We're expecting you. People are always phoning us by mistake. But you sounded so anxious that the boss decided to lend you a coat."

He then produced a dinner jacket that fit perfectly.

NEWSMEN have finally solved the problem of what to call President-elect Kennedy's combination home and "new frontiers" headquarters in Georgetown.

At first they thought about dubbing it "The Red House" but scrapped the idea. The name had too many overtones.

Finally someone came up with the idea of calling it "The Red Brick House." This satisfied everybody.

A CAPITAL FLORIST has created two special arrangements for customers who send flowers by wire.

One is the "John Fitzgerald Kennedy." It's composed of "New Frontier lillies sprinkled with American prestige carnations, tastefully bordered with picket fence roses, all in the shape of Jackie's latest hairdo."

Keep Learning Against Day Of Retirement Leisure

BY MARIE DAERR

"As you travel through life continue to learn new things. Then, when retirement comes, you will get some fun out of the adjustments and challenges of continual 'learning by doing.'"

This is good advice from James McCuish, director of Detroit's Kundig Center.

In a report for a State Conference on Aging held recently in Lansing, Mich., McCuish said that the leisure time a retired person has can cause "untold hardships on the individual, his family and society itself."

In fact, McCuish believes that many an older person has died before his time simply because he got bored "killing time," couldn't bear the loneliness he encountered and found no reason to live.

McCuish blames America's school curriculum for the fact that our people aren't ready for retirement.

"Our schools are oriented toward adolescence and young adults," he said. "Very little is ever mentioned about old age."

In an article in the Michigan Alumnus Quarterly Review, Prof. Norman D. Kurland of Hofstra College condemns the use of leisure time to consume "the intellectual pablum distributed by the mass entertainment industries."

"Much, though by no means all, of this activity is neither creative nor imaginative," Prof. Kurland states. 'For many, increased leisure has led to boredom and restlessness, making them eager consumers of the sort of vicarious excitement to be found in such things as sport car racing, spectator sports and TV horror films, or has driven them to seek the distractions provided by travel, gambling or drinking."

The professor also criticizes do-it-yourself activities which don't stimulate the imagination or the intellect.

"However much they preserve their devotees from boredom, they do little to enrich the individual personality or contribute to the spiritual heritage of mankind," he said.

"There has been no significant rise in interest or participation in the political life of our communities and nation. The level of political discussion in the press is one reflection of this condition, as is the difficulty of getting people to devote their leisure to political activity or to any other public causes."

The World Today

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — The early moves of President-elect John F. Kennedy's new administration probably will revolve more around his shrewdness in handling Congress than on what he proposes to do about problems at home.

Overseas he'll have his hands full.

Judging from the starting program he intends to lay before Congress, where his Democrats far outnumber the Republicans, he will neither suggest nor try anything startling.

The proposals he talks about were all part of the campaign promises he made. They didn't get through Congress last year. For instance, medical care for the aged tied to Social Security. So he'll try again as he is pledged to.

If Southern Democrats and Republicans band together, they can mess him up. Some Republicans talk of such a coalition.

Surely O.K. In House

But it seems unlikely the Democratic-run House — there the Democrats outnumber the Republicans 260 to 177—will start off trying to frustrate Kennedy. It would be a sorry reception for their party's new leader.

In the Senate, where the Democrats are still in charge with a majority of 65 to 35 Republicans, Kennedy will have some real pros working as his chief lieutenants: Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson and Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana.

It is important to both Johnson and Mansfield, who succeeds him as Democratic leader, to see the Kennedy administration get off to a good start. A defeat for Kennedy would be a personal defeat for them.

But it's in the foreign field that Kennedy and his administrators and advisors probably will feel they're walking through a dark jungle.

Besides trying to deal with the Russians and Premier Khrushchev, Kennedy must find some way to keep the people of Southeast Asia and Latin America on the U.S. side.

Dangerous Situation

In Africa, both the people and their new nations are literally just coming alive as an active force in a world where for centuries they were kept in second-class citizen status as colonials. That continent will be explosive for years.

The Kennedy administration somehow must find a way to convince the millions of Africans that their future will be better with the West.

Any critical showdown with the Soviet Union during Kennedy's administration may come first in Africa.

And even with American allies in Europe, Kennedy must keep the alliance not only alive but cooperative.

On top of all this, and yet critically related to it, Kennedy must subdue the flow of American gold overseas, keep trade healthy, and at the same time build American defenses to a point discouraging to Soviet ambitions.

Kennedy is a young man. What he faces is enough to make an old man of him.

Christmas Perspective

By RALPH W. LOEW, D.D.
Written For NEA

Christmas brings hope to hurt people. It was born in a world of hurts. It has survived the storms of the centuries. It has even overcome the sentimentalisms and commercialisms heaped upon it. Always there is Christmas with its eternal message of hope for hurt people.

Some of the world's hurt people become rebels. They echo the words of one of the characters in Osborne's play, "Look Back In Anger:"

"I keep looking back as far as I can remember and I can't think what it was to feel young, really young . . . people want to escape from the pain of being alive."

Such people forget that Christmas was born in a world of pain with a concern for all mankind. This is the festival of starlit expectancy.

Christmas gives a prespective to life. It isn't just in the addition of number of facts, that we build a great faith. It is also in the recognition of this fact of love in a world of cruelty, before which the personal events of our own days can be handled. Life can be a flat and primitive thing, or it can have depth and meaning and significance.

The fact of Christmas becomes the faith which gives that meaning.

Pageants in churches are not usually the evidence of the great catastrophic events of mankind. They deal with symbols, and with the emblems of life. Yet the other evening, a pageant of Christmas told with great dignity the events which cluster about this story.

Just as they were about to leave the church, they paused and a light played on the cross on the altar. In that moment, life and death were held together.

Christmas with its joy and happiness deals with hurts and hatreds, with the record of a dictator, the exile of a family, the murder of innocent children, the unjust taxation of a people, and the cry of anguish of hurt people.

Yet ringing through it is the fact of love and the quiet certainty that this love and not tragedy is at the center of the universe.

So Christmas is not the story of economic success, or military supremacy, or an insurance against calamity. It is the fact that gives meaning to life —to your life—and that faith gives substance to our history. Let's listen to the carols and accept the invitation:

"And ye beneath life's crushing load,
Whose forms are bending low,
Who toil along the painful way
With painful steps and slow:
Look now, for glad and golden hours
Come swiftly on the wing.
O rest beside the weary road,
And hear the angels sing."

DELAYED BY PRACTICE

BALTIMORE (AP) — Madame Agi Jambor, concert pianist, told Ernest R. Fink of Baltimore about the incident at a musical festival in Pennsylvania.

En route by train to an engagement in Kalamazoo, Mich., Madame Jambor opened up her portable practice keyboard in her sleeping car berth and clacked away on the gadget to keep her fingers limber.

Next day, the train arrived in Kalamazoo two hours late. When Madame Jambor asked why, the conductor said they had stopped for two hours during the night to make a fruitless search for the source of a dangerous clacking noise in one of the sleeping cars.

He Enjoys Supermarket Tour

By Gaynor Maddox
Written For NEA

What do husbands think of supermarkets and shopping centers? We received a letter from a Midwest father which answers in part that modern question. Here are a few of his remarks:

"I'll start by saying that in the United States today there are probably more groceries bought at night than any other hours of the day. That's a far cry from my youth when grocers used to call once every week, get the family order and then deliver it the next day.

"I may not be a typical husband, but I LIKE to go to the supermarket even though I always spend more money than my wife does when she goes alone.

"In a sense, the shopping center has become the American bazaar. It's an expedition night away from home for the wife, husband and kids."

January will be well stocked with abundant food. Latest U. S. Dept. of Agriculture reports highlight broiler-fryers, cranberries, onions, cabbage and canned ripe olives. Take a look the next time you and the family visit the local shopping center or supermarket. Bargains never upset anyone.

Farm Specialists Peer Into '61

Gold Outflow Cloud Over Export Trade

Consumer demand for U. S. farm products may rise some in the year ahead, but probably not so much as in most of the past 10 years, a University of Illinois agricultural economist believes.

L. H. Simerl points out that domestic demand for farm products will depend primarily on consumers' incomes and their willingness to spend money for food. And consumer income is closely related to industrial production levels, employment and wage rates.

L. H. SIMERL

Industrial output, which ran ahead of sales in the first half of 1960, has been cut back about 3 percent. This cut-back has balanced output with sales, but it leaves many businessmen with somewhat excessive stocks of some materials and finished products.

Since present industrial capacity seems to be more than adequate to supply buyers' wants, businessmen see no need to increase their outlays for new plants and equipment. Changes in the rate of capital investment are the principal cause of swings in business activity.

Gold Outflow Problem

Efforts to check the outflow of gold may prevent large increases in government spending to boost business activity. It would also be a serious mistake to expect that money for spending to stimulate the economy can be obtained by "plugging tax loopholes." Looking at the economy as a whole, this device is simply a means of increasing taxes and replacing private spending with public projects.

A bright spot in the business picture is that individuals are now saving at a rate of $29 billion a year, up $4 billion from 12 months ago. Increased savings provide a basis for increased spending, and income, at some future date.

Record Sales

Foreign demands for farm products have been at record rates in recent months. But further increases seem likely to be prevented by attempts to limit dollar spending in foreign countries.

Consumers spent about $3 billion more for food in the third quarter of 1960 than a year earlier. If some of this increase could get back to the farmer, his income would improve considerably.

Simerl also sees two possible favorable developments in the overall 1961 farm outlook. Marketing costs, the spread between farm and retail prices, may not increase as they did in most of the past 15 years. And farm operating costs likewise may be kept under better control than they were in the 1950s.

Wages are the biggest item in marketing costs and in many of the things farmers buy. If wage increases are no greater than increases in labor productivity, then there should be little or no increase in farm marketing or operating costs.

This Week.. at Dixon Springs

The holiday spirit at the Dixon Springs Experiment Station is evident in the Christmas decorations gracing the front lawn of the Administration Building.

We would expect the foresters to provide the Christmas tree—which they did. But again, as in the past two years, they have gone all out to decorate as well. "Merry Christmas" to all passers-by is spelled out in huge red letters stretching across the lawn. The letters are spot-lighted at night and give forth the same message as the result of a reflective paint job. A well-lighted tree backs the lettering, but the crowning touch is the huge lighted star glowing atop the flag pole.

Ewe Flock Care

Frank Hinds, sheep researcher, and Eugene Lauderdale, sheep herdsman, are busy getting the ewe flock shaped up for a bumper lambing season.

Part of the flock is getting healthful exercise as well as a lot of feed from running on fescue pastures. The ewes have access to a shed and are being fed a little grain, some hay and a good feed of corn silage.

As the ewe flock moves in from pasture to winter lambing quarters, Frank suggests drenching to clean out internal parasites. A wormy ewe is not the kind from which to expect an abundance of milk for the new lambs.

Here at the Station our worming program has been one in which drenches with phenothiazine and lead arsenate are alternated with Cu-nic (copper sulfate-nicotine). Hinds feels that, though more costly, the fine-particle phenothiazine for drenching pays well. Fine-particle phenothiazine (4-6 microns) is about half the particle size of regular or stock pheno powder. This half-size material is about twice as effective as the regular size.

Crotch Ewes

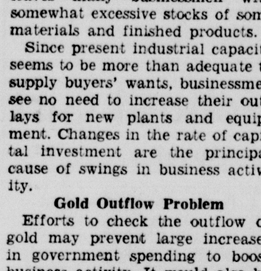

Another project at the sheep barns is crotching the ewes. Crotching means shearing the wool and tags from around the dock, down the back of the hind legs and around the area of the udder. Crotching provides a clean, clear, open dinner plate for the young nursing lamb, and, according to a study made last year at the Station, the result was more lambs marketed.

Handling ewes for crotching may result in a somewhat greater number of premature lambs and lambs dead at birth. But in the test last winter this disadvantage was easily overcome, and the lamb loss was lower, particularly the first week after lambing.

If the ewes are closer than a month away from lambing, crotching can be delayed until immediately after lambing.

Sees Continued Fight Over Farm Policies

The family farm will remain the basic unit in American agriculture, but it will be more mechanized, more specialized and require more capital investment than in the past.

HAROLD G. HALCROW

This is the view of Harold G. Halcrow, head of the University of Illinois department of agricultural economics. He also feels that the outlook for farm prices in the next few years is that they will continue at the general level of the past two or three years. A return to the price relationships of the early 1950's does not seem likely.

The price trends of recent years reflect the broad shift in world markets as the effects of World War II and the Korean War recede into the background, Halcrow points out. Food will continue to be one of the great bargains of our society, and farm problems will continue to be one of the major domestic issues.

The battle over farm price policy that has raged intermittently for almost 40 years is not headed for an early or easy settlement in the 1960's. Halcrow emphasizes. He suggests four areas to which government policy-makers and others should devote more attention:

More Education Stressed

1. Young people in rural areas need a broader education so that they will not be solely dependent on farming as a future occupation. Studies show that there is room in farming for about one out of four or five of the young people who grow up on farms. Many of these young people are not aware of the great opportunities open to them through education.

2. Off-farm employment will greatly aid those who find themselves in low-income situations and who have the qualifications for and an interest in off-farm employment. Ways should be found to provide job training so that those who take nonfarm jobs won't have to start so far down on the income ladder.

Some Help Needed

3. Farm families need help in planning and financing the best adapted family farms.

4. We need to recognize more clearly the place of programs that will "cushion" the shock of a price squeeze pending more fundamental allocation of resources. We should have emergency programs, but we should be willing to modify these programs in time to prevent difficult adjustment problems.

Plan Winter Course For Young Farmers

The Morgan County Farm Bureau will sponsor a three-day winter short course for young farm people next month.

It will be held at Farm Bureau hall Jan. 9-11, beginning at 9 a.m. and ending at 3 p.m. All interested young people in the county, and especially the young married couples on farms, are invited to attend.

The course is designed to tell some of the history of the Farm Bureau and the cooperatives it has developed and fostered, and some of their aims and aspirations for the future.

Each day's program will begin with a talk by a guest speaker. Four principal areas of interest will be studied each day.

Issues and Farm Bureau Policy —Gerald Hagaman, Canton, district II, director of organization.

Public Relations and Salesmanship—Instructor not named yet.

The Farm Bureau hopes that 75 to 100 young people from all sections of the county will register for the course. Arrangements are in charge of Jack Smith of Franklin, president of the Young People's committee, and John Chambers, local organization director.

A free lunch will be served each day by the Home Bureau.

A potluck dinner meeting will be held at Farm Bureau hall Tuesday evening, Jan. 3, to make final plans for the three-day school.

'61 Time For Caution In Cattle Business

A University of Illinois livestock marketing economist believes that 1961 will be a time for caution in the cattle business.

M. B. Kirtley expects that earnings will generally be relatively low. Producers will find that careful selection of the time and place to market their cattle will be especially important. Further problems also appear likely in 1962, when supplies of beef will be higher and hog slaughter will also be high.

M. B. KIRTLEY

Cattle prices will continue to move lower. Prices of better grades of fed cattle will probably average about $2.00 a hundred pounds below 1960 prices. Lower grades will decline even more.

Slaughter will rise, but the number of cattle will still be higher on January 1, 1962, than on January 1, 1961. The calf crop will be considerably above that of 1960.

Cattle prices will be stronger in the early part of the year. Limited numbers of fed cattle scheduled to come to market in January and February should mean prices close to those of a year earlier. The spring market, which has been favorable for the past three years, will be good, but not so much above winter prices as in recent years.

Feed supplies are large, but not many more cattle will be fed in 1961 than in 1960. The cost replacement cattle and declining slaughter prices have not left much net for many feeding operations. Therefore, most of the increased beef supply will not be grain-fed.

Beef supplies in 1960 were near the 85.4-pound record set in 1956. Next year the supply will be near 89 or 90 pounds and will set a new record. Imports of beef, while only part of our total supply, will decline because of the increase in domestic supplies.

'HOSTAGE' VETERAN

NEW YORK (AP) — Celia Salkeld, who has been acting in "The Hostage" for three years, notes a lot of change in the Brendan Behan opus.

She began with the show in first premier at Dublin and is still with the company at Broadway's Barrymore theater.

"It was an entirely different play then," she reports. "It was a serious play and there was none of the singing and dancing we have in it now."

Miss Salkeld, who is Behan's sister-in-law, says he wrote the play after a number of Irish actresses complained that his first script, "The Quare Fellow" had no feminine parts.

Consumers bought more than eight pounds of cheese per person in 1960 —a 48 percent increase over the 1935-39 average.

Butter use averaged less than 8 pounds per person in 1960 compared with 17 pounds in 1935-39.

Predicts Some Change For Soybean Advance

Soybean prices have a fair chance of going up substantially next spring and summer, a University of Illinois argiculture economist believes.

T. A. HIERONYMUS

T. A. Hieronymus says that a sustained decline from the present $2.00 to $2.05 price appears unlikely.

Here is how Hieronymus appraises the 1961 soybean outlook:

Total supplies for the 1960-61 marketing year beginning Oct. 1 are estimated at 583 million bushels compared with 590 million bushels last year. Since about 23 million bushels were carried over last year, the carryover this coming year may be reduced. Before short supplies produce any real fireworks in price movements, the carryover must drop to around 10 million bushels. A moderate rise in soybean use could produce a tight situation.

Exports could surpass the 142 million bushels shipped abroad last year. In mid-November, exports were running about 6.5 million bushels ahead of the same time last year. Japan is slated to buy an extra 5 million bushels next spring.

Disposing of soybean oil will continue to be a problem. World fat and oil supplies stand at all-time highs. With competing oil supplies up and soybean oil prices about 25 percent higher, large exports for dollars do not appear probable. Oil prices are apt to decline except as the government finds new ways to dispose of the surplus.

Meal prices probably will rise by spring and summer. Favorable feeding ratios for hog and egg producers favor increased use of soybean meal. Current low meal prices will encourage large use. A larger 1961 pig crop and spring chick hatch will also strengthen the demand for meal. Meal supplies could run short and cause a substantial rise in soybean prices.

U.S. Farm Prices Follow World Trend

We have long been impressed by the apparent influence of international economic conditions on prices of U.S. farm products. A new example of this relationship recently came to our attention.

The Foreign Agricultural Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture published a chart showing world agricultural prices from 1952 through 1959. This chart showed that the world prices had declined 17 percent during this period.

Then we got to wondering about the decline in U.S. farm prices over the same time. When the figures were checked, they showed that prices received by U.S. farmers had declined the same amount, 17 percent, from 1952 to 1959!

To be sure, prices in the United States and elsewhere do not always move precisely together. For example, there was a temporary recovery of world prices in 1954, while prices in the United States declined. Changes in price-support operations and government programs make for divergent price movements.

But there are many reasons for expecting U.S. farm prices to be strongly influenced by world markets. One of these is that large proportions of many U.S. farm products are sold in other countries.

Exports Are Larger

In the fiscal year ended last June 30, U.S. farm products valued at $4.5 billion were exported. These exports represented the produce of one acre of every six harvested. Our exports are running even greater this year.

Some of our agricultural exports are far foreign aid and gifts, but most of them are sold for good old U.S. dollars. Of the total farm exports in the year ended June 30, 1960, less than 4 percent was grants and donations, 3 percent was traded directly for other commodities, and 22 percent was sold for foreign currency (to be spent in the foreign country or invested there). Foreign buyers bought 29 percent with dollars in special exports where our government gave some assistance, usually in the form of moderate price discounts. But foreign buyers took 42 percent by simply offering more dollars for them than our own buyers were willing to pay.

What We Sell

In the past year exports provided outlets for 56 percent of our rice, 48 percent of our wheat, 44 percent of our tallow, 44 percent of our cotton, 41 percent of our barley, 29 percent of our tobacco, 26 percent of our soybeans, 24 percent of our lard, 23 percent of our sorghum grain and 15 percent of our corn.

But the United States does not have a monopoly on world export markets. We provide only about 17 percent of the farm products that move into international trade.

The leading foreign buyers of our farm products are the United Kingdom, Canada, Japan, the Netherlands and West Germany. All of these countries are good cash customers, and they can buy wherever they get the best prices. This is what keeps the pressure on us to keep our prices in line with world markets.

We should add that the over-all index of U.S. farm prices relatively steady in recent years. The lowest level since World War II was reached five years ago, in December 1955. Prices recently were about 10 per cent above the 1955 low.

Huge Crop To Keep Corn At Loan Level

Corn prices have passed their low, but huge supplies will prevent them from reaching the loan price until late spring or summer, a University of Illinois agricultural economist believes.

L. F. STICE

L. F. Stice reports that the 1960 Illinois corn crop brought Illinois farmers overflowing cribs, knotty production and marketing problems and disappointing prices. The 1960 crop of 694 million bushels set a new record and is 3 percent larger than last year's crop.

Prices dropped 20 cents a bushel below those of last year during the peak of the harvest movement. Depressed prices resulted from the record corn crop, a large volume of high-moisture corn and a shortage of storage space and drying capacity, Stice explains. The build-up in government stocks, a large grain sorghum crop, a cut of 6 cents a bushel in the government price support and a cut-back in hog production also contributed to lower corn prices.

By early December, prices at country elevators had moved up 8 to 10 cents a bushel as lighter marketings eased the pressure on storage and drying facilities. Low prices also stimulated buying by users who had storage space.

Heavy Sales Expected

Further improvement in prices will be moderate, as marketings will be large during the winter and spring months. Some corn on farms will be sold because of high moisture, or cribs will not qualify for the government loan.

Commodity Credit Corporation will also make large sales of non-storable corn. CCC put some high-moisture and damaged corn into temporary storage when taking over 1959 loan corn. The need to make room for the 1960 loan corn is also likely to increase sales.

Plenty Of Competition

Illinois corn price recovery will also be slowed by the large crops in Indiana and Ohio. These states have a location advantage for supplying the eastern feed grain markets.

Corn use may almost equal the 4.1-billion-bushel record set last season. Feed grain consumption per animal, abundant cheap, high-moisture corn and large-volume cattle feeding will nearly offset the cut-back in hogs and poultry on farms this winter. Corn exports may not equal those of last year because the European feed grain output is up and those countries also have some poor-quality wheat to feed.

If the 1960-61 corn use runs 4.0 to 4.1 billion bushels, then about 200 million bushels will be added to the accumulated surplus next October 1.

CHURCH CONFORMITY HIT

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—"A collectivist siren call has lured free men into a trust in government rather than God," Dr. Perry E. Gresham, president of Bethany College in West Virginia, told a church convention here.

"A flight from freedom," he said, "has invited the human authority of church, state, association or union to replace the firm stand of one free conscience answering only to God."

Grain marketing economists point out that the nation's real wheat surplus problem doesn't involve all types of wheat. They say hard wheat is the main type in surplus on the market today.

Rockets And Space—

Six Part Training

By Walter B. Hendrickson Jr.

The Project Mercury astronaut training program is divided into six general parts.

The first part consists of giving the astronauts an education in the basic sciences they would need to know for their work on Project Mercury. The second part deals with making the astronauts familiar with the conditions they will meet on flights into orbit around the earth and back again.

This phase of the program is providing information on: the ability of the astronaut to add to the reliability of the Project Mercury rocket system during space flight; the mental and physical effects of normal and emergency conditions in space; the requirements for the support and restraint systems (contour couch and seat belts); the environmental control system; and the crew space layout.

The object of the third segment of the Project Mercury training program is to give the astronauts a thorough knowledge of the capsule and its functions. This includes developing the skills required to control the capsule in flight, a technical knowledge of the Atlas booster, propulsion systems (how the rocket works) and ballistics (flight of a wingless rocket). This part of the program also requires the astronauts to be familiar with the test range, tracking, and recovery systems.

During this training period, the astronauts will study the equipment carried by the capsule. This will include the development of skills in testing and taking care of scientific equipment, environmental control system and life support equipment.

For the fourth phase of the training program each astronaut will be assigned to a system or subsystem of the Project Mercury capsule. This will allow each to gain a specialized knowledge which will be valuable to the entire group. The astronauts exchange this information at a series of informal seminars (discussion classes).

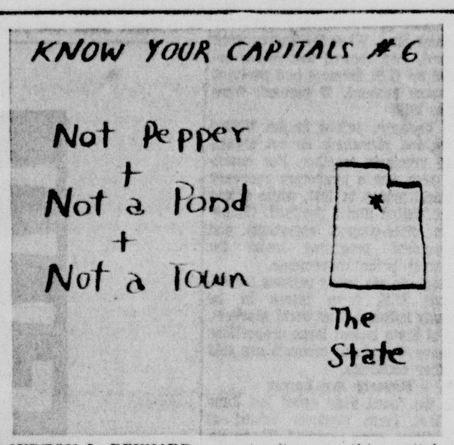

The astronauts also contribute some work to the development of the capsule. This adds a little more man power to the Space Task Group as well as providing the astronauts with an intimate knowledge of all the aspects of the Project Mercury capsule itself.

The astronauts will continue to keep up their flying skills which they used as military test pilots. This will give them additional experience with conditions very much like those they will meet on their Project Mercury mission. These high altitude flights will also keep them familiar with the mental stresses they will meet in space.

In the sixth phase of their training the Project Mercury astronauts learn about the ground support and launch operations that will rocket them into space.

Know Your Capitals?

Let's Go Birding—

Bluebirds Tell Of Sour Grapes

By Emma Mae Leonhard

Undaunted He Sat

It must have been before Thanksgiving that the Great Horned Owl claimed its station in the tall Hemlock Tree in Diamond Grove Cemetery. At least on Thanksgiving Day he was very much at home as he perched among the branches of the Hemlock. There he sat cozily surrounded from above and on both sides by the gracefully drooping green branches; in fact he was actually framed by the interwoven green twigs.

There sat this great brown owl with little feather horns, large-pupilled yellow eyes, and a white throat, clinging securely and steadily with his enormous white talons. In a neighboring Hemlock perched his mate. Great Horned Owls are not common; to see two from one spot is truly a memorable field event.

Soon out of the sky flapped in several Crows, shouting, screaming, and threatening the two owls. At first, they closed in around the Great Horned intruder, and nothing happened. A moment of silence prevailed; the Crows seemed dazed. Then they moved their circle of attack toward his mate, hurling their ammunition of angry caws at her. Out she flew, the Crows accompanying her to the trees at the south border of the cemetery.

Encouraged and pompous, the Crows returned to drive out their stubborn rival. They screamed, and they shouted; they swooped, and they circled. Unmoved and undaunted, the Great Horned Owl remained; he wasted no glance and blinking of the eye upon them. The Crows retreated and left the great owl of the Hemlocks, the Crossbills, the Juncos, the woodpeckers, and all other birds that bring life to the silent cemetery.

Birders who have visited this spot during November and December to check upon the Crossbills have seen the same performance at every visit. Actually the Great Horned Owl has almost stolen the show in his silent dignity. He is probably still sitting in his Hemlock tree house and can be visited by all those who wish to call. He undoubtedly is wishing all of you a "Very Merry but Cold Christmas."

Christmas Program

By Mrs. Otto Dorr

Part 3: Crash, Bang!

Off came one boot and out spilled storybooks, games and toys, only two muffs rolled along the floor silently, each holding a little doll safely protected deep within the fur.

Frances never opened her eyes although startled little sister almost sat up in bed. But Frances' hand tightly clutching her arm, reminded Jennie to stay asleep.

Santa was sure that he had spoiled the play. But, since no one moved on the stage or in the audience of fathers and mothers, he managed to push his foot back in the loosened boot, clamber over the upturned chair and one by one grope for the scattered presents, but where were those muffs?

The muffs had rolled nearly to the edge of the stage. There the excited little primary children in the front seats, could plainly see them.

Helping Santa

"Look, look" one called, and reaching up, carefully pushed one at a time back toward the sack. Then, as Santa had practiced, he continued with his act, piling two towers of gifts, story books at the bottom, then games and toys topped with muffs where he remembered to push out the pretty doll heads so that they could face the sleeping sisters.

Slowly, he closed his great sack, righted the upturned rocker, and circling that tricky chair, he tiptoed away.

One by one the stage lights brightened. Lola came back to the door calling "It's Christmas morning!"

Now the little girls could gaily climb out to find those waiting gifts, then the curtains closed for the play was ended except for clapping hands that rang from the audience.

Everyone, everyone out there thought Santa's tumble was a well practiced part of the play!

True Story—

Long-Ago School Girl

By Mary Pence Claywell

Part 12: Christmas Time

Christmas was indeed, a time of great feasting, but it didn't last the whole year through! The children in those days, who were exposed to real toil along with a few hardships and with little pampering, survived most childhood illnesses and were strong in both body and mind.

But Christmas was the day of days, and so the country school was a regular beehive of activity.

Everything Shining

The windows were washed by the teacher and older girls, the blackboards were kept spotless, the kerosene lamps were cleaned and their chimneys and reflectors were shined crystal bright. Even the old seats and desks, with their many scars and carved initials, were washed and kept thoroughly dusted!

The many recitations were given out and the individual parts of dialogues were written off for the children who were to play them. And right here, I want to tell you that some real acting took place in the plays which were often an hour, or more, in length.

Every child had to learn his or her part well. Then there was always a beautiful "tableau" which must be planned, where children dressed in snowy robes of cheese cloth, with bright crowns upon their heads, knelt or marched upon the stage; or quietly stood and gazed upon the Manger Scene where a golden-haired doll represented the Lovely Lord Jesus who was born in Christmas Day.

The whole scene was shining in dazzling light as a bright powder was touched off at the corners of the stage. Usually, in the background, a white-robed angel held aloft a shining wand, tipped with a Star that sparkled and shone like the real stars of Heaven!

By Mary Pence Claywell

Behold The Bright Star in the sky . . . The Heavenly Host are standing nigh, the shepherds quake upon the Plain . . . The Morning Stars of Heaven sing! "For unto you is born this day," the Angel's words drift far away . . . "in the City of David," precious Word, "A Saviour Who is Christ The Lord!"

Come go to Bethlehem today, come see The Manger and the hay! Come kneel with Mary, sweet and mild . . . Come worship, World, The Holy Child!

What thought the shadows cast their gloom . . . What thought there seems so little room for Christ The Lord, come set apart a place for Him . . . within your heart!

Hear thou, O World, the angels sing! The wise of earth still seek the King! They still behold the Star on high . . . they hear the cattle's lullaby! They share the shepherds' calm repose who sought The Babe in swaddling clothes!

Be not dismayed O World, tonight! Lift up your eyes to Heaven's Light! Kneel with the shepherds once again, hear thou, The Stars of Heaven sing!

Faint not, thy cross indeed is light . . . The Saviour, World, is born tonight! Reject Him not . . . No-el . . . No-el . . . All hail The Christ . . . Immanuel!

The Star so bright is beckoning you to set apart, a place for Christ within your heart!

How To Keep That Gear Going

By Joseph A. Smith

Part 4: More On Replacements

THIRD: Replace all bypass and coupling capacitors in the power output stage one at a time. Next carefully check all resistors used in this circuit, and replace any questionable ones. If one looks black it may have been running too hot; replace it with the same ohmage value of resistor by one of a higher wattage rating.

a.) Check the speaker output transformer wires, both primary and secondary, and any jacks Keep an eye open for frayed wires loose connections, possible near shorts, etc.

b.) Check the prongs on the tube socket; if excessively loose, why not replace that old socket with a new one (only 10c usually).

c.) When all work is completed, carefully check over all work done before proceeding further. Catch any mistakes now, not later!

FOURTH: Next replace all couplins and bypass capacitors in the detector circuit, carefully check all resistors in this circuit and replace the questionable ones. Again check that tube socket; is it still good. If a volume control potentiometer is included in this circuit, and if it is very noisy and scratchy, it would be wise to replace it too at this time.

Carefully check all work done before continuing.

FIFTH: Continue next with the Intermediate Amplifier, Mixer-Oscillator, and any R.F. Amplifier sections in that order, one stage at a time, following the above method in each case. Again after completing the work on each separate stage, carefully re-check all work done on that particular stage before continuing.

When all work is completed check over the entire job BEFORE trying it out. Unless you have the necessary equipment for I.F. alignment and front-end alignment, don't attempt this!

Any serviceman will do the job in just a very short time and for very little cost. It can not be done properly without the proper equipment!

If you have been careful, the receiver should work very well immediately. No doubt it will need realignment though.

ORIGINAL POEM

I went downstairs
On Christmas morning
My mother didn't call me
I needed no warning.

And there was Santa
I watched him with open eyes
He turned around and saw me
He got a surprise.

Oh Santa Santa
Santa dear
Are you and your reindeer
Really here?

Or am I just dreaming
Up in my bed?
And are you just dancing
Up in my head?

Then up the chimney
Santa went
And that's how my Christmas toys
Were sent.

Dear ol Santa
Was really here
Dear ol Santa
And his reindeer.

I yelled "Goodbye"
I waved my hand
As he went passing by.

TWO-STATE BIRTHS

PLATTEVILLE, Wis. (AP) — Prof. and Mrs. David A. Blaeuer are the proud parents of newly arrived twins, each born in a different state.

Mrs. Blaeuer gave birth to a boy at Platteville Hospital. Then apparent complications set in. It was decided to transfer the mother to Mercy Hospital at Dubuque, Iowa, for specialized care. There three hours after birth of the boy, a girl was born.

Each infant weighed in at 4½ pounds.

Just For Fun

By Joseph A. Smith

Word Game

Just for fun, how many words (not including proper names or foreign words) can you make from EACH of the following words? Each letter may be used only as many times as it appears in the word given:

SPRINGTIME WASHINGTON

Grade yourself something like this:

30 or more words—Excellent. You MUST study some!

20 or more words—Good, but could be better.

15 or more words—Fair.

Under 15—You'd better forget that T.V. and study a bit more!

Answers

Don't read these until you have seen how many words you can think of by yourself.

(1) SPRINGTIME:

Ring, Time, Spring, Me, Item, Met, Spite, Sprite, Mint, Gin Miter, Mist, Misprint, Mite, String Grit, Prime, Mine, Miner, Spite Step, Spin, Pint, Pet, Grim Grime, Get, Tire, Trip, and Triple. (30 Words)

(2) WASHINGTON:

Wash, Ash, Thing, Sing, Ton Gash, Oats, To, Win, Wash, Shin, Has, Want, Wanton, Wait, Wan Go, Haw, Thin, Got, Gain, Waist Going, Into Onto, At, Sat, Sit, It Bait. (30 Words).

Yes, there are still more, but this is a good start.

Wonder World—

Pottos And Tarsiers

By Rip Barnsdall

Potto

The potto has part of its backbone outside its body. Some of the tips of the backbone stick up for about one eighth of an inch. It uses its back in fighting.

The potto slashes at its enemies by putting its head between its hind legs. The exposed backbone can inflict many cuts.

The potto is a tree dweller Foods are fruits, leaves, and insects.

It is active at night. During the day it sleeps by curling up like a ball, or by hanging from a branch covered with thick leaves.

Pottos have large hands. Their feet turn outward. They have round faces.

Pottos are about one foot long. They have a short, stumpy tail. They have thick, furry bodies.

Tarsier

The tarsier is only six inches long. It could be held in a person's hand. The tarsier has very large eyes that look very much like those of an owl.

Tarsiers live in trees. They move about very quickly, jumping somewhat like frogs or kangaroos.

They feed on insects. Pads underneath their fingers and toes are adhesive, so that they can cling firmly to even smooth branches.

TV-Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—One of the more lucrative sidelines of a television personality is making an occasional commercial. Just this week the agent for a nationally known broadcasting figure asked—and got—$10,000 for his client in exchange for one short commercial, plus additional payments for each re-use of the film.

Among the biggest moneymakers in television are in the comparatively few top professional salesmen with contracts to represent a few large companies. One pleasant-faced, smooth-voiced young man earns $75,000 a year just as the spokesman for a gasoline company, and he has two or three similar contracts.

Rex Marshall, an easy-mannered, poised man, is a pioneer member of this charmed circle. He has been a top TV salesman for 12 years, and is on his ninth year as spokesman for two noncompetitive companies, his second year with a third.

To Marshall, being a company spokesman is a career. He attends conventions and sales meetings of his companies, tours their factories, meets their employes and considers himself the company's representative on a round-the-clock and calendar basis.

He has such definite ideas on his job, in fact, that he lives by a list of rules including:

1. Understand what you are say-the sponsor wants to get across
2. Never forget the importance of your off-camera performance—it's your company in private life as well as public.
3. Simplicity is the highest form of art—in personal appearance, gestures, expression and clothes as background for the product.
4. Be confident—viewers' confidence in you will be in direct proportion to your confidence in yourself.
5. Be prepared—rehearse, check your props.
6. Make the other guy look good—agency people, writers, behind-the-camera people, and make sure they get full credit.
7. Stick to your style—stay with an approach that's right for you You're not an actor portraying different roles but a specific individual visiting peoples' homes.
8. Plan your career—it can last a lot longer than a 13-week cycle or a six-month residual period.

As a matter of fact, it's not a bad list of suggestions for any ambitious business man.

A very Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year to all.

Lutheran Groups Hold Meetings In Meredosia

MEREDOSIA — The regular monthly meeting of the United Lutheran men was held at St. John's Parish Hall last Wednesday night with eleven members present. The meeting opened with a Scripture reading. After routine business, the nominating committee presented the names of the following new officers for 1961: Oscar Nortrup—President, Dave Orchard—Vice President, Donald Oettle—Secretary, Edwin Ommen—Treasurer. There being no other nominations, they were declared elected, and they will be installed at the January meeting to be held at Trinity Parish House on January 4.

The formal meeting was closed with the Lord's Prayer. Refreshments of chicken salad sandwiches, cookies, and coffee were served.

Mrs. Edwin Ommen was hostess to Trinity Women's Guild December 8 at the Parish Hall which had been beautifully decorated for the Christmas season. The meeting opened by the hostess reading the Christmas story from Matthew and everyone singing the hymn "As Each Happy Christmas." Then the Lord's Prayer was said in unison.

The president then welcomed these guests: Mrs. Gus Meier, Mrs. Hilda Puls, Mrs. Rudy Duvendack, Mrs. Darrell Tegeder, and several children.

At the close of the meeting the Missionary Prayer was given and all sang "Silent Night." A gift exchange was then enjoyed by all.

The work committee packed the lap robes and tote bags which had been made for St. Matthew's Home, for Christmas. Delicious refreshments were then served by the hostess and everyone received a candle favor.

OUR WISH FOR YOU
May Christmas and the New Year bring genuine happiness and joy to everyone and may it bring the fulfillment of your every wish and ambition.

The Grassroots Ambassadors---

How many Americans have ever had the opportunity to mix bread dough in a wooden tub, pitch hay 100 miles above the Arctic Circle, press duck in Germany, round up reindeer in Lapland? Those are some of the experiences of young men and women from rural America who took part in this year's International Farm Youth Exchange, sponsored by the National 4-H Club Foundation. More than 100 of them are back after six months with farm families of foreign lands. They shared their homes, their food, their work and their fun. Gone home also are the exchangees from 60 participating foreign countries who came to see the way the American farmer lives and works. In the 12 years of the program's existence, more than 18,000 families throughout the world have taken these men and women into their homes and their hearts. They call themselves "dirt diplomats" and they carry a message of friendliness and hope which supersedes national barriers.

Andrew Kasznay, a junior at the University of Hartford in Connecticut, sacks grain on a 400-acre farm near the village of Empel, Holland. He worked on five farms in the country.

Loyal Friends Class Party At Versailles Home

VERSAILLES — Always an enjoyable affair is the annual Christmas party held by the Loyal Friends class of the Christian Sunday school. As usual class members gathered and went throughout the city singing carols and presenting gifts. Filled with the spirit of Christmas they then gathered at the home of Mrs. Ivan Ingram for the sociability of the evening.

There was a gift exchange and refreshments. Class members present were, Alene Myers, Betty Rigg, Millie Turner, Theo Root, Eva Pruden, Letha White, Ruby Baker, Maxine Logsdon, Irene Hume, Betty Pruden, Anna Kauffman, Berneice Willey, Barbara Sides, Sybil Henry, Daisy Cox, Anita Ham, Mildred Wilson, Mary E. Bridgewater, June Tarrant and Ninabelle Ingram.

Christmas Party

Mrs. Mattie Tarrant and daughter Pauline, pleasantly entertained members of the Royal Neighbors and other invited friends at a Christmas party in their home Thursday evening. Christmas decorations were throughout the home a tree provided an exchange of gifts.

Mystery pals were also revealed and remembered with a gift. Refreshments of cake, cookies, candies, coffee or tea were enjoyed by the following ladies, Mesdames, Lara Rosland, Bertha Pool, Grace Bradbury, Ethel Logsdon, Myrtle Meyers, Elizabeth Taylor, Olive Root, Mahala Kleinlein, Tillie Stone, Bee Glaze, Nelva Davis, Ella Smith, Bonnie Pool, Barbara Sides and Faye Stone.

Home Bureau

One of the most festive events during the Christmas season was held Thursday when Mrs. Jess Henry was hostess to the local Home Bureau unit. Upon entering the home the holiday atmosphere was indeed prevalent in the festive decorative appointments throughout.

A turkey dinner, with many other delicious foods, was served at noon. Following the meal the group assembled for the regular business period. The group sang Christmas carols with Mrs. Henry at the piano and the major lesson on the "Therapy of Christmas" was presented by Mrs. Cleora Koch. Later in the afternoon a gift exchange was held, and cranberry punch was served. Seventeen members and six guests attended the pleasant affair.

The Global View:

West Germany Is Ready To Agree To Pay Off Some U.S. Tabs Quietly

BY LEON DENNEN
Newspaper Enterprise Analyst

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (NEA)—In international negotiations, impatience or moral indignation often causes misunderstanding where old-fashioned diplomacy will produce results.

Relations between the United States and West Germany, two leading members of NATO, are a case in point.

Discussions are going on quietly in Bonn on the ambassadorial level to check the alarming drain on American dollars and gold. The U. S. and German negotiators have narrowed their differences, and agreement is reported near.

Yet when Secretary of the Treasury Robert B. Anderson demanded only a month ago the payment of $600 million toward the cost of maintaining U. S. troops in Germany, the Bonn government bluntly refused. For political and psychological reasons the West Germans are touchy about anything that looks like a revival of occupation costs. Bonn is preparing for general elections. Chancellor Konrad Adenauer would have committed a polical blunder had he accepted, in the glare of publicity, Anderson's "ultimatum."

Sixteen years after the defeat of Hitler, Germany still produces emotional reactions. The coming trial of Adolph Eichmann in Israel will refresh man's memory of Hitler's victims.

Yet something vital to the future of the non-Communist world is missing in this approach to West Germany.

Surely the Germany of Adenauer and his Socialist opponent Willy Brandt, the brave Mayor of West Berlin, is not the Germany of Hitler. The Bonn Federal Republic, led by men like Professor Carol Schmid and Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano, bears no resemblance to the Nazi Third Reich.

Most of West Germany's young men and women were yet to be born when Hitler came to power in 1933. Indeed, what has impressed me most in my many talks with the German youth of today is their new-found independence and their conscious refusal to be influenced and guided by collective hysteria.

An emotional approach also obscures the fact that West Germany is now an important member of the Atlantic alliance. For good or bad, General Heusinger of the West German army occupies one of the most important military planning posts in NATO. Of the 21 NATO divisions in Europe which faces 27 Soviet divisions, West Germany will contribute 12 by 1962.

Without Bonn's contribution in manpower and money there can be no effective defense of Europe against Red aggression. No one understands this better than Soviet Premier Khrushchev who is moving heaven and earth to get West Germany out of NATO.

No other nation, to be sure, benefited more from NATO than Germany. For many years West Germany, as an occupied country, was spared the cost of maintaining an army. There is absolutely no reason why Bonn should not pump some of the enormous amount of money the Germans have accumulated since the end of the war into foreign investment and spending now carried by the United States.

The Germans themselves are aware that their record on defense spending is vulnerable. Thus they now agree:

To pay immediately to the U. S. the German postwar debt of $600 million. (According to the original agreement, this was to be paid in installments.)

To increase the amount of arms to be purchased by Germany from the U. S.

To increase Bonn's financial contribution to NATO's maintenance and construction costs so that the present American share of 37 per cent will be reduced to 30 per cent.

To increase German aid to the underdeveloped countries of Asia and Africa to the amount of one billion dollars.

Bonn also agrees to take over the financing of U. S. aid projects in Turkey and Greece, leaving control of these projects in American hands. Von Brentano gave a new perspective to U. S. German relations when he said:

"Support of the dollar is important to our own security because the strongest partner of the Atlantic alliance, the United States, must not have any difficulties."

However, while West Germany is ready to part with some cash she does not want to be treated as inferior among the Western nations. Von Brentano said:

"We are an equal partner in the Atlantic alliance and the alliance is an indivisible whole."

Xmas Turkey To Be Cheaper This Year

By The Associated Press

The traditional Christmas turkey carried to your dinner table should cost a few cents less than it did last year.

If you're among those whose Christmas tradition calls for ham instead, you'll have to pay more.

Both cases illustrate the time-tested, not to say traditional law of supply and demand. Stocks of turkeys are up markedly over a year ago, while the spring pig crop now reaching market was off 16 per cent from 1959.

Although prices vary, turkeys at one chain's New York metropolitan area outlets cost 39 cents a pound for 18 pounds—plus birds and 47 cents for those under 18 pounds. A year ago they carried the flat price of 47 cents for 8 to 24 pound birds. Ham, however, runs from 39 to 57 cents a pound, depending on type of cut, compared with a 1959 range of 29 to 47 cents a pound.

Olives are more plentiful than a year ago and dates about the same as 1959.

Housewives searching for vegetable bargains will find outstanding buys among cabbage, nearby carrots (where they're still available), all types of celery, eggplant, green onions, maine and long potatoes, yellow onions, several varieties of sweet potatoes, turnips, rutabagas and bunched radishes.

White boiler onions are fairly expensive along with artichokes, cauliflower, parsley, peppers, green peas, summer-type squash, tomatoes and bunched carrots.

Cranberries remain an outstanding buy as the bumper crop continues pouring into market. California oranges also rate the best buy tag, produce men say, while good buys include apples, limes, grapefruit, pears and grapes.

PATTERSON — Mr. and Mrs. Buford Dawdy and son, Robert, entertained Sunday with a pre-Christmas dinner and the following members of the family attended: Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Irlam and Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Ross and son, Gerald, of White Hall; Mr. and Mrs. Van Dean Sims and son and Mr. and Mrs. Rollin Dawdy and daughter, Sheryl, of Jacksonville.

Mrs. James Hamilton and daughter-in-law, Mrs. Charles Hamilton, were dismissed from the Passavant Hospital during the weekend where they had both been patients for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Cloyd Drake of west of Glasgow were Sunday dinner guests in the home of Orville Lovelace and sisters, on Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Warren Lovelace and daughters of Meredosia and Elder Wayne Guthrie of Pike County called in the afternoon.

Mrs. Vivian Daniels and daughter, Patty, took the former's father, Guy Ashlock to Kansas on Sunday. He will spend the winter with Mrs. Jack Ashlock.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Jenkerson spent last Thursday in Granite City where they shopped and also visited with Mr. and Mrs. Emil Kettell and family. Mr. Jenkerson attended a party held by the National Lead Co. for employees and former employees.

Mrs. Nona Owdom spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hicks and family and they all attended the Vesper Service, held in the afternoon at the White Hall High School. Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Owdom and children of Jacksonville called in the Hicks home late in the afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Wyatt, who have resided the past year in the Merle Cumby property, moved during the weekend to Joliet where he has employment.

Mr. and Mrs. John Barnett were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Barnett and they all called in the Richard Hicks home in the afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Henschew of Belleville and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Ullbright of St. Louis were Friday night guests of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Jenkerson.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Wilkinson, accompanied by Dr. and Mrs. R. S. Houghton, of Roodhouse, were in Springfield Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Bain and family of Belleville, spent Sunday with his mother, Mrs. Cora Bain.

Mr. and Mrs. Lyndell Owdom and four sons of Washington were Saturday evening supper guests of his mother, Mrs. Nona Owdom.

Mr. and Mrs. Farlell Bigham and son, Gary, were guests with relatives in Neponset, Ill., Saturday and Sunday.

Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Cam Crabtree and son, Ned were Elder Wayne Guthrie of Pike County and Mr. and Mrs. Harley Dawdy and son, Bernard.

The Community Club meeting and the school program, which was to have been held Dec. 20, has been postponed, due to bad weather conditions.

Opening lead—♥ Q

BY OSWALD JACOBY
Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

We will wind up the week with another anti-nine-spot play.

South's problem at four spades is to get out the trumps and then discard one of his losing diamonds on dummy's fourth club.

He wins the opening heart lead and plays a trump and East is in the lead.

It does not require much thought on the part of East to see that a diamond lead is called for. There are going to be no defensive tricks in clubs or hearts and the diamonds aren't just going to wait around forever.

Which diamond should East lead in order to get two diamond tricks for the defense? If he leads the queen South will win with the ace and knock out the other high spade. Then, irrespective of which diamond East leads next, South will be able to hold his diamond losses to one trick.

If East leads a low diamond South can play the seven. West will have to play the king and once more South will lose just one diamond.

East does have a right lead—the ten of diamonds!

If South plays low, the ten holds the trick. If South plays the ace, the king and queen are both good. If South plays the jack, West takes his king and leads a diamond back, whereupon East will make either the queen or the eight.

What do you do?

A—Bid three hearts. There is a temptation to bid four no-trump, but you must not do this with those two worthless spades.

COLLISION COURSE—

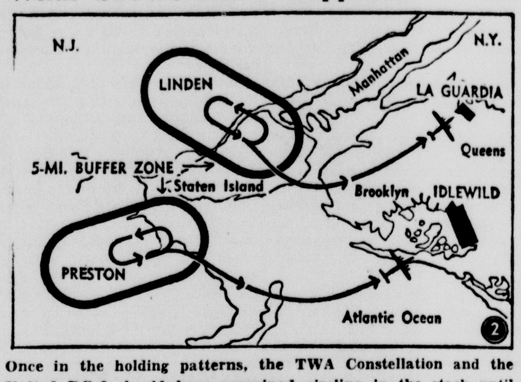

At 8:11 a.m. (EST), Dec. 16, United Air Lines' Flight 826, a huge DC-8 jet with 84 persons aboard, took off from O'Hare Airport, Chicago, bound for Idlewild Airport, N.Y. At the same time, Trans World Airlines' Flight 266, a piston-engined Super Constellation with 44 passengers and crew, left the Municipal Airport in Dayton, Ohio, headed for La Guardia Airport, N.Y. The TWA craft passed over Allentown, Pa., at 11,000 feet, 4½ minutes ahead of the 132-ton jetliner which was 25,000 feet high. At 10:37 a.m., the planes collided over Staten Island, N.Y. The Constellation crashed at Miller Field, Staten Island. The DC-8 continued on for eight miles, then fell like a bomb on rundown residential Park Slope section of Flatbush, Brooklyn. All 128 on the planes were killed. Five Brooklynites died. The question is: Why?

Standard Procedure

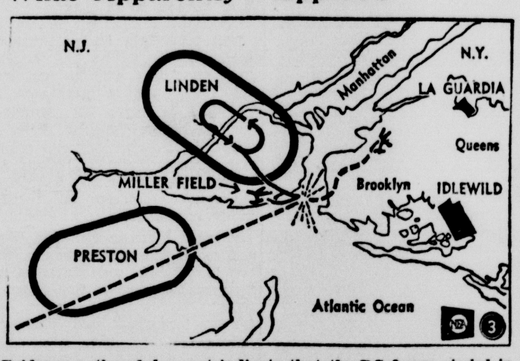

"Holding" or "stacking" areas are rectangular courses assigned to planes waiting clearance to land at the N.Y. airfields. In the stack, the planes are controlled by the airfield towers and are guided in "by the hand" to landing strips.

What Should Have Happened

Once in the holding patterns, the TWA Constellation and the United DC-8 should have remained circling in the stack until given instructions to proceed. The TWA Constellation's normal course would have taken it across Brooklyn.

What Apparently Happened

Evidence gathered does not indicate that the DC-8 ever circled in the Preston pattern. Possibly because of malfunctioning radio equipment the jet's pilot flew off-course from Preston stack, striking the Constellation, flying on-course.

Hulking Gridiron Terrors Tamed By 2 Wee Visitors

By HAROLD V. STREETER

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Dave is a 2-year-old butterball of a boy. First sight of the blond cutie makes you instinctively want to grab him and squeeze him.

Caron is a pensive girl of 4, a bit too thin, and with the biggest, prettiest brown eyes you ever saw.

Friday Dave and Caron met two hulking terrors of the college gridiron. Quicker than you can kick a football, these children melted them down into utter tenderness.

The heart-clutching scene was the wards for crippled children in Shriner's Hospital. There, 48 college football stars who will play for the East and West Dec. 31 saw first-hand the meaning of the game's motto "Strong legs run that weak legs may walk."

All-America end Mike Ditka, nicknamed "the hammer," hoisted chubby Dave more than 6 feet aloft with big hands that made brilliant catches of passes for the University of Pittsburgh.

Dave's malformed hand—which has to be replaced soon by an artificial one—clutched Pitt's blue and gold colors between the only two fingers he had.

Ditka started to pass Dave over to Earl Faison, another end from the University of Indiana.

Dave broke into sobs.

"He wants you, boy; you keep him," Faison said.

Ditka chucked Dave on the chin, gave him a careful hug and said, "I've still got you, Dave."

Jim Tyrer is a 248-pounder from Ohio State. His muscular opponents who got bounced around on the gridiron by Tyrer would never believe their eyes today. There he was, all 6-feet 5 of him, walking beside Caron who barely came up to his knee. He bent down to guide her with hand on her shoulder, cutting his normal stride to a mincing step, mindful of the brace on her right leg.

And so it went throughout the wards.

Red-haired Susie McKeever, bride of end Marlin McKeever of Southern California, summed it up for everybody:

"Just look at all those big bruisers. Then look at these poor kids in the beds. Isn't it too bad it couldn't be changed to sort of 50-50?"

Motorcyclists Pleased By Track For February Race

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla.—Motorcycle riders planning to compete in the first 'cycle events ever scheduled for Daytona International Speedway have been quite impressed with the world famous track and motorcycle courses planned for the United States Motorcycle Club's first racing program at the speedway Feb. 11-12.

A group of motorcycle riders from Florida established a total of 48 different records for the two and a half mile trioval track during recent test runs ranging from five minutes to six hours of action over the big track with the two high banked 31 degree east and west turns.

Maurice Ham of Eau Gallie, Fla., riding a Triumph T-110, turned in the fastest single lap record of 117.111 miles per hour during the tests.

The USMC organization, recently formed with Tom Gallan of New York City as president, will sanction two racing events for motorcycles over two different courses at Daytona International Speedway Sunday, Feb. 12, with preliminary events starting earlier. These will be included as a part of the annual Daytona Speed Weeks that open with SCCA national championship sports car races Saturday and Sunday, Feb. 4-5, and include compact car races for Sunday, Feb. 19, winding up with the three day racing program Feb. 24-25-26 with the third annual "Daytona 500" as the climax of the month's program. Economy runs, sponsored by Pure Oil Company, and NASCAR safety and performance trials are included along with drag races, midget races and other events for the month.

The 48 records established for the speedway were all approved by USMC with Bill Tuthill of Daytona Beach, an American representative of FIA, checking all proceedings.

Johnny Chambers and Emmett Waldron of Jacksonville set a six hour record with a Jawa 250, averaging 76.538 miles per hour for the distance.

Floyd Frazine of St. Petersburg, riding a Lambretta scooter, averaged 44.998 miles per hour for a one hour run.

The two courses approved for the Feb. 12 races include a 1.66 mile layout for the smaller machines to compete in a 100-kilometer race, and the 3.1 mile sports car course for the 200-kilometer Grand Prix of the United States race for larger 'cycles.

Two 25-mile NASCAR Grand National qualifying races will supplement the motorcycle events, these being slated for the 2.5 mile trioval course. These two events will determine the two pole positions for the "Daytona 500" Feb. 26 and also the pole positions for the two 100-mile Grand National races Feb. 24.

Bob Purkey was the workhorse of Cincinnati's pitching staff last season. He tossed 252 innings, won 17, lost 11.

Bradley Smashes Cincinnati In 72-53 Clash

PEORIA, Ill. (AP) — Bradley's undefeated Braves, ranked second nationally, smashed Cincinnati 72-53 Friday night in a Missouri Valley Conference basketball game.

The victory was the eighth straight for Bradley, which now has a string of 14 successive triumphs and a record of 42 straight at home dating to Jan. 20, 1948, when the Braves were upset by Portland.

The two teams, perennial powers in their conference, battled back and forth until Bradley went ahead to stay, 14-13, on a basket by Tim Robinson.

Bradley was in front 38-29 at the half.

The loss gave Cincinnati a 0-2 conference mark and a 5-3 record for the season.

Robinson topped Bradley with 20 points and Lee Edwards added 16. Paul Hogue and Tom Yates shared scoring honors for Cincinnati with 16 points each.

Bradley shot .510 from the field Cincinnati .340.

By JOHN CAMPBELL

Coach John P. Hey's Bloom (Chicago Heights) Tropjans will play Jacksonville in the opening round of play at Pontiac's Holiday tournament next week. Jacksonville is the only school in the State named "Crimsons." Other schools have the following names—Bulldogs—Batavia, Bridgeport, Carmi, Streator, Harrisburg, Staunton, and Virden. (Red Devils) — Sesser, Cissna Park, Hinsdale, Murphysboro. (Cardinals)—Cuba, Arlington Heights, Pleasant Plains, Dundee, and Erie. (Little Giants)—DePue and Canton. (Hornets)—Mt. Sterling, Cowden, Nashville and Eureka. (Eagles)—Ridgway, Rantoul and Eldorado. (Indians)—Pittsfield, Mascoutah, Lawrenceville, Johnston City, DuQuoin, Nokomis, Pecatonica, Benld, Wyoming, Sullivan, Pontiac, Lewiston, Minonk, Industry, Metamora, and Niantic.

Bill Banta of Peoria Central is leading the Mid Eight loop, as the only player in the conference with a better than 20 points per game average. The Lions' four year man has a 20.2 average and he has scored 81 points in conference games. Eddie Jackson, Manual's great rebounder, will be too old for Super Sectional tourney if his team advances through the tough Peoria Woodruff sectional grind at Bradley's field house. Manual will lose Willie Craley sometime in January due to the 19 year age limit.

Ralph Davison is doing a great job at Beardstown high as his Tigers are playing fine basketball. He went to Beardstown after several years of coaching at Johnston City, Harrisburg and Benton Coach Davison was a regular on Johnston City's State championship team of 1929. Don't be surprised if the Beardstown cage chart is much stronger next season as tougher teams will probably appear on the schedule.

Athletic Director Nick Carter of Beardstown high is retiring after the present school term and moving to Phoenix, Arizona. He is a graduate of Elmwood high and Bradley University, served as coach at Tuscola, Robinson and Beardstown where he took two teams to the "Sweet 16 Tourneys." He coached Art Dufelmier, head foot ball coach at Western Illinois University. Carter is high on his new basketball coach, Ralph Davison, who is being carried off the floor after each game by the players and fans. Beardstown only won six games last season while losing 18 and the fans are happy about the Davison coached Tigers of 1960-61.

Holiday tourneys take over the spot light and after the games have been played many undefeated teams will get their tests and the ratings might be changed. My selections for winners of the tourneys—At Centralia—Pickneyville; At East St. Louis—Collinsville; At Canton—Naperville; At Pontiac—Clinton; At White Hall—Winchester; At Kankakee—Prospect; At Pittsfield—Quincy; At Macomb—Beardstown.

URGES TWO MEDALS FOR OLYMPICS

TOKYO (AP)—Nat Holman, America's basketball ambassador to the Orient, Friday urged two medals for Olympic basketball—one for the small men and another for men over 6 feet tall.

Holman, who is winding up a week of clinics for Japanese high school and college coaches, said a small man's division would boost the game in the Far East and eliminate the embarrassment of countries unable to produce tall players.

The United States has won the gold medal in every Olympic Games since the sport became part of the official program in 1936.

ADVANCE OPENER

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — Indiana's 1961 football opener at Kansas State has been advanced from Sept. 30 to Sept. 23, athletic director Frank E. Allen announced Friday.

College of Pacific, the original Sept. 23 opponent for the Hoosiers, asked to be relieved from the contract because it is de-emphasizing intersectional games.

Sept. 30 will be left an open date, giving the Hoosiers two weeks to prepare for their Big Ten conference opener at home against Wisconsin Oct. 7.

HIGGINS IN HOSPITAL

BELLEFONTE, Pa. (AP)—Bob Higgins, former head football coach at Pennsylvania State University, is in a hospital following a stroke.

His doctor said Friday Higgins is "doing unusually well. But it will be about two weeks before we can assess the damage." Higgins, who will be 67 Saturday, was stricken at his home Wednesday.

ODELL No. 1 CANDIDATE

Odell was interviewed by Cornell officials Friday, the Bulletin said in a story from Ithaca, N. Y. Left James was fired as Cornell coach after last season.

'American Challenge Cup' Name Chosen For Race Of Top 1960 NASCAR Winners

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. — The American Challenge Cup race has been tagged as the name for the special 25-mile race for top NASCAR race winners of the 1960 season.

The 25-mile cup race, open only to 12 drivers who won at least one of the top 13 races of the 1960 season, has been scheduled for Sunday, Feb. 19, along with the 150-mile Cannonball Division compact car race. This is just one week prior to the third annual "Daytona 500" on February 26, and should provide a preview of the top performers of the 500-mile event to follow.

The entry list for the American Challenge Cup race will be limited to the following drivers:

Rex White, Spartanburg, winner of the Virginia Sweepstakes at Martinsville, Va., and the "Western Carolina 500" at Asheville-Weaverville, N. C., Speedway.

Activities at Daytona get underway with the annual SCCA national championship races February 4-5, featuring all the top sports car stars.

Motorcycles have been added for the 1961 schedule with a 100-kilometer race for smaller 'cycles and a 200-kilometer event for larger 'cycles on Sunday, February 12, these events being sanctioned by the new United States Motorcycle Club with many foreign make machines slated to compete. Two 25-mile Grand National qualifying races are slated along with the motorcycle events for the same day and these will determine the two pole position holders for the "Daytona 500" February 26.

Hilton Studies Moving Chargers To San Diego

LOS ANGELES (AP) — President Barron Hilton of the Los Angeles Chargers Friday said he will visit San Diego soon to investigate an invitation to move his American Football League franchise there.

Hilton's disclosure followed receipt of a telegram from Dr. Albert Anderson, chairman of the San Diego Chamber of Commerce major league sports committee.

It urged Hilton to visit San Diego and confer with city and civic leaders to "discuss possibilities of the Chargers operating in San Diego in 1961."

"This invitation," said Hilton, "is among several I have received to visit cities which have expressed interest in moving the Chargers.

"Although it is still my desire to continue to operate in Los Angeles I would be remiss as president of our club if I did not investigate the enthusiasm expressed in Dr. Anderson's telegram."

TO SEEK SCROLLS

AMMAN, Jordan (AP)—A team of British archaeologists will begin excavations in Qumran next month, searching for more Dead Sea scrolls. The first scrolls were discovered in 1950 in that area, site of an Essene settlement 2,000 years ago.

FRACTURED SEASONS

Butts Resigns As Coach At Georgia U.

ATHENS, Ga. (AP)—Wallace Butts has resigned as head football coach at the University of Georgia but will continue in the post of athletic director.

The little round man, who led Georgia to 140 victories against 86 defeats and 9 ties, was in Montgomery, Ala., Friday for coaching duties in the Blue-Gray All-Star game Dec. 31.

"I've thought about it for a long time," Butts said in Montgomery "and I figure I've been under that pressure long enough. I think it would affect my health if I continue."

He said: "After 22 years as Georgia's coach it's time to start thinking about my health. And I think I can be helpful to the University of Georgia devoting fulltime to being athletic director."

Butts said he did not know who will succeed him and that he will remain as football coach until his successor is named.

His teams won the Southeastern Conference championship four times playing in eight post-season bowl games, winning five, losing two and tying one. He was president of the American Football Coaches Association last year and is a former member of the National Football Rules Committee.

Hall Feels He Has Better Team Than Last Year

MIAMI (AP) — Dale Hall of Army, co-coach of the North All-Star football team with Michigan's Bump Elliott, said Friday he has a better over-all team than that which he coached to victory last year over the South in the Shrine game.

"But if we're going to win it will be on our passing and not our running attack," Hall added in commenting on the chances of North in its game in the Orange Bowl Monday night.

However, North has impressed with both its running and passing attacks in its drills this week. Friday the squad was dressed in full regalia for the first time, and went through its complete assortment of plays.

South Coaches Paul (Bear) Bryant of Alabama and Darrell Royal of Texas, possibly anticipating a close encounter, spent the early part of their drill working with the punters and place kickers.

Declare Truce At Santa Anita, Plan For Opening

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP)—A truce was met in Santa Anita Park's labor troubles Friday as 16 sprinters were entered in the $20,000 added Palos Verdes Handicap for the scheduled Monday opening of the season.

The track announced that representatives of the two locals of the Building Service Employes International Union have assured them there will be no strike Monday.

The union represents pari-mutuel clerks as well as the maintenance and janitor force.

Management and the union are to meet Tuesday for further discussion of the wage demand controversy.

MILLER TO BE DROPPED

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Atty Creighton Miller may be dropped as attorney for the National Football League Players Association, it was learned Friday.

A reliable source told The Associated Press sentiment in favor of firing Miller was building up among the some 500 players in the league.

TEED OFF

LORETTO, Pa. —(NEA)— Bob Hall, six-seven center of St. Francis of Loretto, wasn't the only find of Dr. William Hughes at last year's National Junior College Basketball Tournament.

"I had a fella from Florida, too—six, six," recalls Coach Hughes. "But he came up to register with a lot of crazy stuff like golf and so on that the college couldn't accept as credits toward graduation.

Female seagulls fall in love with the golf balls. They either settle down to nest on them on the range or pick them up and fly off to mother them somewhere else.

So far, the range has lost more than 500 balls.

Collins Joins Cub 'Board Of Coaches'

CHICAGO (AP)—A one-time member of the St. Louis Cardinals' old "Gashouse Gang," James (Rip) Collins, Friday joined the Chicago Cubs' intriguing "board of coaches"—and thinks Cub owner P. K. Wrigley may have the last laugh after all.

Collins was hired as the fourth man on a projected eight-coach staff which Wrigley expects to help select a new field manager. The seventh-place Cubs have been without a manager since Oct. 4 when Lou Boudreau quit.

Collins joins Harry Craft, Elvin Tappe and Vedie Himsl on Wrigley's coaching "electoral board." The coaching staff, besides recommending a manager, will work interchangeably with the Cubs and their farm clubs.

Collins, 55, former star first baseman for the Cardinals and Cubs, quit a sporting goods firm job after Wrigley sold him on the idea of joining the Cub staff. He was a member of the "Mudcat band", a fierce musical group of the powerful Cardinals of the early 1930's.

"When I first heard about Wrigley's new plan," said Collins, "I wondered what the dickens was going on. But after a long chat with Mr. Wrigley, I am convinced there is a lot of good, sound basic sense to it.

"It will take time, of course, to work out the program, but I'm sure it will work. I'm happy to be back in baseball."

Another possible member of the Cub coaching board may be former Cub star Billy Jurges. At least, Wrigley said he wrote Jurges explaining his plan.

Under Wrigley's plan, the eventual head man may not even have the title of manager. He may be known as head coach, managing director or chairman of the board.

Commissioner Ford Frick, queried on the proposed Cub plan, said there is nothing in baseball law which requires a team to have a manager, designated as such.

"Mr. Wrigley can have a head coach if he wants," said Frick. "Anyway, this is strictly his business. The rules require only nine men be on the field."

Robinson Wins National League Slugging Crown

CINCINNATI (AP)— Frank Robinson of the Cincinnati Reds won the 1960 National League slugging championship as 10 of last year's 15 leaders again finished in the select group.

Official miscellaneous averages released Friday showed Robinson with a slugging percentage of .595. He batted .297 and had 31 home runs, 33 doubles and 6 triples.

Hank Aaron of the Milwaukee Braves, who topped the sluggers in 1959, finished second this year with a mark of .566. Robinson was fourth in 1959.

Other repeaters in the top 15 were Ken Boyer, St. Louis; Willie Mays, San Francisco; Ernie Banks, Chicago; Eddie Mathews, Milwaukee; Orlando Cepeda, San Francisco; Vada Pinson, Cincinnati; Bill White St. Louis and Willie Kirkland, San Francisco.

Players not in the top 15 in 1959 but who made it this year were Joe Adcock, Milwaukee; Dick Stuart, Pittsburgh; Frank Howard, Los Angeles; Roberto Clemente, Pittsburgh, and Pancho Herrera, Philadelphia.

National Leaguers set 8 major league records in 1960 and tied 16 others. They set 24 league marks and tied 4.

A big part of the marks were of the obscure variety or were extensions of records set previously.

Philadelphia batters set a major league strikeout record, however, as they fanned 1,054 times. Los Angeles pitchers also set a major league mark for fanning hitters with 1,122 and the loop's hurlers as a whole set a mark for strikeouts by fanning 6,824 hitters.

On the other side of the pitching picture, the 354 completely pitched games were the fewest in National League history and the 310 wild pitches were another league mark.

Season individual leaders included: Most walks—Richie Ashburn, Chicago, 116; most strikeouts—Herrera, 136 (National League Record); hit by pitched balls most times—Robinson, 9; hit into most double plays—Wally Moon of Los Angeles and Clemente, 21 each; hit into fewest double plays on basis of 477 plate appearances—Don Blasingame and Kirkland of San Francisco, Bill Bruton, then of Milwaukee, and Ashburn, 4 each.

ALL-ROUND

PREAKNESS FIRST

BALTIMORE — (NEA) — The first winner of Pimlico's Dixie Handicap was Preakness, honored by the three-year-old race at the same track.

300 GAME ODDS

MILWAUKEE, Wis.— (NEA) — The odds for an American Bowling Congress member rolling a 300 game in a sanctioned league or tournament last season rose to one for each 1.2 million games.

BACKS ARE BACKED

UNIVERSITY, Ala.— (NEA) — Sixteen Alabama backs ran with the football in 10 games this fall. Seven gained more than 100 yards each.

JUMPING JUNIOR

Packers, Eagles Risk Sudden Death, No Option

Philadelphia 35, Green Bay 27.

Basically, that's why the Eagles will be the champions of the National Football League after Monday's title game in Philadelphia.

And while it is true the Packers' power is rushing and the Eagles' weakness is rushing defense, it also is true the Eagles' passing has been more decisive than the Packers' rushing. Furthermore, Philadelphia has been able to stop the big ground gainers in the clutch, while Green Bay has been hurt frequently by passing.

The Packers also have been hurt by their own mistakes. The Eagles thrive on the other guy's errors.

Desire, spirit, momentum, drive, incentive; they all count. But both teams have them, so throw them out. If there is an intangible to be considered, it's the fact the Eagles will be playing before the home fans.

The Eagles lost twice, 41-24 to the Cleveland Browns in the first game of the season, and 27-21 on a snow-covered field to the Pittsburgh Steelers. The second can be discounted because of the conditions and the fact the Eagles had clinched the title a week earlier.

Jimmy Brown and Bobby Mitchell ran wild in the Browns' victory, but when the Eagles later beat the Browns 31-29, Mitchell was held to 35 yards and Brown couldn't make the difference.

The Eagles have gained better than 800 more yards passing than the Packers have rushing, despite Green Bay's awesome 1-2 threat of Jim Taylor and Paul Hornung.

When the Eagles won their biggest game of the year (31-23 over the New York Giants) they cashed in on four pass interceptions and a fumble for all their scores, after beating the Giants 17-10 a week earlier on a fumble recovery.

When you look at it that way and add quarterback Norm Van Brocklin's proved brilliance under pressure, it has to be Philadelphia—but in one fine football game.

SEVEN WAYS

EAST LANSING, Mich.—(NEA)—Eight members of Michigan State's 1960 football squad will appear in seven different post-season bowl games.

As I See It
by E. W. BROWN

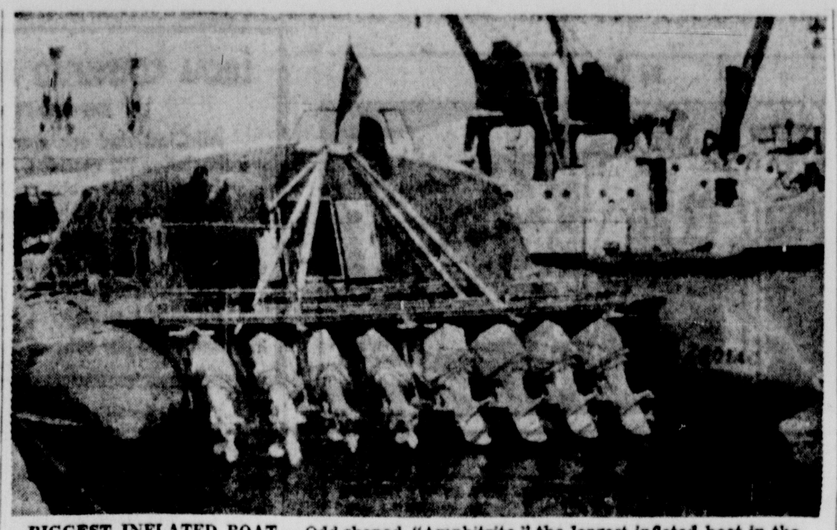

As we look back on the past year, we find that a good share of our columns have had to do with the mad pace of modern living. We've joked about it, but there's really a kind of sadness to it, too. Too many of us just don't seem to have time any more for that little extra-special bit of friendliness and fellowship we used to have for one another. Folks these days seem to be in too much of a hurry to stop long enough to hold a door open for a lady with arms full of packages or help a small child lost in a store find his mother. At least, that is, during most of the year. Yet at the holidays, such small courtesies are suddenly alive again, with the same traditional spirit of brotherhood and goodwill of old.

Right now, there are people in the world who have lost altogether the cheerful joy of living we as Americans have come to take for granted. Maybe one way we can show them that free and easy mutual helpfulness is the best way to live is by practicing it ourselves . . . not just in the month of December, but all year long. At least it's worth a try . . . if for no reason than that it may make each one of our own lives a little richer for it. Happy Holidays! E. W. Brown.

BIGGEST INFLATED BOAT — Odd-shaped "Amphitrite," the largest inflated boat in the world, is powered by eight outboard motors in Nice, France. The craft will be used as a base for another equally unusual vessel, a "floating saucer" submarine designed to be used on sunken treasure hunts.

Miss Osee Blake Dies Suddenly At Roodhouse

ROODHOUSE—Miss Osee Jane Blake, 72-year-old Scott County native, died suddenly at 1:30 p.m. Friday at her home here in Roodhouse. Miss Blake lived alone. She had been under a doctor's care for some time.

She was born Oct. 7, 1888, the daughter of Joseph and Mary Jane Thompson Blake. She is survived by one brother, Perry Blake of Roodhouse.

Miss Blake was a member of the Emmanuel Southern Baptist Church in Roodhouse where services will be held at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday. Burial will be in Richwoods Cemetery east of Roodhouse.

The body is at the Mackey Funeral Home here. Friends may call Monday afternoon and evening.

TWO CARS COLLIDE AT INTERSECTION

Two cars were damaged in a collision at the Diamond,College Avenue intersection Friday afternoon. A car driven by Ralph Wohlers of route 4 Jacksonville and an auto driven by Mary Carroll of Mt. Sterling collided at the intersection.

Wohlers was traveling west on College, Mary Carroll north on Diamond. The Carroll auto was damaged in the right side; the Wohlers car in the right front fender, hood and bumper.

City police investigated the accident.

DUNDER AND BLITZEN!—William Thomas of Kansas City, Kans., had no "cart before the horse" idea when he hung cutouts of Santa and one of his reindeer on the gable of his home. "It just came out that way," he said. Children and grown-up neighbors are having so much fun out of it the way it is, he's decided not to change it.

TIME FOR VIOLENCE

By Noel M. Loomis

© Noel Loomis 1960 Distributed by Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

THE STORY: Xenophon Jones has offered Bart Wagner $1,000 if he will drive Catherine Lewis from her ranch. In reply, Bart hits Jones in the jaw.

XII

Jones's evil eyes blazed as he came to the attack. Bart gave ground slowly, watching for an opening, but Jones knew how to use his hands. He caught Bart high on the checkbone and rocked him for a moment. Then Bart charged with both arms pumping, and drove the man back.

Jones hit him in the face with a fist that felt like a sledge hammer. It drove Bart back, and one foot stepped in mud just as Jones hit him again. The mud held his boot, and he went down, floundering, while Jones stood on firm ground and waited.

Bart got out slowly. Jones was holding a six-shooter on him.

"I could kill you," Jones said, "but I need you."

Bart stared at him.

Jones said, "You're a man who can play the odds. You're smart enough to know when you're licked, and here's a chance to get something out of it. I'll still give you $1,000 to get that rifle away from her."

Bart did not answer.

"It's a deal, then." Jones said, "Turn around."

Bart returned to the ranch house before sundown.

He stopped by the back door. The pail was sitting by the barrel, and he filled it. When he straightened up, he was facing Stella Harding.

"Oh," she said, as if she had not expected to see him. "You are still in the country, Mr. Wagner."

He nodded. "So are you."

Catherine said from the fragrant dimness within the cabin, "Oh, Bart, Miss Harding—Stella—has come to stay for a few days."

"She'll be company," Bart said briefly.

"It will be fun to have a woman to talk to," said Catherine, apparently sensing his disapproval of Stella.

He started to push his hat back with his forearm, but Stella lifted it off his head almost as soon as he reached for it.

He ate in silence, with Stella's remarks almost entirely addressed to him. "That's a beautiful horse you have, Mr. Wagner."

He nodded, his mouth full of cornbread.

"I didn't recognize the mark. Is that a New Mexico brand?"

"South Texas," said Bart. "H Flower de Luce."

"You mean Fleur de Lis."

He looked at her. "In Kansas City you can call it anything you want, but in Texas it's Flower de Luce when it's on a horse or a cow."

* * *

By the time he had finished his pie, it was almost dark. He went outside in the twilight to have a smoke, but again there was an interruption when Stella Harding came out to stand beside him. "Pretty, isn't it?" she said.

He was looking across the canyon at the wavering layers of gray and red and purple rock, and he answered without thinking, "Yes."

"I mean, pretty monotonous," she said in her husky voice. She waited for a reply.

"Are you sweet on that Lewis woman?" she demanded.

Watching the colors in the canyon wall fade into gray, he answered, "It wouldn't be any of your business if I were."

"I'll make it my business."

Unruffled, he answered, "You don't need to. I have no designs on her."

She moved in front of him and faced him squarely—a beautiful woman, there in the half-dark. "Bart, I saw you offer your six-shooter to the man they were threatening to hang." Her eyes were almost luminous. "It took a real man to do a thing like that."

He looked down at her. "Other men have the same qualities. What's the matter with Hector Johnson?"

"Why do you mention him?"

"I saw his eyes on you when you brought the coffee."

She said scornfully, "Every cowpuncher's eyes are on me all the time."

"Hector Johnson is in love with you," he said.

"Love! A plowhand and a race horse!"

The woman knew what she was doing, all right. That extravagant gesture of his in facing down Gentry—which might have been motivated by a subconscious desire to show off before Stella—had had its effect on the woman. And her very persistence, instead of repelling him, seemed more of a challenge than anything else. But he was not ready to make a decision about her; he had other things on the fire.

Her voice changed suddenly. She was almost pleading. "What do you think of me, Bart?"

He said, "You're a breathtaking woman, and any man would be honored to have you—but I've got work to do first."

He chuckled. "If you are, I'll wager it's the first time."

He walked back to the cabin.

Install Orville Griswold WM Of Greenfield Masons

GREENFIELD — Over 100 Masons, Eastern Stars, Rainbow for Girls and their families attended the annual installation of officers of Greenfield Masonic Lodge A. F. & A. M. No. 129, Monday night.

Frank Burrows of Carrollton, John Pruitt of Mason City and Frank Rice of Gillespie, served as installing officer, chaplain and marshal.

The elected and appointive officers installed were: Worshipful Master, Orville Griswold; senior warden, Keith Sanson; junior warden, Wayne Thayer; treasurer, Jesse B. Parks; secretary, Francis Steckel; senior deacon, William D. Elmore; junior deacon, Russell Morrow.

Holiday Concert

The annual holiday concert was presented by the music students in the high school auditorium Tuesday night. Vocal and instrumental selections were under the direction of Ben Strode and Jerome Ruble. Wednesday afternoon the high school students presented a Christmas program in the auditorium which was featured by a Christmas playlet by members of the speech class.

Following the program, students participated in a gift exchange. Homeroom Christmas parties were held in the elementary grades Wednesday afternoon. Schools were dismissed Wednesday afternoon for the holiday vacation and classes will be resumed Tuesday, Jan. 3.

Union Community Party

Families of the Union community northwest of Greenfield held a potluck supper and Christmas party Saturday night in the Union Community Hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Burroughs left Monday for Vista, Calif., where they will spend the Christmas vacation with their daughter-in-law, Mrs. Robert Burroughs and daughters. Major Robert Burroughs is stationed in Okinawa.

Class Supper

At Rockbridge

A Christmas program was presented by the Sunday school classes of the Rockbridge Methodist church Wednesday night. The program was sponsored by the church commission on education. The Greenfield and Rockbridge Methodist church are invited to join with the Rubicon Methodist church in a Christmas Eve service Saturday, Dec. 24.

The Shields ambulance took John Adams of Rockbridge to the Boyd Memorial hospital in Carrollton Monday afternoon, Mrs. Melvin Brown who resides on a farm 8 miles east of here was taken early Tuesday morning to Boyd and Miss Elsie Prather who became ill while visiting at the home of Mrs. Emma Stinnett to Boyd later Tuesday morning.

DEVELOPED METHOD

Earliest practical courses in the correspondence school method of education were those developed by President William R. Harper of the University of Chicago, about 1892.

Mrs. Cromwell Gives S. C. Club Xmas Program

The Strawns Crossing Woman's club held its Christmas meeting at the home of Mrs. J. E. Rawlings, east of the city. The home was beautifully decorated with a large tree. The president, Mrs. Grace Rawlings, presided.

The meeting opened with the pledge to the flag led by Mrs. Ethel Strawn followed with prayer. In the absence of the secretary the report was taken by Mrs. Bealmear.

An outstanding program was presented by Mrs. Oliver Cromwell. The group sang It Came Upon a Midnight Clear and Little Town of Bethlehem. Mrs. Cromwell read an article, No Room at the Inn, Harold Blake Waker and also a Christmas poem. Mrs. Rawlings also read a Christmas poem. The program closing with the singing of Silent Night.

During the business session Mrs. Bealmear thanked the group for a floral remembrance and cards received in commemoration of the Bealmears' golden wedding anniversary.

Refreshments, in keeping with the season, were served with Mrs. Erwin Middendorf assisting the hostess. The next meeting will be Jan. 3 with Mrs. Albert Standish, to be held at Hamilton's. Miss Mary Margaret Wax will be in charge of the program. A gift exchange closed the meeting.

We'll Work Out the Why
The Where, How and When
Of Traveling Through Space

By WARD CANNEL
Written For NEA

SAN FRANCISCO —(NEA)— Ponder the urgent mission of Donald Mullen: to get us ready—lunch packed, clean handkerchief—for travel into space.

For while we were dozing, science has all but solved the Big Three problems of colonizing the universe. (There is a Fourth, still unsolved, but worth only a mention at the end.)

And so Mullen, a missile and space vehicle scientist at General Electric, has been assigned to wander the countryside and spread the word. Because as soon as the vital blanks are filled in, we'll be going.

In the Milky Way alone, 10 billion stars are likely to have planets. One billion of those planets, in probability, lie in a zone of light, heat, etc. that can sustain life.

Now life, Mullen tells anybody who will listen, is a pretty chancy thing when you consider the Earth's history. Scientists calculate the odds were about a million-to-one against our being here.

MULLEN: "Once we know how to go, we'll go."

Divide that million into the one billion possible - life - sustaining planets in the Milky Way and the net result is up to 1,000 places in our galactic neighborhood where high intelligence must exist somewhere in time.

The two best bets for poking around, Mullen's research indicates, are among the planets of nearby stars Tau Ceti and Epsilon Eridani— less than 17 light years away.

How we're going to get there is just as simple.

By Einstein's concepts of relativity, Mullen explains to his lunch, dinner and club audiences, a clock traveling through space at speeds approaching the speed of light will run slower than in an identical clock on Earth.

In human terms, Mullen says, think of a pair of twins—one home on Earth, the other whizzing through space. When the space twin gets home, he'll be younger than his stay-at home twin brother.

Armed with this knowledge and a fuel to accelerate space motors up to the speed of light, we will be able to cover in 21 Earth years the distance light covers in a billion years. There would be no point in coming back, of course, because the Earth would by then have become a dead planet of a dead sun.

Actually, Mullen says, we don't have the engine to take the space ship at that speed. And we may never have it. So science is working on an alternative plan: a flight that would take not years or a lifetime, but generations.

"It's quite conceivable, you know, that a ten-generation flight time be planned. Those who start are soon gone. The intermediates never know solid soil underfoot—a beginning or an end. The finalists, complete with their rote legacy of earth-lore, begin the settlement of a new world."

When will we start?

Only several generations from now, Mullen predicts. The signs will be breakthroughs in propulsion and life support.

"Human curiosity, bravery and necessity got us out of the trees and caves," Mullen quotes astronomer Jesse Greenstein happily, "It is an enormously greater distance intellectually from the ape man to modern man than it is from the earth to the stars."

So there it is—where, how and when—all but solved. The only undefined problem remaining, Mullen admits, is why go at all.

Mullen's answer is:

"Once we know how to go, we'll go. If we need a good reason we'll work one out when the time comes."

The average yearly income of a veterinarian is estimated at $10,000 a year.

Let us rejoice now, for the Prince of Peace is born again, bringing us a renewal of faith and hope.

Two-Way Tourist Flow Is Tough Goal Of Europe's Only 'Visit U.S.A.' Bureau

By ROSETTE HARGROVE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

PARIS—(NEA)—What's it like to travel in America?

Europeans soon may be ready to tell us if they get more shots in the continental arm as the one given by the first "Visit U.S.A." bureau in Europe. It opened in Paris this year.

Until 1960, tourist travel between the two continents has been regarded as a one-way proposition—from New York and Topeka to Paris and Rome.

But concern over the one-way flow of tourist dollars out of the U. S. prompted Washington to launch a "Visit the U. S. A. in 1960" campaign. Trans World Airlines opened the Paris bureau as part of the program.

So are Europeans as eager to see Washington at cherry blossom time as Americans are to see Paris when the chestnuts are in bloom?

"No," the TWA office admits. There are still kinks to be ironed out. Visa difficulties and lack of a national tourist bureau here makes it harder for the U. S. to interest tourists than it is for the Soviet Union, for example.

"A round trip to the U.S. by jet, including a 15-day visit from New York to Washington, Cleveland, Chicago, Detroit, Niagara Falls and back costs less than a similar trip to Russia.

"Since Oct. 1, the fare for a 17-day excursion costs only $389.60 for one person traveling economy class."

VISIT U.S.A. BUREAU IN PARIS: But what comes between New York and San Francisco?

Europeans have first had to learn that the yearly tidal wave of American tourists is not made up primarily of "deluxe" travelers. They are finding out that the way between the continents is open to the middle class.

French and Belgian businessmen going to the U.S. for conventions or studies are the most frequent inquirers at the bureau. They learn that they can afford to take their wives along. Professors and students also have shown interest.

What the TWA office is trying to do, primarily, is overcome many of the misconceptions of America held by European inquirers, who have averaged about 30 a day in person and a like number by mail.

"Although Europeans know that New York is on the East Coast and San Francisco is on the West, they have the haziest idea of what lies between," says Marie Tatischeff, a bureau receptionist.

The cost of living concerns them most. "Hotels frighten, motels intrigue, camping grounds attract young people," she says.

"Europeans apparently think they can buy a car cheaply in the U.S., drive across country and sell it for the purchasing price," Marie adds. They are extremely vague about prices.

When they are ready to go, they generally ask about New York, California, Niagara Falls, Las Vegas, the Grand Canyon, Yellowstone Park, Miami, New Orleans, Chicago, Philadelphia and Salt Lake City.

When they come back, they usually have been most impressed by American food—hamburgers, ice cream sodas, pink milk shakes—and the mink stoles worn by window shoppers on Fifth Avenue in New York.

Marie suggests that Americans, perhaps, also have little knowledge of their own country.

"During tourist season, hardly an American comes in the office without asking for a pamphlet on his home state."

'UNEXPENDABLE' MAN

BUTTE, Mont. (AP) — A railroad is operating at Butte because one man was waived from jury duty.

Or so he wants his boss to think.

The man asked to be excused from duty in Judge T. D. Downey's court because he worked for a railroad.

Downey asked, "Don't you think the railroad could operate for a few days without you?"

And back came the reply:

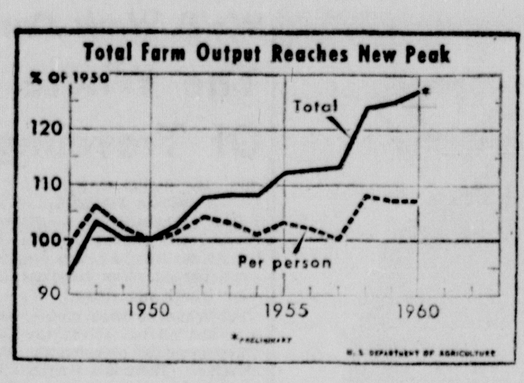

"Sure. But I'd hate to have them find it out.

YOUNGSTER IS ANGEL

NEW YORK (AP) — Randy Brett Klipstein is Broadway's youngest show-backing angel. Randy won't be two years old until next summer.

The boy's father, a theatrical publicist, staked him first to a $100 investment in "Fiorello." The bi has already earned a $25 profit. Randy next received one-fourth of one percent of the shares in "The Hostage," a gift from the producers, Leonard S. Field and Burke Swann.

Creative Children Overlooked

Schools Overemphasize I.Q.s, Conformity

By JERRY BENNETT
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON —(NEA)— The "odd ball" in the classroom may really be "on the ball"—only too few teachers have found this out yet.

The U.S. Office of Education intends to tell them all about it. The office has studied non-conformist behaviour and found it often is related to creativity.

Too often creativity has been mistaken for troubled behavior. Teachers looking for the "gifted child" tend to overlook the creativity factor which they cannot measure while emphasizing I.Q. (Intelligence Quotient) tests which try to assay "intelligence."

Lawrence Derthick, U.S. Commissioner of Education, says:

"Generally, we think that if a person has a high I.Q., he also is creative. But our research shows that these qualities of creativity and intelligence can be distinguished from one another and that each may exist without the other."

Jacob W. Getzels and Philip W. Jackson of the University of Chicago spent more than four years studying the separation of intelligence and creativity for the U.S. Office.

From some 500 sixth to twelfth grade students, the two professors selected "highly intelligent" students in the top 20 per cent on conventional I.Q. tests and another group NOT in the top 20 per cent.

The "highly intelligent" group was not considered "creative" by standards of tests given them while the other group did well in such tests.

JACKSON (left) and Getzels: Separating intelligence and creativity in school children around the country.

Getzels and Jackson found that:

● Despite a difference of 23 points between mean I.Q.s of the two groups, the "creative" students were equally superior in scholastic achievement.

● Teachers exhibited a clearcut preference for the high I.Q. children.

So the talents of many gifted youngsters go unnoticed by teachers who regard as nuisances the off-beat question or disagreement with accepted answers.

These children then either conform completely, losing their creativity, or become troublesome and sometimes delinquent.

To correct the situation, Office of Education officials are designing special tests and studying ways to discover and stimulate creative minds.

Derthick says:

"Our research on creativity shows that education has emphasized 'convergent' thinking. This type channels toward a single answer that is assumed to be the right one.

"There is a different kind of thought called 'divergent,'" says Derthick. "The divergent thinker may reject the single answer and seek others that may be superior."

The divergent thinker is more likely to be creative. Getzels and Jackson note:

"It is as if the high-I.Q. children seek out the safety and security of the known while the high-creative children seek to enjoy the risk and uncertainty of the unknown."

Derthick believes that unless divergent thinking is encouraged "We may unintentionally force schools to produce the 'organized man.'"

Dr. Roy M. Hall, assistant commissoner for research for the Office of Education, suggests the following ways to identify and encourage creativity in your child:

● Creative children are more witty than other youngsters. Their ideas and language are not stereotyped.

● They are less willing to accept your reasons for doing things.

● They generally are harder to handle. They do not accommodate to the old adage that "children should be seen and not heard."

● To stimulate your child's creativity, don't try to impose your own ideas on his choice of a lifetime occupation.

● Encourage him to be different from others who surround him daily. This includes both family and friends.

● Don't give him pat answers. Encourage him to find the answers for himself.

SURE CURE

When John D. Rockefeller Sr. died the social register felt that Junior would become John D. Rockefeller. But Junior felt there was only one John D. Rockefeller and continued to maintain his identity as Junior. The social register wouldn't go along with his wishes. Finally he sent it a check endorsed "John D. Rockefeller." The register got it back from the bank marked "no funds." That won the argument.

SAFEST SAFE OPENED

Owners Hardie J. Sickles and Aubrey Larson left it locked.

Then Jones came back and had a locksmith open it— to get the first dollar he ever earned.

There was group singing of Christmas carols and Mrs. Dean Sneeden presented a Christmas program. Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting.

New Traffic Ordinance Passed By Pike Council

PITTSFIELD — The city council met on Tuesday evening and passed new traffic ordinances—parking on the south side of the square (which is Route 36-54) will be limited to one hour on Mondays through Saturdays from 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.

There will be a five minute parking limit in front of the post office on Madison street for 50 feet north of the intersection of Fayette and Madison streets. Mayor Frank Penstone appointed a lake advisory committee of business men to make recommendations to the council on matters relative to the new lake.

Members are Lee Brace, chairman, Alvin Brant, Kenneth Watson, Dr. Gerald Shaw and Attorney Cecil Burrows. Alderman Bill Lemons was appointed chairman of the gas committee to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Glenn Neese.

The Christmas party for the city officials will be held at the city hall on Friday, Dec. 23, at 4:00 p.m.

PVT. GRIZZLE FROM WHITE HALL AT MISSILE CENTER

FORT SILL, Okla. (AHTNC)—Army Pvt. Stanton E. Grizzle, son of Mr. and Mrs. V. O. Grizzle, Route 2, White Hall, Ill., completed eight weeks of advanced individual training at The Artillery and Missile Center, Fort Sill, Okla., Dec. 9.

Grizzle was trained to service and maintain the 105 millimeter howitzer, a light field-artillery weapon.

The 23-year-old soldier is a 1957 graduate of White Hall high school.

Two Presidents of the United States — Theodore Roosevelt and Woodrow Wilson—were awarded Nobel Peace Prizes.

HERE COMES TAPE

Another Revolution in Home Hi-Fi

By WARD CANNEL

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. — (NEA) —There's another big revolution brewing in home hi-fi. You know, the usual kind that makes everything obsolete—link your stereo machine and all those records.

The new upheaval goes by the old familiar name of tape recorder—with enough added aspects, the industry says, to make it almost unbeatable competition for the record and record-player manufacturers.

And so barely three years after stereo discs and playback machinery forced their way into the American living room.

- Almost every record company is beginning to compete with itself by putting its music library onto tape for home play.
- Adequate tape recorders have dropped in price to where a consumer starting a home music system is faced with a tough decision between disc and tape machinery.
- Pre-recorded tape prices have been cut in half in the past year, putting them within pennies of the price of album music. About 100 new titles are reaching dealers' shelves every month now, compared with the total list of about 100 pre-recorded titles available a year ago.

This information comes from the Ampex Corp. in Redwood City, the company that has probably done as much as anybody to build tape to its present threatening eminence.

But additional testimony comes from a major disc-player manufacturer who admits privately that tape is already driving records off the market. And from one of the big three in the mail order audio business:

"We push record playing equipment, of course. There's a lot of it. But I don't know why people buy it when they can have tape instead."

Now, what stands behind the sales pitch for tape is an old story in audioland:

You can get thousands of plays from a tape and never hear appreciable deterioration of sound. (Four or five plays of a disc make a noticeable difference in fidelity, the sales story goes.)

In addition, there's more sound-storage space on a standard reel of tape than on a standard record. The tape is unaffected by dust, by heat, by cold, by leaning, lying or stacking. And if you don't like what's on your tape, you can erase and re-record. If you want to build your own music library by taping broadcasted entertainment, you're way ahead of the game.

But what is bringing this story right to the living room door has been a concerted tape industry effort and mechanical developments. According to United Stereo Tape, which services record companies by putting their libraries on consumer tape, the price of pre-recorded tape is down to $5 (from about $13) last year. Unrecorded tape is half that.

According to Ampex, which openly is not interested in mass market sales, the average new consumer for tape has never had it so good. He can get adequate tape equipment—including speakers—for upwards of $125. Comparable record - playing equipment would cost him upwards of $75.

Market surveys by the tape industry are tremendously encouraging. The true hi-fi bug generally has a tape deck in his system already. If not, he'll probably buy one before he's finished, for about $480.

The gadgeteer generally has a tape recorder because he likes to record.

The average home listener, the surveys show, is faced with a 50-50 choice between tape and disc if he's studied the merits of both. But where the picture is brighest is among the newest consumer, aged 17 to 21, who is just beginning to build a music library.

Her 'Black Thumb' Creates Landscape Beauty
Artist's Gardens 'Sprout' In Ideas, India Ink

CLEVELAND—(NEA)—". . . And how does your garden grow!"

Certainly not out of a drawing board if you're an average householder. Then, too, you undoubtedly do not use T-square and triangle to till your shrubs and flowers as does Mrs. Paul Ferster, housewife and part-time landscape designer.

Mrs. Ferster combines her drawing skill with an extensive knowledge of plant life to beautify the outdoor surroundings of her friends and neighbors in suburban University Heights.

From avocation to full-scale business in three years is the accomplishment of this husband-wife team. Ferster was a hardware salesman but pressure from friends seeking help with exterior arrangements decided this couple to create landscapes full tilt.

In planning landscapes Mrs. Ferster says she sees the outdoors as a co-ordinated room in which the floor, walls and ceiling—grass, hedges and trees—must be set up first. Then comes the "wallpapering" or planting of flowers.

Odd way to plant flowers and shrubs is with triangle, T-square and drawing board but Mrs. Paul Ferster makes a career of it. Her planned gardens—formal or naturally casual—sprout from her fertile imagination and a facile art talent.

Designing gardens that grow with children intrigues Mrs. Ferster most. Her objective is to plan back yards which grow neater as the children do.

"When children are small, one area may be planted in hardy grass for a play area. As the children grow and require less play area, it can be transformed gradually into a formal rose garden," Mrs. Ferster suggests.

To save on maintenance time and costs she has devised a sunken strip of stone on the edge of beds to eliminate trimming grass by hand. Other savings are achieved by using shrubs instead of large beds of flowers and planting myrtle and ivy which are more weed-resistant than grass.

Caring for her family—son, daughter, and husband — comes first. Her other "loves" are flower arranging and reading poetry and essays.

These interests have continued since her graduation from Western Reserve University with an English major and fine arts as a minor. Little did she realize in her student days that shrubs and trees and flowers someday would "sprout" from her drawing board.

THE DREXEL

Communist Party U.S.A. To Enter Local Elections

By RAY CROMLEY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—On Nov. 22, immediately after the presidential election, the American Communist party sent a secret letter to all Communist districts in the United States.

It asked for detailed technical information on how to go about running candidates in local city elections—the requirements for getting on the ballot, the dates when signatures must be collected for putting names on the ballot, whether the elections are partisan or non-partisan.

That information was requested in time for the national committee meeting of the Communist party, U. S. A., in New York City in January, probably sometime around the 21st.

The letter carries the typed "signature" of Phil Bart, National Organizational Secretary of the Communist party, U.S.A. Under Gus Hall, Bart is the Communist party's national executive assistant—the party's man for making certain that decisions are carried out.

HALL: Pulls a string

BART: And he bounces

Communist letters frequently carry a typed name. The letter is a first step in the Communist party U.S.A. election drive for 1961. Strategy and tactics will be decided at the New York meeting.

Three proposals will be presented:

1. That the Communist party U.S.A. put its major political drive for 1961 into infiltrating local school boards and the local governments which control school boards.

This proposal reportedly has wide popular support among Communist leaders. It fits in closely with Gus Hall's thesis that to gain in power, the party must make a drive on youth.

Hall has been cracking the whip on party workers, insisting that more youth groups be organized, getting Communists to approach their young friends and relatives, pushing Red speakers before college and university groups. A Red magazine, "New Horizons for Youth," was started in October. It is edited by Daniel Rubin, national youth director of the Communist party U. S. A.

A national conference of "progressive" youth is scheduled for Chicago, Dec. 31, 1960-Jan. 1, 1961, to establish a committee to organize a "national socialist-oriented" youth organization.

2. That the Communist party U.S.A. openly run candidates publicly wearing the Communist label in some local elections.

This is more controversial. For some time there have been strong complaints among lowerlevel Communist leaders in some of the big cities—New York, Detroit, Cleveland, San Francisco, Los Angeles—that the Communist party U.S.A. must get out in the open and run its own men. This formerly was done on occasion in New York and on the West Coast, for example. So far as is known, it hasn't been done recently.

The local Communist leaders in the forefront of this movement have reported to Communist national headquarters that if the Communist national leaders want them to grow, they must build around publicly-known figures. This means open public candidates.

Some high Red leaders, however, figure the time isn't ripe. They believe the Communists will do better if they continue to stay in the background. They favor another proposal:

3. That the Communist party U.S.A. vigorously encourage "sympathetic" candidates to run for the local offices, whether these men are Communists or not. And that the party vigorously step up organization of local Communists units to make this drive effective in as many places as possible.

In some areas there will likely be encouragement for local Communists to infiltrate the Democratic and Republican local organizations, in an attempt to influence the nomination of "favorable" candidates. In some areas there is pressure for joint fronts.

This disagreement over the best method could end in tailoring different tactics for different areas. But there is wide-spread agreement on the thesis the Communist party U.S.A. and its units drive vigorously to win the nomination and units to make this drive effective election of favorable candidates in city and county governments—especially in the major industrial areas in the United States.

Rockefeller Brothers Have Proved Foreign Aid Pays With Their Point Four Program

NEW YORK (AP)—The Rockefeller brothers, five chips off old John D., have proved that foreign aid can be profitable.

With their private Point Four program, they have raised living standards for millions of people in other countries. And they have done it with the ideology they know best: a hard-headed, soft-hearted capitalism.

The principal agent of their good intentions is the many-tentacled International Basic Economy Corp., which reaches into 18 countries and the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico.

Begun as a Latin American venture, it has spread around the globe. It has:

1. Lowered food prices in Venezuela, Puerto Rico and parts of Italy and Peru.

2. Built more than 7,000 low and medium-cost homes, mostly in Puerto Rico.

3. Made pasteurized milk a common commodity in Venezuela.

4. Increased corn yields in Brazil through distribution of hybrid seed corn.

5. Organized mutual investment funds in Brazil and Colombia that have lured savings out of mattresses and into the economy.

6. Helped finance a rolling mill in Mexico, an automotive plant in Brazil, and mining operations in Southern Rhodesia.

But these accomplishments are not the result of any of the many Rockefeller philanthropies.

"When we are philanthropic," says R. W. Purcell, chairman of the IBEC board, "it simply means that somebody has made a mistake."

Since IBEC pulled out of the red in 1957, there have been few mistakes. Consolidated net income was $724,531 in 1958 and $2,008,837 in 1959. For the first nine months of this year it was $2,902,880.

Individual members of the Rockefeller family have invested money overseas: Nelson has his experimental farms in Venezuela. Lawrence in Puerto Rico.

But IBEC is their big, cooperative venture.

The brothers—John D. III, Nelson, Winthrop Laurance and David—are the third-generation caretakers of the Rockefeller millions, grandsons of John D., the great financier, and sons of John D. Jr., the great philanthropist.

Nelson outlined the IBEC plan to his brothers in 1947 when he came home from Washington. He had just served five years as President Roosevelt's trouble-shooter in Latin America.

His brothers bought his theory that if an American company could operate at a profit in a country in such basic fields as food and housing, it would attract competition. Others, particularly nationals of that country, would make similar investments, and the economy would benefit.

"We initiate projects that are generally a little too bold or too different for local investors," says Vice President Wallace D. Bradford, who has been with IBEC almost from its inception 13 years ago. "But where we're successful others soon follow."

The president is gangly, W. B. Dixon Stroud, who has a boyish enthusiasm at the moment for chickens. One of IBEC's newest ventures, the chicken deal shows how it operates.

IBEC has combined its expert know-how with the hen-house knowledge of Arbor Acres of Glastonbury, Conn., a leading producer of broiler breeding stock. In partnership they will peddle day-old breeding chickens to feed companies in Colombia, Venezuela and Argentina. The companies will sell the next generation of well-bred chicks to farmers.

Later IBEC will branch out into egg production.

Investment ideas come IBEC's way from several directions—some times from a pipe dream in the home office high in the tower at 30 Rockefeller Plaza, some time from agents in the field, sometimes from a national of a country that needs help.

"There are only two requirements," says Bradford. "It must be something that will aid the economy of the country and raise the standard of living, and it has to be a sound business investment."

Charles Lutwidge Dodgson wrote under the pen name of Lewis Carroll. Dodgson, author of "Alice in Wonderland," was an Anglican deacon and mathematics teacher, the son of an Anglican priest.

LEGION AUXILIARY AT HARDIN GIVES CHRISTMAS PARTY

Mrs. C. ester Knight conducted the Auxiliary meeting, in the absence of Mrs. Howard Devine, unit president. The unit voted to help with the Heart Fund Drive in February, as it has done in former years, and plans were made to assist a local family at Christmas. Officers of the unit were presented with Christmas gifts.

Only trade-marked flowers in the United States are Colorado carnations.

We're wishing you a Yuletide Season just full of good things. And may all the days to follow be filled with the same carefree, good spirited happiness.

Blaze Destroys Large Home In Jersey County

JERSEYVILLE—Fire destroyed the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Scott in western Jersey county about one mile south of Nutwood, Wednesday morning.

The house is situated on what was known years ago as the Grant Thompson farm and now owned by Pearl Scott of the Fieldon locality.

The origin of the fire was not determined, but may have resulted from a defective flue. Fire department units from Hardin, Fieldon and Jerseyville arrived and fought the blaze in the prevailing zero weather, Wednesday morning.

Temperatures in the western Jersey and Calhoun area early Wednesday morning were reported to have ranged as low as two degrees below zero.

Practically all of the furniture on the first floor of the dwelling was saved, but all of the upstairs furniture could not be removed, as the fire spread rapidly. The farm house was a large one with eight principal rooms and was built for a home a number of years ago by the late Grant Thompson who served for many years on the Jersey County Board of Supervisors.

CHURCH DRIVING

HELSINKI, Finland (AP)— At the suggestion of bishops of the Finnish National Church (Lutheran), candidates for a driver's license in this country now receive a pamphlet from the church urging them to drive in a responsible way.
